DECLARATION OF ABAGAIL ZEVIAR
Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746

I, Abigail Zeviar, have personal knowledge of the facts and matters set forth below. If called as a witness, I could and would testify as follows:

1. My name is Abigail Zeviar. I am sixty years old and I live in Sacramento, California. I am retired.

2. At the end of March 2020 I was furloughed because of the Covid-19 pandemic. During my approximately five-week furlough, I did not receive a paycheck from work and had to apply for unemployment benefits.

3. In approximately April 2020, while I was still furloughed, I was online watching a YouTube video and I saw an advertisement for an online trading service called Bullseye Trades. Someone named Jeff Bishop ran the service. I clicked on the advertisement and this led me to another video about the Bullseye Trades service. This was an options trading service. Jeff Bishop talked about the enormous profits he was making trading options, and he said his service was very easy to use. He said he would do all the work analyzing what options to pick and send out alerts once a week on Mondays telling us what trade he was making and the price at which he was going to buy and sell. He said all his subscribers have to do is copy the trade he was making and we could make money just like him. I had heard about options trading, but not enough to be comfortable making my own choices on trades. This service sounded good to me because Jeff was going to tell us what trades to make, and when to buy and sell. I purchased the service for approximately $600.

4. Once I signed up for Bullseye Trades, I started to receive emails from the company that owns the service, RagingBull.com, LLC (“Raging Bull”). The company was very aggressive with its marketing and I received many marketing emails promoting Raging Bull’s other trading services. Attached as Attachment A are true and correct copies of examples of marketing emails I received.

5. One email I received after I signed up advertised a service by someone named Kyle Dennis. The service was called Dollar Ace. It sounded interesting and I wanted to learn more about it. I watched what was advertised as a live presentation of Kyle Dennis. As described below, Kyle explained how Dollar Ace worked and the benefits.

6. In this video presentation, Kyle presented himself as a young, self-made millionaire who made his millions trading. He said that he had received a college degree, but it was useless. Kyle talked about his own enormous profits trading, but also had testimonials from other subscribers who made large profits trading with him.

7. Kyle said that his foolproof method is a scanner that identifies small dollar value options (hence the name “Dollar Ace”) that are trading in large volumes, often indicating some kind of insider information that is causing high activity. He pitched this as an options trading service where he would show his subscribers his live trading account so they could watch what he was trading while he was making the trades, and text his subscribers real-time options trades that they could duplicate with their own options trading account. He said that he was making money hand over fist and he had a magic formula that he would show his subscribers to help grow their accounts.

8. Kyle emphasized that we did not need to have any experience in options trading, he was promoting this for people who had small accounts, and trading would only take 10 minutes per day. Specifically, he pitched it heavily as a service for beginners, but mentioned he has video lessons to watch if necessary. He said if you have a small account, you can build it up quickly and easily with this service and turn a little money into millions. He also said that you only need 10 minutes a day to be successful with this service. Kyle stressed that we would not have to spend a lot of time watching the market.

9. Kyle also said that it does not matter if it is a bull or bear market because this service works in any kind of market and he can make money in either market. He stressed that he knew how to trade options and he would do all the work for us. During the video, he talked about his enormous profits using this service and there were other people writing in the chat box on the side of the video stating they made money too. One person wrote that they just made $2,000 the day before. I thought this service sounded like a better fit for me than Bullseye Trades and I thought it would be great if I could build up my account. I also knew that I did not want to day trade because I believed that I would be going back to work in the near future.

10. On April 27, I purchased Dollar Ace for $2499. I purchased because of the promise of the live alerts. I normally work a full time job and do not have time to sit in front of a computer all day. Kyle promised that he would do all the work, place his trade and text his subscribers the exact trade so we can duplicate it. I paid by credit card. He advertised that there was a trial period, so I thought there was little risk. For $2499, Kyle promised live real time trade alerts, trades that could be duplicated, a chat room and access to the live feed of his scanner that alerts him to potential trades. Attached as Attachment B is a true and correct copy of my invoice from Raging Bull. It indicates that there is a trial period on the invoice.

11. I purchased the service on a Thursday or Friday, but I was not able to try out the alerts until the following Monday. I was ready on Monday morning with my TD Ameritrade account open. Kyle texted three different trades. I immediately went in and attempted to make the exact same trades. On each and every one, the trades no longer existed for the prices Kyle alerted on. However, on his live portfolio, it showed that he was making money. I believe that because the types of trades he is making are on extremely low dollar amount options, the prices change very quickly and it is very difficult to get in at the price he alerts to his subscribers. It is also important to sell the option at the correct time, but by the time the text came that he sold, the price was not the same as the alert, and my window of opportunity to make money had passed. I was not actually able to make any of the trades Kyle made.

12. In Kyle's video presentation, he said over and over again that you only needed 10 minutes per day and anyone with a small account could use the service. But, this was not true. I waited for him to tell me when to get in and out of the trade and I did not get the alerts in time to make the same trades. I sat in front of my computer, even though that is not what he said we would have to do, and I still could not make the same trades. I knew that if I could not do this when I was sitting in front of my computer waiting for the trades, I would not be able to do it when I was back to work after my furlough ended. In Kyle's video presentation, he specifically said he would do all the work, he would alert us to the trade, and we could duplicate his trade. He stressed that we do not have to sit in front of our computer all day.

13. I called Raging Bull customer service to complain and the person told me that I could watch Kyle's scanner running live throughout the day and make my own trades instead of relying on the live alerts. However, I told the customer service representative I cannot sit and watch his stock scanner all day because I have a full time job, and that is not what he told us in the video presentation. Kyle sold me the service based on the live alerts. I told the representative that I would never have purchased the service if I knew I had to sit in front of a computer all day.

14. I then asked the representative for a refund and he told me there were no refunds. I told him that I only purchased the service three business days ago and I just tried it for the first time that day. I believed I should have been able to get out of any contract within three days. Kyle said on the video that there was a trial period and I thought that I should be within that trial period since I just purchased a few days before. The customer service representative would not give me a refund, but instead tried to sell me on a different service, Total Alpha. I told him that I did not trust Raging Bull any longer and did not want any of the services. If Kyle is making millions as he claims, I do not understand why Raging Bull cannot refund my money.

15. Kyle made the trial period sound like it was risk free, but he was vague on the specifics, and repeated that we would love the service so much, that we would not want to cancel. However, when I looked at the fine print of the trial period after I purchased, it said that if you do not like the service after thirty days, you can choose a different service, but nothing about a refund.

16. On April 30, 2020, I made a complaint with the Better Business Bureau so that other potential customers could see what happened to me.

17. I called a few more times and the Raging Bull representatives gave me the runaround. I contacted my bank to start the chargeback process. I decided to dispute only the charge for Dollar Ace since I never used Bullseye Trades. After that, I received a call from Raging Bull and the representative tried to give me another service and tried to convince me to drop the chargeback.

18. On June 22, 2020, Justus, from Raging Bull, emailed me and said he noticed that I had disputed a charge and wanted to make sure that everything was alright with my purchase. He told me that “if the dispute was a mistake, you could easily withdraw it by calling the number on the back of your credit card.” I responded by telling him “I tried immediately to cancel the Dollar Ace subscription once I realized what it really was. In my opinion Kyle did not accurately describe what it was. He was selling it as something that would take an easy 10 minutes of your day and was designed for someone with a smaller account to help rebuild it after the crash. This is absolutely not true and I don’t want to go over all the same points I have made to you guys already twice when I had someone on the phone. I simply requested a refund within 3 days of signing up...I am a 60 year old woman who lost a bunch of money in the crash and I cannot afford more loss.” Attached as Attachment C is a true and correct copy of the email exchange.

19. Bank of America granted me a chargeback and I received the money back that I paid for the Dollar Ace subscription. However, Raging Bull disputed the decision to grant me the chargeback and told Bank of America that I was currently using the subscription. Bank of America then put the charge back on my credit card. Raging Bull lied to Bank of America because I have not used the subscription since the first day I logged in and realized that I could not make the same trades that Kyle was making. In addition, I am no longer receiving any text alerts or emails from the Dollar Ace subscription. I am currently talking to Bank of America about this issue and will be providing information to support my position.

20. Kyle said we were in tough times and he wants to help people make money, but I believe Raging Bull seeks to take advantage of people who are at their lowest with the market downturn.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Maybe you're still skeptical.

Eh... With Jeff's track record and the enormous amount of proof he's shown you, that just can't be the case.

So maybe you're worried that High Octane doesn't check all the boxes for you.

Concerned about growing your small account?

He's been there! He started trading with just a puny $2,000 to his name.

He developed High Octane as a service capable of growing nearly ANY sized account... Big or small.

In fact, he expects you to be able to get into a vast majority of his trades for less than $1,000.

No experience?

No problem. He has 22 years of experience under his belt, he's minted millionaire traders, and he's ready to guide you in the right direction every step of the way.

No time?

Holla! This one resonates with me.

But with High Octane, all you have to worry about is THREE trades per week, with 100%+ profit targets.

30 minutes a day should do the trick.

And I'm sure all of you have 30 minutes to spare to make some money...

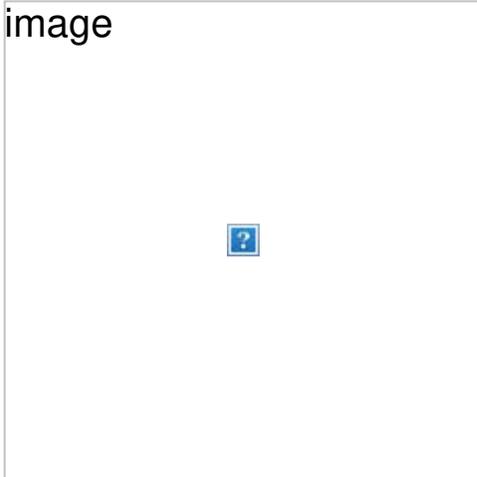

But you're running out of time as we speak.

This limited time training session won't last forever.

Jeff is prepared to teach you how to apply his High Octane System,

Subject: Why This Stock Could Double In Less Than 30 Days

RagingBull Elite

I've just received an urgent message from Kyle Dennis. He is about to pull the trigger on what he believes can be his biggest catalyst trade of the year.

Why should you care?

Because Kyle made over $2.3M in trading profits so far in 2020*, primarily from trading catalyst situations like the one you're about to hear about.

Dear Abigail,

My feet are tapping the floor as I'm writing this...

No... I'm not nervous.

In fact, the contrary.

I believe I've unlocked my next monster trade...

...a trade which potentially doubles or even triples my investment within the next thirty days or less.

I'll explain to you why timing is so critical in just a moment.

But first, allow me to tell you more about this opportunity and how to get your hands on my latest Sniper Report Alert.

It involves two of the most influential figures in Hollywood and Entertainment.

Combined they have +265M social media followers (just from Facebook and Twitter) and a net worth of $3 billion.

And together, I believe they are about to disrupt the $4.5T global wellness economy.

But that's not all.

These A-list celebs aren't just paid spokespeople...

They are (significant) shareholders in this small-cap company...

... the subject of my latest Sniper Report...

I'm actually shocked that shares are trading at such a discount.

After all, this company just tweaked its business model...

They've made two key decisions that most of Wall Street is overlooking.

They've shifted from a small niche in the health space and now encompass a broader audience focused on overall wellness.

This increases their potential market by more than 10-fold. And having star power behind them, makes me believe they can start taking market share quickly.

The firm already has millions of digital subscribers. However, as it expands its product and service lines, I really do believe there is substantial growth here. Especially if star celebs send out tweets and Instagram posts—bringing awareness to them.

And that's the thing...

My latest Sniper Report Alert is set to release quarterly earnings in less than 30 days.

Based on the recent options activity I've seen (bullish)...

I believe someone is betting it pre-releases some of its digital subscription numbers...

I also believe those numbers will be strong... and send the stock soaring higher.

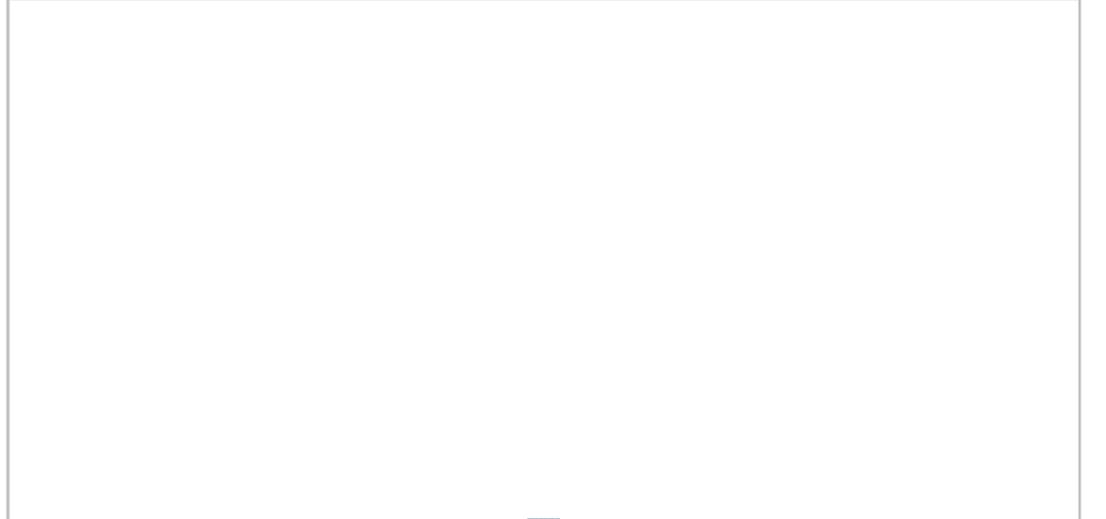

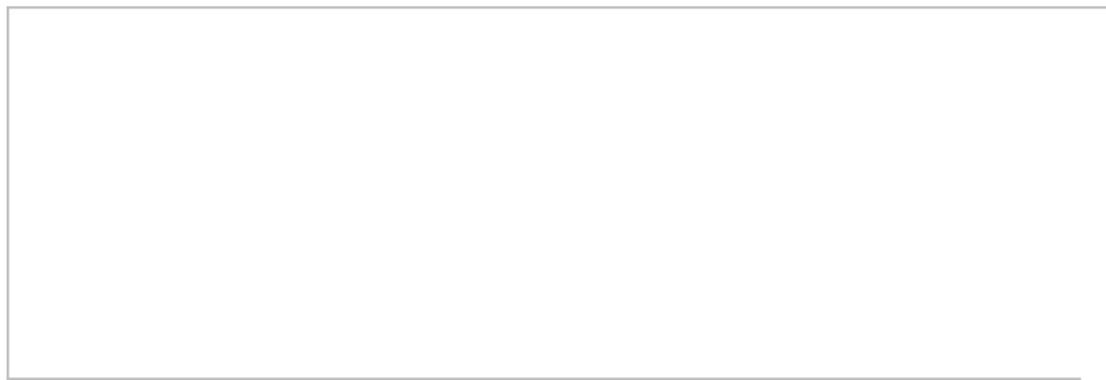

Now is the time to get in, and potentially ride shares up leading into the earnings event.

It has all the recipes of being a big winner...

And if there is one thing I've done in 2020...

...score large gains* ...

Now, I'm looking to pull the trigger on this very shortly...

This stock has a history of running  wild, and I'd like to get in it before it moves.

If you want the full details on how I intend to trade this pick and a real-time trade alert...

Along with my brand new Sniper Report—subscribe now.

Personally, I think this is a no-brainer.

And if you want to ensure you receive my special alert—make sure you're subscribed to Sniper Report.

I'll try my best to get you more information about the trade...

But I wanted to get something out to you now, just in case, there is no second chance.

Like I said, I don't want the company to pre-announce numbers early, or some analyst firm comes out and gives them a bullish recommendation—before I'm in the trade.

And with earnings around the corner, I believe we'll hear more people talking about this stock...

That's why I want to get in now...If you want in, make sure you're subscribed to the Sniper Report.

Now, when you join Sniper Report you'll not only receive this special alert, but you'll also gain access to:

- 12-months of my highest conviction catalyst-swing trade ideas
- A real-time look at my portfolio stream
- My entire trading academy and training lessons.

But as much as I would love to tell you that you have time—the market waits for no one.

I will be announcing this play any day now.

Get instant access to my alert as soon as it drops.

I'm not kidding when I say it can double in a few short weeks (or even more if you decide to play it with options).

And you know what else?

I didn't reach $9M in trading profits by sitting on the sidelines.*

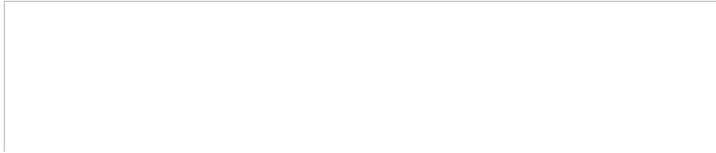

When the market gives me a favorable opportunity I take it.

That's how I've built my wealth.

Of course, I can't place trades for you.

It's on you to decide..

The clock is ticking.

Kyle Dennis

P.S. The last time I had a high conviction swing trade idea like this one was on June 8th, the stock was OPK, a position which has gained more than 46% in less than a month*. Don't miss my next Sniper Alert, it could be massive.

Hey Abigail,

After over 20 years trading the market...

And time spent educating traders for nearly 8...

I've been around the block, and I know what people want.

IT'S NOT:

-Spending multiple hours trading every day

-Taking over 20 trades a week

-Monitoring positions non-stop

Ain't nobody got time for that!

Now, I'm going to say something I maybe shouldn't.

Hope to see you there!

Turning to our Bullseye tip of the week, I've gotten a few questions lately about when to exit a trade. Say, perhaps, a call option where the underlying stock is moving in the right direction, but the constant bleed-out of implied volatility is throwing haymakers at your P/L anyway. (Stern side-eye at MDB -- the real pro tip was to steal Rick's spread trade!)

But since we've recently covered position entry in such loving detail, it seems only right that today we talk about a couple of different ways to approach position exits.

Of course, as with all things in trading, the choices you make will ultimately be down to your own personal preferences and risk tolerance -- but here are a couple of pro-level trade plan possibilities to give you a running start on finding your own stop zones.

Subject: Sniper Alert Dropping

Kyle Dennis just sent out this important message. He's about to pull the trigger on what he believes can be his biggest catalyst trade of the year.

A stock he believes can more than double within the next few weeks.

Kyle made nearly $10M in career trading profits*, primarily from trading catalyst situations like the one he's going to share below.

Dear Abigail,

They say past performance is not indicative of future results...

So let's forget that I've made over $2,300,000 over the last six months.

And I'm nearing $10M in career trading profits.

Let's just focus on the opportunity at hand.

I'm about to pull the trigger on a health and wellness stock that could bring back...

$2 to $3 For Every $1 I Invest

The catalyst?

Earnings.

The company is set to release in less than four weeks.

However, every month they've issued a press release.

Alternate text

I'm expecting a press release for July at any moment now.

And if it's anything like what they reported last month, it could be enough to send the stock skyrocketing higher.

I think Wall Street is grossly underestimating the work the company has done to get in tune with the new stay at home economy.

Moreover, they've recruited two of the most famous people on the planet to help them get the brand name out there.

Not only do I believe there is huge upside near term, but I also feel like this stock could reward investors for years to come.

Honestly, it feels like a no-brainer to me.

That's why I'm set to pull the trigger very soon.

And you know what?

You're going to miss it.

Last time I had a special Sniper Report Alert, the stock surged by more than 50% in less than a month...

Heck, traders are still tweeting to me about it*....

Alternate text

Alternate text

Could my next Sniper Alert be even bigger and better?

Maybe...

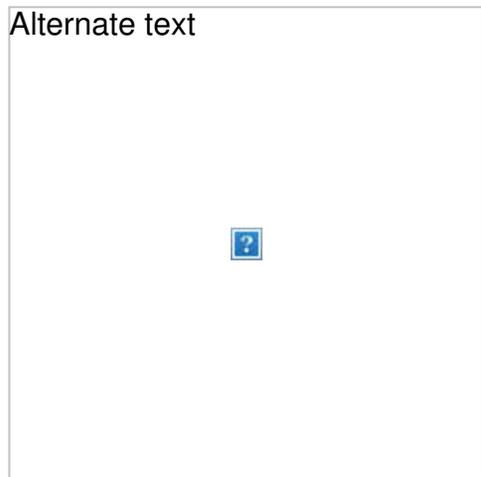

But does it even matter, if you're gonna miss it?
Don't play the woulda...coulda...shoulda game.

Sniper Alert is dropping soon.

If you wait any longer, this opportunity could be gone.

Don't put this off for another second.

Get In Now.

Kyle Dennis

Abigail,

Thanks for getting back to me.

As far as the refund goes, we are no longer in the hands of that since you have disputed the charge. It is now ultimately up to the bank. However, you bought this service for a reason, whether that was to learn the stock market from a beginners standpoint, have been trading on your own with some success and need some help on new strategies, focus on retirement or supplementing your income- RagingBull is here to help guide you in the right direction towards those life alerting goals. If Bullseye Trades was not a good fit, we do offer a variety of service and I'd be happy to find a service that would be a great fit!

All the best,

Justus

Hello Justus,

I tried immediately to cancel the Dollar Ace subscription once I realized what it really was. In my opinion Kyle did not accurately describe what it was. He was selling it as something that would take an easy 10 minutes of your day and was designed for someone with a smaller account to help rebuild it after the crash. This is absolutely not true and I don't want to go over all the same points I have made to you guys already twice when I had someone on the phone. I simply requested a refund within 3 days of signing up. Yes, there was a weekend in there pushing it to 5 days but I could not reach you on a weekend so that is irrelevant. Bank of America has removed the charge from my card and I hope that you guys will just let this drop and let me move on with my life. I am a 60 year old woman who lost a bunch of money in the crash and I cannot afford more loss. PLEASE consider this a closed issue. I do not have any interest in any of your other products. It is not for me. I did not dispute my other subscription with you guys but I will not be renewing it in the future. I just want to move on from this. Your company is probably great for young guys who want to tweak out in front of their computers half the day but once again, not for me.

Thank you,
Abigail Zeviar

Hello there,

Justus from RagingBull reaching out to you today. How is everything going?

I noticed that you disputed a charge from us recently. We wanted to reach out and make sure everything was all right with your purchase and see if there's anything we can do to resolve any problems you might have had.

Alternatively, if the dispute was a mistake, you could easily withdraw it by calling the number on the back of your credit card. Thanks so much -- we really appreciate your business and look forward to working with you!
Reach out shortly,

DECLARATION OF ALAN ADELSON
Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746

I, Alan Adelson, have personal knowledge of the facts and matters set forth below. If called as a witness, I could and would testify as follows:

1. My name is Alan Adelson. I am over the age of twenty-one and I live in Jacksonville, Florida.

2. I am retired, but from about 1970 to 1995 I worked as a stock broker for various companies, including Lehman Brothers.

3. I first heard of RagingBull.com LLC (“Raging Bull”) in March 2017.

4. In approximately March 2017, I was on the Internet and watched a video presentation about a service called JasonBondPicks. Jason Bond, the presenter, said he has made millions trading in the stock market and he has a service where he sends out stock alerts. I decided to subscribe to the newsletter called JasonBondPicks. I believe the subscription was free.

5. I received a welcome email on March 2, 2017. The email said that I would receive a stock watchlist (stocks he is keeping his eye on), trade alerts (“showing you where I’m currently putting my money”), and video lessons that were supposed to reveal Bond’s trading methods and techniques. The email said that Jason Bond was offering these services for free because he wants subscribers “to see firsthand how and why my proven trading process could potentially maximize your trading profits...in record time!” The email also said “You’re here because you want to become a winning stock trader. You want to make more money from your trades. You want to take your life to the next level. And you don’t want to make costly mistakes. So that’s why I’m here to teach you my proven strategy, while providing you with the tools you need to make it happen.” The email is signed, “Trading Up, Jason Bond Your millionaire stock trading mentor (emphasis in original).” The email contained a postscript that said “In my next email, you’ll see how a former gym teacher made $11,202 in only 4 days. I promise you’re going to like this case study.” The bottom of the email says that “RagingBull.com, LLC” is the publisher of JasonBondPicks. Attached as Attachment A is a true and correct copy of this email.

6. At the same time I signed up for the JasonBondPicks newsletter, I believe I also signed up for another service called Biotech Breakouts. Kyle Dennis was the co-founder and Director of Biotech Breakouts, and I believe that it was a part of Raging Bull. I do not recall whether or not I paid for this service. On March 2, 2017, I received a welcome email from Kyle Dennis. The email states in part, “So get ready! In the coming days, I’m going to be sending you actionable insights, strategies and key information about the system I personally used to turn a small $15,000 investment into more than $1,700,000 in less than 5 years. And guess what? I’m going to show you how I went from a broke college student to a self-made millionaire by the age of 25...and how I did that without setting foot on Wall Street.” The email also said “I make a ‘killing’ trading stocks from my home office...” and “when I’m done trading for the day, I go outside, throw down the top of my new Porsche Cabriolet, and take some time to enjoy the beautiful sights and sounds of Southern California.” Kyle then says “Well, in my next email, I’m going to show you the facts and figures behind my meteoric rise to self-made millionaire status. You’ll be amazed when you see how I did it so quickly!” Attached as Attachment B is a true and correct copy of this email.

7. I received many daily emails after I subscribed to the two newsletters. I received real time trade alerts over email, frequent updates on Jason Bond’s profits, and emails about upcoming webinars and new products and services offered by Raging Bull.

8. On March 23, 2017, I received an email from JasonBondPicks with the subject line, “$43,000 profit for me, Petra’s webinar TONIGHT & Thursday’s watch list.” The email stated, “SNAP, crackle, pop! $22,000 profit for me on SNAP Wednesday, 172% on the options and another 10% on the shares. ALL from my IPHONE. I’ve made $43,000 this week in the Millionaire Roadmap from the Great Wolf Lodge.” The email also advertised a new service called PetraPicks.com. The email claimed it was “the ideal system for people who work full time jobs, mothers working from home, or anyone who just can’t be tied to the computer all day to watch the market tick-by-tick.” I watched the webinar, but I did not purchase that service. Sometime later, I read that Petra had been fired for something illegal and it was brought up to Raging Bull. Attached as Attachment C is a true and correct copy of the email.

9. On March 27, 2017, I received an email from Jason Bond about a webinar in the chat room to be held that evening. The email also stated, “as you know I’m avg. $2,300 a day right now trading part time. That’s about 134% or $134,000 in 2017.” The email also contains a screenshot from his cellphone showing profits and losses from particular trades. The screenshot shows that he is positive $21,610.90. Attached as Attachment D is a true and correct copy of the email.

10. I do not remember if I used these two services. I also do not recall if I paid for the services. I reached out to Raging Bull in June 2020 to see what information they had on my subscriptions, and the customer service department could not find any paid subscriptions for me from 2017. Likewise, I could not find any charges on my credit card statements.

11. Between January 2019 and June 2019, I purchased several services from Raging Bull. I recall watching video presentations moderated by the experts who ran the different services and they each talked about how they made millions trading, and their customers were successful and made a lot of money using the different services. One feature of all of their services is live real time alerts. Based on their presentations, I believed that the customers who signed up for Raging Bull’s services had made a ton of money. I wanted to do the same.

12. On January 30, 2019, I received an email from Jeff Bishop at Raging Bull about Weekly Money Multiplier. The subject line stated “She Quadrupled a Small Account.” At the top of the email, it said “$6,900 to $29,000 in just 5 weeks.” He then stated that since the presentation he has been flooded with questions on account size. He emphasized that this service is for small and large accounts alike. Then he highlighted one of his subscribers who he claimed took an account of $6,900 to $29,000 in just 5 weeks when she started working with him. The email had a screenshot of what appeared to be a trading account showing positive results in 4 days. Jeff also said, “Small account?...No Problem! Busy Schedule?...Say no more! Easy to follow?...Absolutely!” At the bottom Jeff wrote, “This one-time deal is not lasting long. It’s your Golden Ticket.” Attached as Attachment E is a true and correct copy of the email.

13. I received another email on January 30, 2019 with the subject line “$9k in extra income.” There were a few testimonials in the email. One stated, “I work full time and do ALL my trading on my phone.” Another stated, “so I can’t watch the charts all day. And the stress was giving me headaches...Thanks for doing this! Being in DIS calls, I sold for $9k+.” The email also says that Jeff Bishop will detail the trade, tell us when he is buying and why he is buying and then text and email real time trade alerts. Jeff specifically stated, “All that’s required from you is a paragraph of reading and to press a few buttons. Seems easy, right?” Attached as Attachment F is a true and correct copy of the email.

14. On January 31, 2019, I received another email from Jeff Bishop about Weekly Money Multiplier. The subject line said “Year’s Salary in 1 Trade.” The top of the email said “$91,000 and 284%.” Then the email said, “I promise that you can see these results. Problem is, most don’t give themselves the fighting chance.” The email also contained a screenshot of a trading screen from a phone that shows he made $91,000 on a trade. At the bottom of the screenshot it says “I want you at this level, but I’ll be honest... You probably have zero chance if you don’t join me. Here’s your first warning. Tomorrow at midnight, my deal is off the table (emphasis in the original).” Attached as Attachment G is a true and correct copy of the email.

15. I decided to purchase Weekly Money Multiplier on January 31, 2019 for $1497. I believed that I would receive real time text and email alerts, access to Jeff’s live portfolio (his trading portfolio where he was making his real money trades for everyone to watch), and access to video education materials. Jeff’s marketing pitch was very convincing. I believed it when he told me he was very successful and a millionaire trader. Of course I wanted to follow him. I also liked that he was going to show his live portfolio so I could see what he was doing. I purchased because the profits he talked about were exceptional, and I loved the idea of getting the real time trade alerts so I could follow him and make the same profits.

16. After my purchase of Weekly Money Multiplier, I received a welcome email from Jeff Bishop telling me my account was active and that my credit card would process through Raging Bull, the publisher of the service. The email also stated that my account was located at app.ragingbull.com/member. Attached as Attachment H is a true and correct copy of the email.

17. When I signed up, I was supposed to receive a special deal of an extra three months, but it was not listed on my subscription page. In addition, I signed up because Jeff told us that he would post new trade positions (alerts) via text message, but I was not receiving any. I could also not find the dates on his opening positions on the live portfolio page. I emailed Raging Bull customer service and I received an email from someone named Michael who told me that the sales alerts will be sent to my phone when Jeff makes the trade and I will also receive an email. He also said that the live portfolio does not always show the entry dates for specific trades. Attached as Attachment I is a true and correct copy of the email.

18. On February 11, 2019, I emailed customer service again asking, “Why does it take so long, neither email or text were received?” Allen at Raging Bull responded by saying, “Jeff doesn’t alert Every trade. The portfolio has all his positions streaming live, but not every trade is alerted, mainly due to the fact that some may be quick day trades that are too fast.” Attached as Attachment J is a true and correct copy of the email.

19. I received email alerts from Jeff in February and March 2019 about the trades he was making and the profits he made from those trades. Attached as Attachment K are true and correct copies of a few of these emails.

20. In March 2019, I received emails from Raging Bull about a webinar called, “Turn your Trading Around and Supercharge it.” On approximately March 7, I registered for the webinar. In the registration email, it stated, “Supplemental income, working from home, being your own boss, setting your own ceiling...The sky’s the limit.” The email also stated, “I’ve identified ONE KEY COMPONENT that is the driving factor behind your success and I intend to showcase it this coming Tuesday.” It further states, “Once you understand it, your profits can be instantly amplified. Don’t believe me? Well in 7 years of trading, I’m now on pace to crush any yearly performance I've had. In 2019, I've already grown my account about 150% and I don't plan on slowing down. So make sure you add this event to your calendar, because this one hour is the most important hour of your year and I'll make sure of it." Attached as Attachment L is a true and correct copy of the registration email.

21. I watched a webinar for a service called Millionaire Roadmap, another Raging Bull subscription by Jason Bond. This service included trading options and stocks, including penny stocks. Jason Bond talked about his trading successes, and that he is a millionaire trader. He said that the service is for beginners, and subscribers do not need to have experience. Also, subscribers can see the trades as they are being made. We would receive real time alerts so that we could follow the trades and make the same trades at the same time. Again, this appealed to me because I could receive the alerts in real time and be able to make trades no matter where I was at the time. Jason Bond said that he made $200,000 in one week and I thought that this was incredible. That is a year's salary for some people.

22. I decided to join the Millionaire Roadmap service because the profits he was claiming he made were extraordinary. In addition, with the real time alerts, I felt like I could make the same profits he was making. I paid $1499 for the service and my statement said it was processed under the name "jasonbondpicks.com." I received a welcome email and a contract that I had to sign. Attached as Attachment M are true and correct copies of the email and contract.

23. I tried to follow the real time alerts because that is what drew me to the services in the first place. Alerts were absolutely essential for me so that I could trade even while I was traveling, without needing to spend time carefully scrutinizing every stock or following its daily news. However, I lost money while following the alerts from both services while the experts claimed they were making money trading the same stocks. In fact, they claimed they were making a fortune and sometimes sent 15-20 alerts in one day. It was impossible for me to make all the trades that they alerted on because of time and money. I typically would try approximately 3-5 trades of the alerts I received.

24. On April 9, 2019, I received an email from support@ragingbull.com about a new program by another Raging Bull expert named Jeff Williams. He was going to discuss a program called Profit Prism. The email stated in part, “He’s going to show you exactly how you’re able to grow your account quickly!...in just 10 minutes per day!” Attached as Attachment N is a true and correct copy of the email. This service was promoted for people who had small accounts.

25. I received an email on April 11, 2019 from Jason Bond that stated in part, “Recently, after making $276,000 real-money profits just 2-months into 2019, I retired trading real-money for now so I could coach full time and really help clients start winning more.” Then the email states that Jason started the Milestones Initiative and is announcing five clients who made profits. Apparently, all these clients made between $80,000 and $177,000 in profits under the Millionaire roadmap program. Jason also introduced a new expert joining Raging Bull, Taylor Conway. He said that he turned $10,000 into $1.8 million and in 2019 he made $465,000 in trading profits in just two months. Jason then said, “Nobody has trained more millionaires than me and nobody has those same millionaires working with aspiring traders daily like I do. I’m proud the guys I trained want to work directly with me.” Attached as Attachment O is a true and correct copy of the email.

26. Kyle Dennis is another Raging Bull expert who also claimed that he made millions trading and his customers are successful using his services. I received marketing emails from Raging Bull about his services. I decided to join one of his services called Sniper Report on April 17, 2019. I wanted to join because I would receive real-time alerts and I hoped to make the same profits that Kyle Dennis claimed he made. I paid $97.

27. I continued to get trade alerts, and I monitored the live portfolios of Jeff Bishop and Jason Bond and the chat rooms associated with their services. I noticed that once the trade was announced for everyone to see, within minutes the stock or option would increase in price, sometimes by 15% to 20%. I believe this was because many of the subscribers that got the same trade alert were buying at the same time. I could not get in at the price that Jason Bond or Jeff Bishop were sending out in the alert. I believe that the Raging Bull experts were making money from members' subscriptions, but also manipulating prices and front-running by having their subscribers driving up the price of the stocks and options based on their own alerts. Once I realized this was happening, I could not understand how they could get away with this.

28. On April 11, 2019, I sent an email to customer service stating, "Noticing post the calls, with everyone chasing the bids or offers their paying up 15 to 20%. The sheep are left with the crumbs?" I received a response from someone named Nathan who said, "The alerts are so you know what Jason is doing in as close to real time as possible. We do not tell you what to buy and sell." However, when I watched the webinar, Jason said that he will send out the trade alerts so we can make the same trade he is making, and he is making profits over and over again. I purchased because of the alert service and because I wanted to make the extraordinary profits Jason was claiming he made. Attached as Attachment P is a true and correct copy of the email.

29. As an example, on May 24, 2019, I received an email from Jason Bond about an alert. The subject line said, "Sold OTLK +21% +3300 & first 3-minute tip." The 3-minute tip was a link to "Penny Stocks for Beginners." Jason also stated in the email in part, "Nice win on OTLK, right from the watch list this morning. Plenty of time to get in and plenty of room to make big money...I just jumped out at $2.76 +21% +$3300 on the way to $2.87...I taught you this trade before the open today. Then I bought/alerted it. Then I waited 5 hours and made $3300 or 21%, you can do it too." Then at the bottom he stated, "Financial freedom $1000 at a time." Attached as Attachment Q is a true and correct copy of the email.

30. One time I remember Kyle Dennis purchased 20,000 shares at .97 cents. By the time I got the alert and put the buy order in, the stock was up .15-.20 cents from the original alert. This happened many times and I continually lost money. I was not sure whether the price went up because of normal market circumstances or because the alerts drove the subscribers to all purchase at the same time. Kyle Dennis and Jason Bond claimed they have thousands of subscribers, so the price could have gone up because they sent the alert to thousands of people at the same time and then enough of those people tried to purchase the stock that demand increased.

Jeff Bishop, Jason Bond and Kyle Dennis were also supposed to send out their sell alerts, but it was also just as difficult to sell at the same price by the time the alert came out.

31. I often went into the chat rooms that I had access to with my services and I noticed that other subscribers were discussing how they had lost a lot of money trying to trade on the alerts Jeff Bishop and Jason Bond were giving. It also appeared to me like there were quite a few people new to trading and they were complaining about losing money through Raging Bull.

32. On May 20, 2019, I sent an email to Raging Bull customer service because I had previously asked to cancel Millionaire Roadmap and Sniper Report and asked for a prorated refund, but I had not received confirmation about the cancellation. I received an email response telling me that both will expire in March and April 2020. I was not able to cancel them, but had to wait until they expired. I wanted to cancel these services because I was losing money and the alerts were not working as promised in the promotional videos and marketing emails. Attached as Attachment R is a true and correct copy of the email.

33. I continued to get marketing emails every day from Raging Bull on top of the email alerts. I also continued to receive emails about new services. For example, in June 2019, both Jason Bond and Jeff Bishop sent emails about one of their experts, Nathan Bear. In one email, Jason was advertising Nathan's new "TPS Strategy" and he said, "With Nathan Bear hitting fourteen 100%+ wins in the last week (several 1,000%+, see below), the Millionaire Roadmap chat room has eclipsed 550 members trading with him during market hours. What's holding you back from working with him? This trading room is on the way to 1,000 members during market hours and for good reason, clients are making money." Attached as Attachment S is a true and correct copy of the email.

34. Not only did I receive email marketing about new services, but I also saw ads for new services in the chat rooms. I bought different services because I wanted to see if their claims about making huge profits were true. On June 27, 2019, I joined Jeff Bishop's Total Alpha Trading and paid $997. I again was lured in by Jeff Bishop's claims of his extraordinary profits and I thought that if I use the alerts he is sending out, I could make the same profits. In total, I spent approximately $4090 on Raging Bull services. Each service I joined promised real time alerts, winning trades and educational videos. Some also promised live streaming portfolios and chat rooms.

35. By this point, based on trade alerts from these Raging Bull services, I had a net loss of approximately $75,000 to $100,000. I had a few small wins, but nothing like what the experts touted or promised. I tried to follow their real time alerts, but I could not make the money that the experts claimed they were making. I was not using any trade alert services other than Raging Bull. I also noticed that, even though Jason Bond, Jeff Bishop and Kyle Dennis all claimed that you did not have to have a lot of money or time to be successful at their services, they were trading from large accounts and taking large positions. For example, I noticed from Jeff Bishop's live screen that he purchased 100 option contracts at one time for about $40,000 and he had 10-12 other positions at the same time. I definitely could not follow all of his trades and had to allocate in much smaller amounts.

36. I also do not remember anyone from Raging Bull informing their subscribers in their presentations about their services that to trade on margin, like they were often doing, you need $25,000 in your account so you do not violate the pattern day trading rule.

37. On September 16, 2019, I filed a complaint with the Better Business Bureau in New Hampshire. I explained that Jason Bond and Jeff Bishop were making trades, alerting their subscribers to make those same trades, and claiming huge profits from the market moving based on their subscribers driving up the price. I also explained that I received hundreds of emails from Raging Bull and many of them were about upselling other Raging Bull subscriptions. I asked for a full refund for all my subscriptions, but never received one.

38. In October 2019, I noticed that the Weekly Money Multiplier service was taken over by Nathan Bear. I started to receive emails from him instead of Jeff Bishop. Attached as Attachment T are true and correct copies of two emails I received from Nathan Bear on behalf of Weekly Money Multiplier.

39. On December 7, 2019, subscribers of Jason Bond's various services (Nucleus, Black Optics, Millionaire Roadmap and Raging Bull's Most Wanted) received an email from Jason Bond. He said "These services came with a hefty price tag of $3,999 or $4,999 and were our top level programs, however, after folding Nucleus into Roadmap and creating Most Wanted, the wheels fell off the wagon. We pivoted, but it never sat well with me, so today I'm fixing it." Then there was a link to an apology video from Jason Bond. In that video, he acknowledged that many customers were upset with him because he, without warning, shut down several of his most expensive services after people paid thousands of dollars in subscription fees. He then offered six months free of his Elite program to these subscribers. Raging Bull claimed that this program is the most expensive and includes all of Raging Bull's services. I accepted the offer, which Raging Bull also claimed had a value of $8,000-$10,000. Since Raging Bull kept refusing to issue me the prorated refund, I felt I had no choice but to try out this subscription instead of getting my money back. Attached as Attachment U is a true and correct copy of the email.

40. Once I signed up for Elite, I was inundated with emails and alerts. Because the Elite service allowed me access to every Raging Bull program, I started receiving alerts from 6-7 different experts. I could not follow them all and I started using the services for ideas only and only made about 2-3 trades per month.

41. In approximately May 2020, I received a call from Raging Bull asking me to sign up for a lifetime membership for the Elite service for an additional $5000. I said no.

42. My subscriptions ran out on June 30, 2020 and I did not renew any of them. I only continued on with Raging Bull after September 2019 because they refused to issue me a refund and I was enrolled in the Elite program. In my experience with these services, the alerts did not work and I was unable to make money by following the alerts. I was not happy with any of the services and lost approximately $75,000 trading using Raging Bull's services.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Hi, my name is Kyle Dennis, co-founder and director of Biotech Breakouts.

I'd like to personally congratulate you on taking the first, and most important step towards becoming a smarter, wealthier, more successful Biotech trader and investor.

So get ready! In the coming days, I'm going to be sending you actionable insights, strategies and key information about the system I personally used to turn a small $15,000 investment into more than $1,700,000 in less than 5 years.

And guess what? I'm also going to show you how I went from a broke college student to self-made millionaire by the age of 25... and how I did it without setting foot on Wall Street.

That's right. I live and work in Los Angeles, not in the financial district of New York City.

I don't wear $2,000 pinstripe suits and Gucci loafers. Nope. Most days I make a "killing" trading stocks from my home office dressed in a t-shirt and blue jeans.

And when I'm done trading for the day, I go outside, throw down the top of my new Porsche Cabriolet, and take some time to enjoy the beautiful sights and sounds of Southern California.

Is it a great life? You're darn right it is!

But my life wasn't always like this.

Gmail - Congratulations! Welcome to Biotech Breakouts

The truth is just a few years ago, I had a 2-hour daily commute and worked in a tiny cubicle, barely scraping by on $35,000 a year.

I was facing the same day-to-day grind most working Americans have to face every week.

And by the time I got home from work, I was so tired, all I wanted to do was eat something, crash on the sofa, and watch Netflix until I fell asleep.

The next day it was just rinse and repeat.

Pretty depressing, right? Especially for a guy in his early twenties.

So how did I go from being trapped in the proverbial "Rat Race" to independently wealthy in such a short time?

Well, in my next email, I'm going to show you the facts and figures behind my meteoric rise to self-made millionaire status.

You'll be amazed when you see how I did it so quickly!

Please understand. I'm not bragging. What I'm going to do is pull back the curtain and show you how I did it, to help you break through any limiting beliefs you may have about what's possible when it comes to making BIG money with Biotech stocks.

After all, that's my job as your mentor and coach, right?

I'm here to help you become aware of your own potential, and teach you the key strategies you need to become financially free, so you too can live the kind of life you've always dreamed of.

So be on the lookout for my next email. I promise you're gonna love what I've got to show you.

Oh. I almost forgot.

Before you go, make sure you whitelist my email address:

Go ahead and do it now. It'll take a second or two.

You need to do this to make sure you receive the important strategies, insights and information I'll be sending you about my system in the coming days.

Also, if you use Gmail, mark all my emails as "Important".

Done? Very good!

Once again, thanks for subscribing to BioTech Breakouts. I'm really looking forward to working with you, and helping you unlock your fullest potential as a trader and investor.

$43,000 profit for me, Petra's webinar TONIGHT & Thursday's watch list

1 message

Jason <jason@jasonbondpicks.com>

Good morning,

SNAP, crackle, pop! $22,000 profit for me on SNAP Wednesday, 172% on the options and another 10% on the shares. ALL from my iPhone. I've made $43,000 this week in the Millionaire Roadmap from the Great Wolf Lodge. To celebrate this amazing trading here's 50% off the Millionaire Roadmap now through April 1.

Enough about me.

Petra has been working almost non-stop since the webinar on Tuesday when she announced her new trading service, PetraPicks.com

Hundreds of people have already joined up but there are still a lot of questions she hasn't had time to respond to yet. Her plan is to hold another webinar tonight @ 8pm for anyone who wants to come and ask her questions directly (or just listen to other traders have their questions answered).

She has really developed what I think is the ideal system for people who work full time jobs, mothers working from home, or anyone who just can't be tied to the computer all day to watch the market tick-by-tick.

If you missed the opportunity on Tuesday night, then I really think you should come by tonight and hear from Petra herself. Trust me, you'll be glad you did.

You don't want to miss out on her special 50% discounted pricing going on right now.

This won't last long, so get it while you can and use the opportunity to talk to Petra directly.

I will send you the link after the market closes today & the password to get in.

Our portfolio still looking pretty good despite the market taking a beating on Tuesday and staying mostly flat yesterday. You'll notice the first couple of names on the list today are from yesterday and continue to be in play. If you're a beginner, I hope you're mentally following along with each day's list and seeing how these stocks react. You'll notice I've been putting some plays on here that are a little early in their patterns. This is to help you see these patterns before they develop, and help you to see the price action as it either confirms or rejects our thesis of each trade.

Gmail - $43,000 profit for me, Petra's webinar TONIGHT & Thursday's watch list

Buy Range 5.45-5.55
Stop 5.35
Target 6+

Still in our buy zone after a nice bullish engulfing candle on the daily and the MACD curling even more towards a cross.

OZM

Buy Range 2.35-2.45
Stop 2.20
Target 2.85

We said yesterday we may be a little early on this one without a candle over candle. Now we've got it.

ARTX

Buy Range 3.10- 3.15
Stop 2.90
Target 3.60

Nice bullish engulfing candle on a flat market day. Similar set up to what we saw at the beginning of November and around the New Year. The buy range on this is smaller than usual because we want to see it get up above today's close of 3.10 and stay there.

XOMA

Buy Range 6.05-6.15
Stop 5.85
Target 7.00+

"J why are you putting something on the watchlist that was up 13% yesterday?" Because XOMA is setting up to breakout above a double top with little between that breakout and the 7.00 level. We had this on watch in the run up to the double top, and even though we banged our head, we now have a higher low in place on the chart. Triple tops are very rare, and so the probabilities are on our side here, and that's all we ask. If you take this trade, and we push above the 6.10 level or so, remember previous resistance will act as support, and adjust your stop accordingly.

Trade wise and green!

GOOD EVENING!

Webinar in the main chat room at 8pm et with me TONIGHT.

CLICK HERE to join (must be an existing Day & Swing or Millionaire Roadmap client to attend)

TOPIC: MRM Q&A for MRM clients (day & Swing clients are welcome to sit in but this is for MRM clients questions)

As you know I'm avg. $2,300 a day right now trading part time. That's about 134% or $134,000 in 2017.

But what you might not know if you're new to the Millionaire Roadmap is that the service is about so much more than just my trading strategy.

For example, did you know Jeff Bishop's options strategy is detailed in my DVD The House Always Wins?

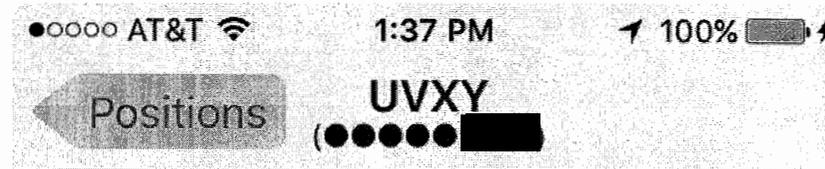

Plus a dozen 1-hour Masterminds already recorded and loaded on the website?

Plus spreads work for small accounts, or go naked if you want with a big account?

And that his options portfolio STREAMS LIVE to Roadmap clients daily?

Oh ya, he's teaching a $1,999 options course here in a few weeks, FREE for Millionaire Roadmap clients?

And this streaming portfolio we're discussing, well that's up +$21,610.90 since FRIDAY!

$6,900 to $29,000 in just 5 weeks

Since the presentation, my inbox has been flooded with questions...mainly about account size.

Let me break the news to you...

This is for small and large accounts alike!

I'll highlight a current member of mine, Dorothy.

She is a rockstar, but it did not start out like this!

She failed at small caps, and excelled with options...well excelled may be an understatement.

In fact, she took an account of $6,900 to $29,000 in just 5 weeks when she started working with me.

Check out these results in ONE week! (4 days to be exact)

Imagine that...

You're sitting at your desk at work and an alert hits your phone.

Text message and email.

I detail the trade, tell you what I'm buying and why I'm buying it.

Same happens for when I sell.

All that's required from you is paragraph of reading and to press a few buttons.

Seems easy, right?

Ask Scott...

VFC is one of my favorite retail stocks lately. I think it is very well-managed and is putting out great products.

There was a large jump after the earnings announcement a few weeks ago, and the stock has been consolidating since then in the mid-$80's. We've just seen it start to drift out of that range now, and I am taking the opportunity to start a new position here on a little dip today.

As you can see from the chart, I need this to stay above $84 to remain in play for me. If we close below that level, that will be my signal to exit. I think it could have room to run all the way to $90's if the market holds up.

The big risk here is that the market rally is so due for a pullback, and that could pull VFC with it as well. If that happens, I do own VXXB calls right now that would more than offset this loss. I really think there is enough support here though that this would not fall apart even if the market slips.

TIVO, XPO, and AZO remain my top shorts to consider here. SPOT will be an interesting one after earnings tonight. I think that is going to fall as well.

Bought TEAM puts

From: Jeff Bishop <jeff@weeklymoneymultiplier.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Thu, 07 Feb 2019 13:15:57 -0500

I have been looking at TEAM for a reversal for a couple of weeks since their earnings report. The stock dropped much lower after that and has now rebounded well above where it started from.

I think this is primed for a reversal and I am starting a new trade with TEAM 100 15 FEB 19 Puts @ 1.80.

You can see in the chart below what I am looking at with the hourly-crossover about to happen. When that happens, I think it is a quick move lower.

I don't plan to be in this trade very long. I would love to see a quick 20-50% move and take some fast profits if the market continues to fall from here.

To YOUR Success!

Sold half TLT calls for 130% and a great lesson

Jeff Bishop <jeff@weeklymoneymultiplier.com>
 Reply-To: jeff@weeklymoneymultiplier.com

I think TLT is in breakout mode now that it is firmly above the $122 recent high. I am being cautious though and taking half of my position off the table here for over 130% in profit or about $14,000 on just this half of the trade...and I still have another $14,000 profit waiting if I decide to take it!

Really nice to see it play out like this. I was actually worried this wouldn't work out after seeing the choppy price action a few days after I started the trade. Let's walk through how this trade happened from the start.

Here is the chart I sent you in the initial email on Jan 28th, when I started the trade. You can see my clear stop loss area and profit target range.

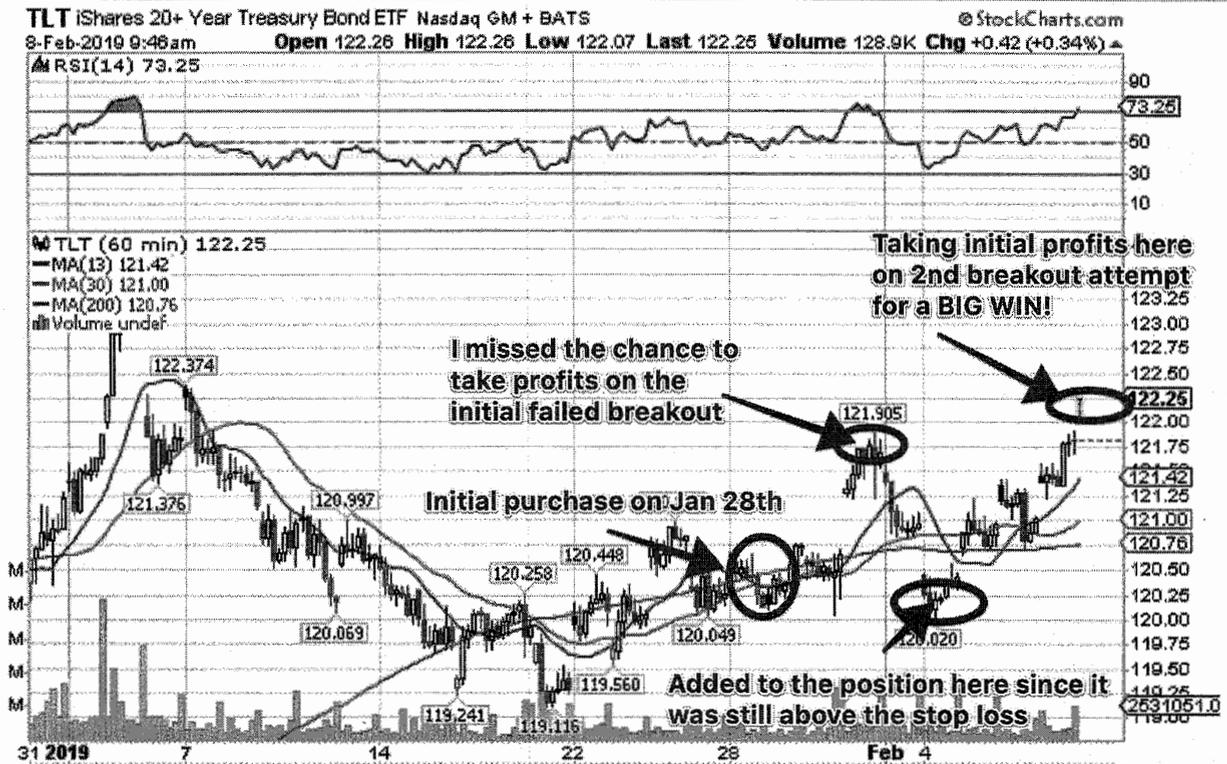

Now look at the updated chart from today:

Attachment K

Gmail - Sold half TLT calls for 130% and a great lesson

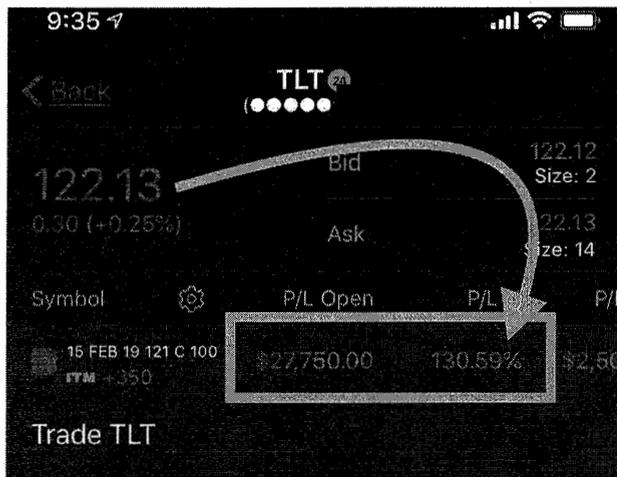

As you can see, within just a few days after I started the trade, TLT shot up nearly to my first profit target, and I was up a quick $13,000.

I was stubborn and wanted it to "hit" the $122 target, but instead, it came within $.10 of that and then quickly retreated.

I went from a $13,000 profit to a $5000 loss in just 2 days. I sure was upset about that, but since the price was still above the stop loss zone, I used that weakness to add more contracts and lower my average price.

Sure enough, that dip was another fakeout and TLT has been climbing since then. Today, it broke past the $122 level again, and I am NOT missing the opportunity to take profits this time.

I'm putting $14,000 in my pocket today (as you can see on the actual screenshot from my account, below) on this and letting the rest of this trade ride higher.

Hopefully, I'll see this north of $123 before it expires and I will lock in an even bigger profit on it!

I think this is a good lesson on how to stick to a gameplan once you set it up and not give up on a trade because it didn't do exactly what you wanted it to do.

In hindsight, the only thing I would have done differently here is to take the initial profit when I had it. That was just stubbornness on my side, and we can't let that happen as traders. We need to take what the market gives us.

To YOUR success!

Sold EWW puts, flat

From: Jeff Bishop <jeff@weeklymoneymultiplier.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Tue, 12 Feb 2019 10:03:06 -0500

I am tired of the back and forth action with EWW puts, so I sold them today for less than a 5% profit. Basically, flat on the trade.

The whole market seems to be on a seesaw right now. One day we're up, the next day going lower. Not making any real progress one way or another.

I am not going to take guesses at the next move, but I am going to stick with trends in place. A lot of stocks are on the verge of breaking past recent highs, so that is a pretty bullish signal.

My VFC calls are getting a nice bid today, they are in the "breakout" category. I am going to continue to hold those until it makes a good move one way or another. I still think we can see $90's on that soon.

I really like the chart setup on UNG right now. I just started a small trade on the UNG Mar 15 2019 24 Call @ .67. I plan to add to this in the next day or so, I want to add @ .60, but might add higher if the reversal becomes clear.

I still hold some TLT calls, which were up 200% at one point. I am no very glad I locked in a big win for 130% a few days ago. These contracts expire on Friday this week, so I will be exiting the remainder soon. I will not let it go red on me. I plan to buy calls again for March soon so keep an eye out for a good entry point.

I don't have much on my radar for today, so I will probably let this market move happen today and see how things hold up by the close.

To YOUR success!

There are several stocks I like right now, but they have earnings soon so I am waiting for those to happen before I make any moves. Always be sure to check on earnings dates before you make a trade so you don't walk into something you didn't expect.

Added to EA calls

From: Jeff Bishop <jeff@weeklymoneymultiplier.com>

Date: Tue, 19 Feb 2019 11:48:54 -0500

I am going to try to update on my adds for those that want to follow the activity and can't watch the live stream all day.

I just added EA MAR 15 2019 105.0 Call @ $3.55, to bring my new average to $4.60.

I am fully invested here now and will keep a stop on a break of $3 from here if it closes at that level, or else a close below $100 for EA itself.

TLT and UNG both looking strong as well. I added a bit more to the UNG calls today @ .46 too.

Trade updates

From: Jeff Bishop <jeff@weeklymoneymultiplier.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Fri, 01 Mar 2019 09:42:51 -0500

First of all, I want to thank everyone who came to Orlando yesterday for the event. It was great to meet everyone and hear your stories.

I will be traveling back home today and don't plan to be too active but I will give you the updates on my trading from yesterday's fills and what I plan today if anything.

UNG continues to be in beast mode, it is up again today and the remaining half of my calls are up nearly 200% today. Trades like this sure erase a lot of losers, so I am glad to see this moving the way it is.

TLT continues to slide so I am taking a loss on that one today. I never got into a full position so it is a small loss for me. I plan to come back to this next week with a different contract when the setup bottoms out again.

WYNN calls I added to right around the level where it touched $126 as I told you earlier in the week I planned to. I tripled up at that level and now my cost basis is $2.90 on the overall trade. If WYNN closes below $126 from here I will close out at least half of this trade for a loss, possibly all of it.

I am testing a QQQ put position too. I am underwater on it right now and might close all of it and go with in-the-money puts instead. Probably the $165 puts that expire in 2 weeks. This is a starter position for me, so it will not be a big entry.

I am also looking at making a bearish spread trade on AAPL where I will sell calls to collect premium. That might get set up today.

To YOUR success!

I almost hate to be on the long side of this stock. I really am more comfortable going short TSLA, but I can't argue the technicals right now.

All the bad news in the world doesn't seem to phase TSLA for too long. It is like Elon likes to have shorts sucked into the stock and when the price bases (like we see now), he is likely to come up with some great news that spikes the stock again.

I just bought TSLA MAR 15 2019 275.0 Call @ 10.50, and will look to add a little more to this soon. I am using a close below $275 as my stop on this, which is a very tight stop and I think it could run $10+ from here.

You can see what I am looking at on this chart right here:

This is a very short trade for me too. These contracts expire on Friday next week, so I will be out of this trade in the next 1-2 days most likely.

I am also bidding more TLT puts @ .92 today and more GDX calls @ .70 if either of those get filled.

To YOUR success!

DAYS HOURS MINUTES SECONDS

Success! You've Registered

I have something special planned for this event on Tuesday, March 12th at 8PM ET, and you'll want to be in attendance.

The thing is, there are a lot of beauties to trading stocks.

Supplemental income, working from home, being your own boss, setting your own ceiling...

The sky's the limit.

But oftentimes, traders fail to get to that level because of common mistakes that should have been avoided.

I've been there too. I know what it's like to lose.

But more importantly, I know what it takes to turn your trading around and then supercharge it.

Contrary to popular belief, it's not as challenging as people make it out to be.

I've identified ONE KEY COMPONENT that is the driving factor behind your success and I intend to showcase it this coming Tuesday.

I've been in the market for years, and I keep going back to this sole ingredient that is crucial to your performance.

Once you understand it, your profits can be instantly amplified.

Don't believe me? Well in 7 years of trading, I'm now on pace to crush any yearly performance I've had.

In 2019, I've already grown my account about 150% and I don't plan on slowing down.

So, make sure you add this event to your calendar, because this one hour is the most important hour of your year and I'll make sure of it.

Service Subscription Agreement

This Service Subscription Agreement (this “Agreement”), effective as of March 14, 2019 (the “Effective Date”), is by and between RagingBull.com, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company with offices located at 62 Calef Hwy. #233 Lee, NH 03861 (“Publisher”) and the customer listed on the signature pages below (“Customer”). Publisher and Customer may be referred to herein collectively as the “Parties” or individually as a “Party.”

WHEREAS, Publisher publishes an educational program that is distributed via an electronic/ digital delivery system via website or application and includes the activities and deliverables described on Exhibit A (the “Service”).

WHEREAS, Customer desires to access the Services, and Publisher desires to provide Customer access to the Services, subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants, terms, and conditions set forth herein, and for other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the Parties agree as follows:

1. Access and Use.

- Provision of Access. Subject to and conditioned on Customer’s payment of Fees and compliance with all other terms and conditions of this Agreement, Publisher hereby grants Customer a non-exclusive, non-transferable, non-sublicenseable right to access and use the Services during the Term in accordance with the terms and conditions of this Agreement. Such use is limited to Customer’s personal use and Customer is the only authorized user of the Service. Publisher shall provide to Customer the necessary passwords and network links or connections to allow Customer to access the Services.
- Use Restrictions. Customer shall not use the Services for any purposes beyond the scope of the access granted in this Agreement. Customer shall not at any time, directly or indirectly: (i) copy, modify, or create derivative works of the Services, in whole or in part; (ii) rent, lease, lend, sell, license, sublicense, assign, distribute, publish, transfer, or otherwise make available the Services; (iii) reverse engineer, disassemble, decompile, decode, adapt, or otherwise attempt to derive or gain access to any software component of the Services, in whole or in part; (iv) remove any proprietary notices from the Services; or (v) use the Services in any manner or for any purpose that infringes, misappropriates, or otherwise violates any intellectual property right or other right of any - person, or that violates any applicable law.

- Reservation of Rights. Publisher reserves all rights not expressly granted to Customer in this Agreement. Except for the limited rights and licenses expressly granted under this Agreement, nothing in this Agreement grants, by implication, waiver, estoppel, or otherwise, to Customer or any third party any intellectual property rights or other right, title, or interest in or to the Publisher IP (as defined in Section 5(a)).
 - Suspension. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, Publisher may temporarily suspend Customer's access to any portion or all of the Services if: (i) Publisher reasonably determines that (A) there is a threat or attack on any of the Publisher IP; (B) Customer's use of the Publisher IP disrupts or poses a security risk to the Publisher IP or to any other customer or vendor of Publisher; (C) Customer, or is using the Publisher IP for fraudulent or illegal activities; (D) subject to applicable law, Customer has ceased to continue its business in the ordinary course, made an assignment for the benefit of creditors or similar disposition of its assets, or become the subject of any bankruptcy, reorganization, liquidation, dissolution, or similar proceeding; or (E) Publisher's provision of the Services to Customer is prohibited by applicable law; (any such suspension described in subclause (i) or (ii), a "Service Suspension"). Publisher shall use commercially reasonable efforts to provide written notice of any Service Suspension to Customer and to provide updates regarding resumption of access to the Services following any Service Suspension. Publisher shall use commercially reasonable efforts to resume providing access to the Services as soon as reasonably possible after the event giving rise to the Service Suspension is cured. Publisher will have no liability for any damage, liabilities, losses (including any loss of data or profits), or any other consequences that Customer may incur as a result of a Service Suspension.
 - Aggregated Statistics.
 - "Aggregated Statistics" means data and information related to Customer's use of the Services that is used by Publisher in an aggregate and anonymized manner, including to compile statistical and performance information related to the provision and operation of the Services
 - Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, Publisher may monitor Customer's use of the Services and collect and compile Aggregated Statistics. As between Publisher and Customer, all right, title, and interest in Aggregated Statistics, and all intellectual property rights therein, belong to and are retained solely by Publisher. Customer acknowledges that Publisher may compile Aggregated Statistics based on Customer Data (as defined in Section 5(b)) input into the Services. Customer agrees that Publisher may (i) make Aggregated Statistics publicly available in compliance with applicable law, and (ii) use Aggregated Statistics to the extent and in the manner permitted under applicable law; provided that such Aggregated Statistics do not identify Customer or Customer's Confidential Information.
2. Customer Responsibilities. Customer is responsible and liable for all uses of the Services resulting from access provided by Customer, directly or indirectly, whether such access or use is permitted by or in violation of this Agreement.
3. Fees and Payment.
- Fees. Customer shall pay Publisher the Subscription Fee as set forth in Exhibit A (the "Fee") for the Initial Term. Thereafter, Customer shall pay the Fee annually on each subsequent anniversary the Effective Date. Customer understands and agrees that the Customer will have access to the Services, if and only if, it pays the Fee when due. Failure to pay the Fee will result in termination of the Agreement and termination of access to the Services in accordance with Section 9. Customer hereby authorizes Publisher to store and continue billing Customer's credit card or other payment

- method (even after it has expired) annually on the anniversary of the Effective Date for the Fee to avoid Service interruptions, unless and until Customer affirmatively notifies Publisher that it wishes to terminate this Agreement.
- Except as stated in Section 9, Customer acknowledges and agrees that the Fees are non-refundable, subject to applicable law.
 - Customer shall make all payments hereunder in US dollars. If Customer fails to make any payment when due, without limiting Publisher's other rights and remedies: (i) Publisher may charge interest on the past due amount at the rate of 1.5% per month calculated daily and compounded monthly or, if lower, the highest rate permitted under applicable law; (ii) Customer shall reimburse Publisher for all reasonable costs incurred by Publisher in collecting any late payments or interest, including attorneys' fees, court costs, and collection agency fees; and (iii) if such failure continues for 10 days or more, Publisher may suspend Customer's access to any portion or all of the Services until such amounts are paid in full.
 - Taxes. All Fees and other amounts payable by Customer under this Agreement are exclusive of taxes and similar assessments. Customer is responsible for all sales, use, and excise taxes, and any other similar taxes, duties, and charges of any kind imposed by any federal, state, or local governmental or regulatory authority on any amounts payable by Customer hereunder, other than any taxes imposed on Publisher's income.
4. Confidential Information. From time to time during the Term, either Party may disclose or make available to the other Party information about its business affairs, products, confidential intellectual property, trade secrets, third-party confidential information, and other sensitive or proprietary information, whether orally or in written, electronic, or other form or media/in written or electronic form or media, whether or not marked, designated or otherwise identified as "confidential" (collectively, "Confidential Information"). Publisher IP shall be deemed the Confidential Information of the Publisher. Confidential Information does not include information that, at the time of disclosure is: (a) in the public domain; (b) known to the receiving Party at the time of disclosure; (c) rightfully obtained by the receiving Party on a non-confidential basis from a third party; or (d) independently developed by the receiving Party. The receiving Party shall not disclose the disclosing Party's Confidential Information to any person or entity, except, in the case of Publisher, to the Publisher's employees who have a need to know the Confidential Information to perform its obligations hereunder. Notwithstanding the foregoing, each Party may disclose Confidential Information to the limited extent required (i) in order to comply with the order of a court or other governmental body, or as otherwise necessary to comply with applicable law, provided that the Party making the disclosure pursuant to the order shall first have given written notice to the other Party and made a reasonable effort to obtain a protective order; or (ii) to establish a Party's rights under this Agreement, including to make required court filings. On the expiration or termination of the Agreement, the receiving Party shall promptly return to the disclosing Party all copies, whether in written, electronic, or other form or media, of the disclosing Party's Confidential Information, or destroy all such copies and certify in writing to the disclosing Party that such Confidential Information has been destroyed. Each Party's obligations of non-disclosure with regard to Confidential Information are effective as of the Effective Date and will survive the termination or expiration of this Agreement.
5. Intellectual Property Ownership; Feedback.
- Publisher IP.
 - "Publisher IP" means the Services and any and all intellectual property provided to Customer in connection with the foregoing (including without limitation, all materials, websites, tools, virtual learning content, research, training manuals, software tools, research data, technology and source code). For the avoidance of doubt, Publisher IP includes Aggregated Statistics and any information, data, or other content derived from Publisher's monitoring of Customer's access to or use of the Services, but does not include Customer

Data.

- Customer acknowledges that, as between Customer and Publisher, Publisher owns all right, title, and interest, including all intellectual property rights, in and to the Publisher IP.
 - Customer Data.
 - “Customer Data” means, other than Aggregated Statistics, information, data, and other content, in any form or medium, that is submitted, posted, or otherwise transmitted by or on behalf of Customer through the Services.
 - Publisher acknowledges that, as between Publisher and Customer, Customer owns all right, title, and interest, including all intellectual property rights, in and to the Customer Data. Customer hereby grants to Publisher a non-exclusive, royalty-free, worldwide license to reproduce, distribute, and otherwise use and display the Customer Data and perform all acts with respect to the Customer Data as may be necessary for Publisher to provide the Services to Customer, and a non-exclusive, perpetual, irrevocable, royalty-free, worldwide license to reproduce, distribute, modify, and otherwise use and display Customer Data incorporated within the Aggregated Statistics.
 - Feedback. If Customer sends or transmits any communications or materials to Publisher by mail, email, telephone, or otherwise, suggesting or recommending changes to the Services or Publisher IP, including without limitation, new features or functionality relating thereto, or any comments, questions, suggestions, or the like (“Feedback”), Publisher is free to use such Feedback irrespective of any other obligation or limitation between the Parties governing such Feedback. Customer hereby assigns to Publisher on Customer’s behalf, and on behalf of its employees, contractors and/or agents, all right, title, and interest in, and Publisher is free to use, without any attribution or compensation to any party, any ideas, know-how, concepts, techniques, or other intellectual property rights contained in the Feedback, for any purpose whatsoever, although Publisher is not required to use any Feedback.
6. Limited Warranty and Warranty Disclaimer.
- Publisher warrants that the Services will perform in accordance with the specifications on Exhibit A for a period of twelve months from the date of this Agreement. In the event of a breach of the warranty in this Section 6(a), the Publisher may, at its option, modify or replace the Services or provide a pro rated refund of the Fees to the Customer. THIS SHALL BE CUSTOMER’S SOLE REMEDY, AND PUBLISHER’S SOLE OBLIGATION, RESULTING FROM A BREACH OF THE WARRANTY IN SECTION 6(a).
 - EXCEPT FOR THE LIMITED WARRANTY SET FORTH IN SECTION 6(a), THE PUBLISHER IP IS PROVIDED “AS IS” AND PUBLISHER HEREBY DISCLAIMS ALL WARRANTIES, WHETHER EXPRESS, IMPLIED, STATUTORY, OR OTHERWISE. PUBLISHER SPECIFICALLY DISCLAIMS ALL IMPLIED WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY, FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE, TITLE, AND NON-INFRINGEMENT, AND ALL WARRANTIES ARISING FROM COURSE OF DEALING, USAGE, OR TRADE PRACTICE. PUBLISHER MAKES NO WARRANTY OF ANY KIND THAT THE SERVICES, PUBLISHER IP, OR ANY PRODUCTS OR RESULTS OF THE USE THEREOF, WILL MEET CUSTOMER’S OR ANY OTHER PERSON’S REQUIREMENTS, OPERATE WITHOUT INTERRUPTION, ACHIEVE ANY INTENDED RESULT, BE COMPATIBLE OR WORK WITH ANY SOFTWARE, SYSTEM OR OTHER SERVICES, OR BE SECURE, ACCURATE, COMPLETE, FREE OF HARMFUL CODE, OR ERROR FREE.
7. Indemnification.
- Publisher Indemnification.
 - Publisher shall indemnify, defend, and hold harmless Customer from and against any and all losses, damages, liabilities, costs (including reasonable attorneys’ fees) (“Losses”) incurred by Customer resulting from any third-party claim, suit, action, or proceeding (“Third-Party Claim”) that the Services, or any use of the Services in accordance with this Agreement, infringes or misappropriates such third party's US patents or copyrights, provided that Customer promptly notifies Publisher in writing of the claim, cooperates with Publisher, and allows Publisher sole authority to control the defense and settlement of such claim.

- If such a claim is made or appears possible, Customer agrees to permit Publisher, at Publisher's sole discretion, to (A) modify or replace the Services, or component or part thereof, to make it non-infringing, or (B) obtain the right for Customer to continue use. If Publisher determines that neither alternative is reasonably available, Publisher may terminate this Agreement, in its entirety or with respect to the affected component or part, effective immediately on written notice to Customer.
 - This Section 7(a) will not apply to the extent that the alleged infringement arises from: (A) use of the Services in combination with data, software, hardware, equipment, or technology not provided by Publisher or authorized by Publisher in writing; or (B) modifications to the Services not made by Publisher.
 - Customer Indemnification. Customer shall indemnify, hold harmless, and, at Publisher's option, defend Publisher from and against and any Third-Party Claims based on Customer's use of the Services other than as permitted by this Agreement, provided that Customer may not settle any Third-Party Claim against Publisher unless Publisher consents to such settlement, and further provided that Publisher will have the right, at its option, to defend itself against any such Third-Party Claim or to participate in the defense thereof by counsel of its own choice.
 - Sole Remedy. THIS SECTION 7 SETS FORTH CUSTOMER'S SOLE REMEDIES AND PUBLISHER'S SOLE LIABILITY AND OBLIGATION FOR ANY ACTUAL, THREATENED, OR ALLEGED CLAIMS THAT THE SERVICES INFRINGE, MISAPPROPRIATE, OR OTHERWISE VIOLATE ANY INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS OF ANY THIRD PARTY.
8. Limitations of Liability. TO THE GREATEST EXTENT PERMISSIBLE BY APPLICABLE LAW, IN NO EVENT WILL PUBLISHER BE LIABLE UNDER OR IN CONNECTION WITH THIS AGREEMENT UNDER ANY LEGAL OR EQUITABLE THEORY, INCLUDING BREACH OF CONTRACT, TORT (INCLUDING NEGLIGENCE), STRICT LIABILITY, AND OTHERWISE, FOR ANY: (a) CONSEQUENTIAL, INCIDENTAL, INDIRECT, EXEMPLARY, SPECIAL, ENHANCED, OR PUNITIVE DAMAGES; (b) INCREASED COSTS, DIMINUTION IN VALUE OR LOST BUSINESS, PRODUCTION, REVENUES, OR PROFITS; (c) LOSS OF GOODWILL OR REPUTATION; (d) USE, INABILITY TO USE, LOSS, INTERRUPTION, DELAY OR RECOVERY OF ANY DATA, OR BREACH OF DATA OR SYSTEM SECURITY; OR (e) COST OF REPLACEMENT GOODS OR SERVICES, IN EACH CASE REGARDLESS OF WHETHER PUBLISHER WAS ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH LOSSES OR DAMAGES OR SUCH LOSSES OR DAMAGES WERE OTHERWISE FORESEEABLE. IN NO EVENT WILL PUBLISHER'S AGGREGATE LIABILITY ARISING OUT OF OR RELATED TO THIS AGREEMENT UNDER ANY LEGAL OR EQUITABLE THEORY, INCLUDING BREACH OF CONTRACT, TORT (INCLUDING NEGLIGENCE), STRICT LIABILITY, AND OTHERWISE EXCEED THE TOTAL AMOUNTS PAID TO PUBLISHER UNDER THIS AGREEMENT WITHIN THE TWELVE MONTHS PRIOR TO THE DATE OF THE CLAIM FROM WHICH THE LIABILITY AROSE, OR $10,000, WHICHEVER IS LESS.
9. Term and Termination.
- Term. The initial term of this Agreement begins on the Effective Date and, unless terminated earlier pursuant to this Agreement's express provisions, will continue in effect until one year from such date (the "Initial Term"). This Agreement will automatically renew for additional successive one year terms unless Customer cancels its subscription days prior to the expiration of the then-current term (each a "Renewal Term" and together with the Initial Term, the "Term").
 - Termination. In addition to any other express termination right set forth in this Agreement:
 - Customer may terminate this Agreement at any time, but any Fee paid by the Customer shall be non-refundable.
 - Publisher may terminate this Agreement if it discontinues the Services; provided that if the Services are terminated prior to the expiration of the applicable one-year Term, then subject to Section 1(d), Customer shall receive a prorated refund of the Subscription Fee based on the number of days remaining in the applicable one-year Term after the discontinuation of the Services. THIS SHALL BE CUSTOMERS' SOLE REMEDY, AND PUBLISHER'S SOLE OBLIGATION, RESULTING FROM EARLY DISCONTINUATION OF THE SERVICE.

- Publisher may terminate this Agreement, effective on written notice to Customer, if Customer: (A) fails to pay any amount when due hereunder, and such failure continues more than 10 days after Publisher's delivery of written notice thereof; or (B) breaches any of its obligations under Section 1(b) or Section 4;
 - either Party may terminate this Agreement, effective on written notice to the other Party, if the other Party materially breaches this Agreement, and such breach: (A) is incapable of cure; or (B) being capable of cure, remains uncured 30 days after the non-breaching Party provides the breaching Party with written notice of such breach. In the event that Customer terminates this Agreement for an uncured material breach by Publisher prior to the expiration of the applicable one-year Term, then Customer shall receive a pro-rated refund of the Fee based on the number of days remaining in the applicable one-year Term after the date of termination; or
 - either Party may terminate this Agreement, effective immediately upon written notice to the other Party, if the other Party: (A) becomes insolvent or is generally unable to pay, or fails to pay, its debts as they become due; (B) files or has filed against it, a petition for voluntary or involuntary bankruptcy or otherwise becomes subject, voluntarily or involuntarily, to any proceeding under any domestic or foreign bankruptcy or insolvency law; (C) makes or seeks to make a general assignment for the benefit of its creditors; or (D) applies for or has appointed a receiver, trustee, custodian, or similar agent appointed by order of any court of competent jurisdiction to take charge of or sell any material portion of its property or business.
 - Effect of Expiration or Termination. Upon expiration or earlier termination of this Agreement, Customer shall immediately discontinue use of the Publisher IP and, without limiting Customer's obligations under Section 4, Customer shall delete, destroy, or return all copies of the Publisher IP and certify in writing to the Publisher that the Publisher IP has been deleted or destroyed. Except as expressly set forth above or required by applicable law, no expiration or termination will affect Customer's obligation to pay all Fees that may have become due before such expiration or termination, or entitle Customer to any refund.
 - Survival. This Section 9(d) and Sections 1(b), 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11 survive any termination or expiration of this Agreement. No other provisions of this Agreement survive the expiration or earlier termination of this Agreement.
10. DISCLAIMER. PUBLISHER IS NOT REGISTERED AS A SECURITIES BROKER-DEALER OR AN INVESTMENT ADVISER EITHER WITH THE U.S. SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION OR WITH ANY STATE SECURITIES REGULATORY AUTHORITY. THE SERVICES PROVIDE OPINIONS AND ANALYSIS OF STOCKS AND MARKETS, BUT ARE NOT INTENDED TO PROVIDE PERSONALIZED INVESTMENT ADVICE. THE SERVICES REPRESENT ONLY PUBLISHER'S EDITOR'S GENERAL OPINIONS AND SHOULD NOT BE RELIED UPON FOR PURPOSES OF TRANSACTING SECURITIES OR OTHER INVESTMENTS, NOR SHOULD THEY BE CONSTRUED AS AN OFFER OR SOLICITATION OF AN OFFER TO SELL OR BUY ANY SECURITY. PUBLISHER CANNOT AND DOES NOT ASSESS, VERIFY OR GUARANTEE THE SUITABILITY OR PROFITABILITY OF ANY PARTICULAR INVESTMENT. CUSTOMER BEARS RESPONSIBILITY FOR ITS OWN INVESTMENT RESEARCH AND DECISIONS AND SHOULD SEEK THE ADVICE OF A QUALIFIED SECURITIES PROFESSIONAL BEFORE MAKING ANY INVESTMENT.
11. Miscellaneous.

- Entire Agreement. This Agreement, together with the terms and conditions, privacy policy, order form, and disclaimer on the Publisher's website <https://ragingbull.com> together with any other documents incorporated herein by reference and all related Exhibits, constitutes the sole and entire agreement of the Parties with respect to the subject matter of this Agreement and supersedes all prior and contemporaneous understandings, agreements, and representations and warranties, both written and oral, with respect to such subject matter. In the event of any inconsistency between the statements made in the body of this Agreement, the related Exhibits, and any other documents incorporated herein by reference, the following order of precedence governs: (i) first, this Agreement, excluding its Exhibits; (ii) second, the Exhibits to this Agreement as of the Effective Date; and (iii) third, any other documents incorporated herein by reference.
- Notices. All notices, requests, consents, claims, demands, waivers, and other communications hereunder (each, a "Notice") must be in writing and addressed to the Parties at the addresses set forth in this Agreement (or to such other address that may be designated by the Party giving Notice from time to time in accordance with this Section). All Notices must be delivered by personal delivery, nationally recognized overnight courier (with all fees pre-paid), facsimile or email (with confirmation of transmission) or certified or registered mail (in each case, return receipt requested, postage pre-paid). Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, a Notice is effective only: (i) upon receipt by the receiving Party; and (ii) if the Party giving the Notice has complied with the requirements of this Section.
- Force Majeure. In no event shall Publisher be liable to Customer, or be deemed to have breached this Agreement, for any failure or delay in performing its obligations under this Agreement (except for any obligations to make payments), if and to the extent such failure or delay is caused by any circumstances beyond Publisher's reasonable control, including but not limited to acts of God, flood, fire, earthquake, explosion, war, terrorism, invasion, riot or other civil unrest, strikes, labor stoppages or slowdowns or other industrial disturbances, or passage of law or any action taken by a governmental or public authority, including imposing an embargo.
- Amendment and Modification; Waiver. No amendment to or modification of this Agreement is effective unless it is in writing and signed by an authorized representative of each Party. No waiver by any Party of any of the provisions hereof will be effective unless explicitly set forth in writing and signed by the Party so waiving. Except as otherwise set forth in this Agreement, (i) no failure to exercise, or delay in exercising, any rights, remedy, power, or privilege arising from this Agreement will operate or be construed as a waiver thereof and (ii) no single or partial exercise of any right, remedy, power, or privilege hereunder will preclude any other or further exercise thereof or the exercise of any other right, remedy, power, or privilege.
- Severability. If any provision of this Agreement is invalid, illegal, or unenforceable in any jurisdiction, such invalidity, illegality, or unenforceability will not affect any other term or provision of this Agreement or invalidate or render unenforceable such term or provision in any other jurisdiction. Upon such determination that any term or other provision is invalid, illegal, or unenforceable, the Parties shall negotiate in good faith to modify this Agreement so as to effect their original intent as closely as possible in a mutually acceptable manner in order that the transactions contemplated hereby be consummated as originally contemplated to the greatest extent possible.
- Governing Law; Submission to Jurisdiction. This Agreement is governed by and construed in accordance with the internal laws of the State of New York without giving effect to any choice or conflict of law provision or rule that would require or permit the application of the laws of any jurisdiction other than those of the State of New York. Any legal suit, action, or proceeding arising out of or related to this Agreement or the licenses granted hereunder will be instituted exclusively in the federal courts of the United States or the courts of the State of New York in each case located in the city of Rochester and County of Monroe, and each Party irrevocably submits to the exclusive jurisdiction of such courts in any such suit, action, or proceeding.

- Assignment. Customer may not assign any of its rights or delegate any of its obligations hereunder without the prior written consent of Publisher. Any purported assignment or delegation in violation of this Section will be null and void. No assignment or delegation will relieve the assigning or delegating Party of any of its obligations hereunder. This Agreement is binding upon and inures to the benefit of the Parties and their respective permitted successors and assigns.
- Equitable Relief. Each Party acknowledges and agrees that a breach or threatened breach by such Party of any of its obligations under Section 4 or, in the case of Customer, Section 1(b), would cause the other Party irreparable harm for which monetary damages would not be an adequate remedy and agrees that, in the event of such breach or threatened breach, the other Party will be entitled to equitable relief, including a restraining order, an injunction, specific performance and any other relief that may be available from any court, without any requirement to post a bond or other security, or to prove actual damages or that monetary damages are not an adequate remedy. Such remedies are not exclusive and are in addition to all other remedies that may be available at law, in equity or otherwise.
- Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, each of which is deemed an original, but all of which together are deemed to be one and the same agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Parties hereto have executed this Agreement as of the Effective

Exhibit A

Capitalized terms used but not defined in this Exhibit A have the meaning given to those terms in the Agreement.

Thursday with Jason Bond

From: Jason Bond <jason@jasonbondpicks.com>

Date: Thu, 11 Apr 2019 09:01:29 -0400

Announcing BIG changes today. Be sure to read all of this or you'll be totally confused with what's happening at Jason Bond Picks and Millionaire Roadmap.

First on the agenda:

Man I'm so proud to run this newsletter. Recently, after making $276,000 real-money profits just 2-months into 2019, I retired trading real-money for now so I could coach full time and really help clients start winning more.

As motivation, I started the Milestones initiative last week and I'm proud to announce I've verified 5 new recipients that who've been added to the banner.

Zach Chittam with over $80,000 in profit. Thanks for doing this, it is inspiring for so many others who might be struggling.

Tom Davids at $177,000 profit.

Kru Rana (talk about freedom) with $176,375 in profit he appears to be spending happily.

Josh Riccardi with $160,000 in profit.

Attachment O

And Adriano Siciliano who has turned $9,300 into $165,000. Just look at his 2019 now that he's gone full time. Sweet trading setup Adriano.

Why am I taking hours out of my schedule each day to do this? Because it's important everyone realizes their potential. I've proven I can do this. Now I'm on a mission to prove YOU can do this.

A bar of iron costs $5, made into horseshoes its worth is $12, made into needles its worth is $3500, made into balance springs for watches, its worth is $300,000. Your own value is determined also by what you are able to make of yourself.

Here's the guidelines if you'd like to participate. I will not miss any submissions and am working through these a few each day. I will begin shipping the rewards today and contact you individually when yours are in the mail.

Big congratulations to the 5 traders I added to the wall today, keep up the great trading, we look forward to hearing more from you.

Finally, it appears Twitter has become the social media channel of choice for submitting profits, so how about everyone just use that moving forward so I don't need to scour Facebook and Instagram too.

Second on the agenda:

New service @ Jason Bond Picks and Millionaire Roadmap.

I'm bringing Jason Bond Picks and Millionaire Roadmap clients amazing value for free.

Check this out.

One of my star students, Taylor Conway, who started from a hellish cubicle and turned $10K into $1.8M after joining Millionaire Roadmap, got inspired by my new Milestones initiative and vowed to help my clients, OUR clients, move up the ladder faster.

After starting with only $10,000 from that cubicle, his 2017, well ...

This guy is an amazing trader and makes his living doing it:

2018 he made over $1,000,000

2019 he's up $465,000 already

Attachment O

Now he's teaming up with Jason Bond Picks and the Millionaire Roadmap to help aspiring traders win more.

Jason Bond Picks clients will get his video lessons, dynamic watch list and text / email alerts. For free.

Millionaire Roadmap clients will get all of that PLUS his live streaming model portfolio and live coaching in the chat room. For free. Want to watch him buy and sell? Be in the chat room. Watch him break down the "why"? Bet in the chat room.

Everyone gets something added for free, but if you want it all, upgrade to the Roadmap get the all-access pass to Taylor and fast track your wins.

Did I mention the dude is up $465,000 in 2019 real money?

Nobody has trained more millionaires than me and nobody has those same millionaires working with aspiring traders daily like I do. I'm proud the guys I trained want to work directly with me.

Watch Taylor's introductory videos tonight.

And remember, everyone gets something free, but upgrade to Roadmap to get it all.

Third on the agenda:

Stock trades.

Headed into Thursday the model portfolio in Thinkorswim paperMoney is holding GROW and NETE which are bitcoin plays I'm looking to take profit on before the weekend and catalyst swings NOK, UXIN and WATT I'll hold through the weekend.

The market remains strong so I'll continue to send you a lot of alerts on fish hooks, rockets and catalyst swings. Never hesitate to ask questions in the comments section below. The goal is always 5-20% profit in 1-4 days, however, catalyst swings are often a few weeks to a month hold time while rockets tend to pay same day of overnight on a gap. Stop losses are determined by disciplined entries i.e. if you chase something that's running, you're pretty much screwed so DO NOT CHASE! You'll thank me later when you're not holding 3-7 bags in your portfolio 'hoping' they get to even. You need to buy the price YOU like and I'll detail exactly where I think that is, it's up to you to pull the trigger at the right time.

Here's what I'm watching.

PHUN - Nasty fishhook but I like it today after some good news finally. Position as close to $5.30 is desirable, range is huge of course but I think middle $6's is the immediate goal. Under $5.10 and I'm concerned so that's the stop loss, under $5 and it flushes again most likely. This is a risky trade but that's where I live, risk is how I made $276,000 real money before dedicating 100% of my penny stock time to year for the remainder of 2019.

APYX - This an ideal fish hook setup. I got in at $3.99 (paperMoney) Wednesday but after it popped and dropped back to my entry, I opted to take it even and come back today. In play around $4, but monitor for sellers to leave the pop alone, that's the sign it'll make an AMRS type move (went $2 to $4 in a week after my low $2's alert) ... Range to $5 or even $6 but take profit around $5 and move on I think.

FRED - Solid 7% +$1500 (paperMoney) Wednesday after my alert which was right from my watch list plan the last few days. Still in play as this fish hook is just getting started. Buy zone as close to the $2 button as possible with a goal of $2.40's for profit before the $2.50's chop.

Wishing YOU the profits,

Jason Bond

Sold OTLK +21% +$3300 & first 3-minute tip

From: Jason Bond <jason@jasonbondpicks.com>

Date: Fri, 24 May 2019 14:54:52 -0400

Hi,

3 Minute Tip: Penny Stocks for Beginners

Nice win on OTLK, right from the watch list this morning. Plenty of time to get in and plenty of room to make big money. Comment here below the watch list if you won. I just jumped out at $2.76 +21% +$3300 on the way to $2.87. Can you see the rest & retest pattern playing out live in front of your eyes? Can you profit from it? Sure you can! I taught you this trade before the open today. Then I bought / alerted it. Then I waited 5 hours and made $3300 or 21%, you can do it too.

Financial freedom $1000 at a time.

Nathan's TPS FAQ & Tuesday w/ Jay

From: Jason Bond <jason@jasonbondpicks.com>

Good morning,

With Nathan Bear hitting fourteen 100%+ wins in the last week (several 1,000%+, see below) the Millionaire Roadmap chat room has eclipsed 550 members trading with him during market hours.

What's holding you back from working with him? This trading room is on the way to 1,000 members during market hours and for good reason, clients are making money.

Simply read his FAQ, watch his 13 core lessons and watch him trade LIVE, streaming buys / sells.

Back on the winning side of things Monday booking a nice win on WKHS, which finally made that $3 move I was looking for. Add in a base hit on WATT and I finished with $5,111.35 realized profit.

I finally have some buying power so here's my watch list. As I grow this account again (recently rebalanced to $100K after donating $276K in profits) I'll be much, much more active.

FRED continues to interest me above $.40. The bear flag does concern me some so position sizing would be small but if this bounces the upside is low $1's so I'll take another shot here soon.

TBLT is another oversold chart under $1 I'm watching. Plenty liquid Monday and up 1%, if this holds $.50 I think a bounce to $1 happens.

Attachment S

PIR is my favorite headed into Tuesday's session because of Monday's 8% move with volume and big upside range to $1. Stop loss should be under $.60 here at the most, horizon line broke Monday in the middle $.60's indicating this one is likely ready to make a move soon.

EYES is another I'm watching closely. Horizon line at $.70 was tested Monday on light volume and if that breaks I think a move to the $.90's on a swing is achievable. Stop loss is below $.66.

Alright, now for the strong stocks.

ATAI has rounding action in the upper $1's with the horizon line at $2.50. Using $2 as the stop loss, I'm looking for a $2.50 move, take half and see if a horizon line breakout ensues.

WKHS horizon line right around $3 is definitely chasing this moving since I was in the Fibonacci in the $1.50's a few weeks ago, but so long as I'm disciplined on a breakout above $3, using that as my stop, the range to $4 or $5 is juicy as these catalysts still loom and could really skyrocket the stock to double digits if the right scenario of news hits.

VUZI is a news winner from Monday I'm watching at $3, because that's the horizon line for a move to $4 or even $5. Historically it doesn't have the best history of holding a spike, which is why I didn't swing it Monday, but if it shows any signs of holding the $3 area today, that's in play for me.

The diary of a real $ trader,

Jason Bond

PAGS Puts -- New Trade Alert

From: Nathan Bear <nathan@weeklymoneymultiplier.com>

Date: Mon, 07 Oct 2019 12:11:44 -0400

Good Morning Gang,

BOT +10 PAGS 100 15 NOV 19 47.5 PUT @4.30 -- daily head and shoulders pattern, see below for details

I'm looking for a short to balance out some of the longs in my account and came across this name while teaching live this morning. I like the head and shoulders topping pattern that's forming here as well as the risk vs. reward on this trade. As always, I'm scaling into the idea. Below is the chart setup as well as my thoughts.

And how about that TGT lotto this morning?! Up 135% right now and counting, let's go!

More to come!

Apology from Jason Bond

From: Jason Bond <jason@jasonbondpicks.com>

Date: Sat, 07 Dec 2019 15:31:16 -0500

Good afternoon,

You received this email because in 2019 you were in one / all of the following services: Nucleus, Black Optics, Millionaire Roadmap or RagingBull's Most Wanted.

These services came with a hefty price tag of $3,999 or $4,999 and were our top level programs, however, after folding Nucleus into Roadmap and creating Most Wanted, the wheels fell off the wagon. We pivoted, but it never sat well with me, so today I'm fixing it.

It'd be hard for me to write this all out, so instead I did an apology video for you and there's a big gift in the video so be certain to take the time to watch ALL of it.

Apology from Jason Bond

The next link will make absolutely no sense to you unless you watch the video. So simply DO NOT click this link until after you've watched the apology video.

You are not just another sale to me, you are my family. I'm sorry the sand shifted under our feet so much in 2019, I truly am, I did what I thought was best and I'd do it again if I had to. But again, it never sat well with me.

Today I show my true colors! Today I show who I really am at the bottom of all of this! I am a teacher who cares about people. And it's not just words, if you watch the video, not only have I made things better for each and every one of you but there's also a big, free gift inside the video to prove it's not just about selling memberships to me.

You'll need to watch it to understand, so watch the apology video now.

Sincerely,

I, Bradley Panek, have personal knowledge of the facts and matters set forth below. If called as a witness, I could and would testify as follows:

1. My name is Bradley Panek. I am over the age of twenty-one and I live in St. Petersburg, Florida.

2. In early 2019, I saw an advertisement online from a company called Raging Bull. The advertisement promoted a service they claimed would teach me how to trade stocks and options profitably. I had been wanting to learn more about stock and options trading, so this piqued my interest, and I clicked on the ad. I have a bachelor's degree in finance, so I felt like I had a good sense of the theory but since I had very little practical experience trading at that point, I wanted to find mentors and learn from successful traders with real experience.

3. After clicking the link for the ad, I remember seeing an offer for one or more free e-books or webinars that were supposed to teach me about securities trading and show me some of Raging Bull's experts' trading strategies. One of the e-books was from Jeff Bishop. The materials they provided mostly had a lot of marketing and directed me to their website, which had a ton of products available. I work full time, but the marketing materials claimed that I could use their programs without spending too much time each day.

4. One of the first products I looked at buying was called Millionaire Roadmap, which was offered by Jason Bond, who claimed to be a trading expert or mentor. I believe Nathan Bear and Kyle Dennis – also supposed trading experts – were involved in running that program for a while, too. After choosing to purchase the service, I was offered an upsell where the website said that instead of paying an annual subscription, I could pay a slightly larger amount now and get a "lifetime" membership at a substantial discount. I did that for the Millionaire Roadmap product and recall paying around $6,000 total. They advertised that I would be able to follow the Raging Bull experts' live trades and make money when the experts made money. There was supposed to be a live chat room where the experts would walk me through everything they were doing, too, and provide mentorship. I was also supposed to get trade alerts by email and by text message.

5. Once I purchased Millionaire Roadmap, I was directed to Raging Bull's website to access the course materials and the services they provided. All the course materials, chat rooms, and other parts of the services are provided through their common platform on ragingbull.com. I also started to get emails from Raging Bull advertising many of their other products once I signed up. They were frequently announcing new services while discontinuing old ones.

6. Around this time, I also saw an advertisement from Raging Bull for a service called Black Optics, which was supposed to focus on biotech investing and featured Kyle Dennis. The advertisement presented Kyle Dennis as a very profitable and successful trader who had secret strategies for beating the market. This service was also supposed to include a chat room where we could watch Kyle Dennis trade, ask him questions, and receive mentorship. I was excited to get more mentoring and learn about trading biotech stocks from him. I purchased the service because I thought it would help me make more money trading. I believe I paid around $3,000 for a lifetime membership for this service.

7. Once I actually started using the services, I found that the chat rooms were not what I expected. The experts did not convey any useful information here that I would be able to use to make profitable trades on my own. Sometimes they would talk to people in the room about the trades they were making, but most of the time you just had to watch and see what stock symbols they were looking at, and they did not explain what they were doing. Most of the trade alerts turned out to be just one of the instructors announcing in the chat room when they were making a particular stock purchase. Unless you stayed in the chat room all day, you would not know when to sell.

8. When I tried to follow their trades, I lost a lot of money. The trades would happen really fast, and the price of the stock or option would often change quickly once Raging Bull experts sent their buy or sell alerts. I would see the price of the stock or option spike up after a buy alert came from the Raging Bull traders and see the price of the same stock or option fall after they would send the sell alert, if they ever sent one. I was never told what day or what time these Raging Bull traders would sell the stock in advance, and they did not always send alerts to tell you when to sell. I also could not stay in the chat room all day to watch them, so it was impossible to copy what they were doing. Even when I did get alerts, it did not feel humanly possible to move fast enough to make money on these trades.

9. The other problem I had is that the services kept changing. Just a few weeks after I bought my “lifetime” subscription to Millionaire Roadmap, they told us in the chat room that the service was being discontinued and they were shutting down the chat room, the livestreaming, the mentorship, and the alerts. They told us we could get their other services instead if we wanted. A lot of people in the chat room were angry, and Jason Bond told us that if we were not satisfied with their service then he would give us our money back. That did not happen. Black Optics also got changed after a while and the same thing happened – we were told that the chat room, the livestreaming, the alerts, and mentorship through that service, too, would be shut down.

10. In late 2019, after a number of people complained, Jason Bond announced that he was giving us all six months of Raging Bull Elite for free – this was a package that included all of the company’s services. They also gave us lifetime access to the Elite chat room so we could see trade alerts there. I thought Raging Bull Elite would teach me how to make money as a trader, so I decided to try this. I also thought it would solve the problem of the services changing because I would have access to all of Raging Bull’s subscriptions once I got Elite. It sounded like a good deal, and when I talked to Raging Bull’s customer service representatives, they convinced me to go ahead and sign up for a “lifetime” membership for the Elite service and offered some credit for the services I had already paid for. I made at least one payment of about $5,000 for the Elite service at that time. I believe I was supposed to make further payments at later dates for Elite, but, as described below, I ended up cancelling everything before those later payments got processed.

11. Raging Bull Elite was also a disappointment. The Elite chat room was never set up on time, and mostly the system would just sign you into other product's chat rooms. After a while, Raging Bull did start to have a separate Raging Bull moderator or representative come into the Elite chat room to talk to us, but it was never one of the main personalities they had advertised like Jason Bond, Jeff Bishop, or Kyle Dennis. I did not receive any mentorship from anyone at Raging Bull. I do not know who these moderators or representatives in the Elite Chatroom were – I had not heard of most of them before.

12. I tried to learn from the educational materials included in Millionaire Roadmap, as well as some of the free e-books they had given me but did not find them very helpful. They provided what looked like stock charts and analysis using various technical terms, but I could not figure out any concrete strategy. I did not see any way to actually apply these charts and numbers to figure out what specific trades to make and when to make them in the market, because so much of the actual buy/sell decisions seemed to just be judgment calls.

13. When I tried to use the alerts and trade recommendations from Raging Bull's services to make money by copying the experts' trades, many times their trades actually lost me money. I also did not have time to sit in the chat rooms all day long to find out when I was supposed to sell something I had bought, so many of the recommendations they made there were unhelpful to me.

14. Once I realized the services did not work as advertised, I decided I needed to try to cancel Raging Bull Elite and get my money back like Jason Bond had offered. I contacted customer service to ask for a refund, but they said no. They told me refunds were against company policy. I did not recall seeing any terms about refunds when I purchased.

15. At this point, I started to look up the company more online to see if other people had reported similar problems and I encountered a lot of complaints. I learned that I could report my problems to the Better Business Bureau. After I submitted a complaint to the Better Business Bureau, Raging Bull followed up with me. They offered me a partial refund – I do not remember exactly how much, but think it was about $4,500. Raging Bull agreed to cancel all of my services to prevent any future billing, but they refused to give me any further refunds for any of the lifetime services I had purchased and already paid for.

16. By this time, I believe I had already paid Raging Bull close to $14,000 for all of the lifetime services I had bought. The partial refund I had eventually gotten covered only a fraction of that. I had also lost over $19,000 trading stocks and options during this time, with about 80% of my trades based on their trade recommendations and 20% based on me trying to make my own trades based on what I thought I was learning from Raging Bull.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

DECLARATION OF CHARLES BUCKLEY
Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746

I, Charles Buckley, have personal knowledge of the facts and matters set forth below. If called as a witness, I could and would testify as follows:

1. My name is Charles Buckley. I am over the age of twenty-one and I live in Kilbourne, Illinois. Towards the end of 2019, I was on Facebook and saw an advertisement for services provided by a company called Raging Bull. The advertisement was for a free webinar on trading. I work for Tyson Foods during the day, and I am on the road almost every day. I decided to watch the webinar because I was interested in earning supplemental income.

2. During the free webinar, Jeff Bishop, one of Raging Bull's expert trainers, said that he and his fellow expert trainers at Raging Bull were 100% accurate on trades and made 300-800% gains on trades. He also showed us documents to confirm these statements in the webinar. He also said that if we subscribed to his services, we could receive real-time text alerts about his trades so that we can copy what he does. This sounded good to me because I work full time and I do not have a lot of time to spend watching the market.

3. In approximately December 2019, I decided to purchase some of the services that Raging Bull offered, including Total Alpha, Bullseye Trading, and Weekly Windfalls. I spent approximately $5095 for these services. I have some experience with trading futures and am computer proficient. I thought that this was something I could do to make some extra money. I believed when I signed up that Raging Bull offered refunds on its products. I also purchased the services because I believed I was going to get training videos for each service, text message alerts for real-time trades, secret trading strategies, and access to chat rooms for the services. I believed, based on the free webinar, that all of this would help me make profits like the company's experts described.

4. Once I paid, I received access to the training videos. Raging Bull's expert trainers run the trainings in the videos. These experts are people who have apparently made a lot of money trading using Raging Bull's methods. I received daily emails about these different experts and services.

5. Each expert trainer had a specialty. I saw videos from several trainers, including Jason Bond, Nathan Bear and someone named Jimmy. The training videos were about 30 minutes to an hour each. These videos were the only training I received. The training was not very helpful to me because it seemed like the experts mentioned general phrases and keywords, but did not go into depth explaining their methods and strategies.

6. In the free webinar, Jeff Bishop told us that he would send notices to his subscribers (I was a subscriber) when he created a trade and when he exited a trade. But, I found that I would not always get a notification—especially when getting out of the trade. This happened to me quite a bit. I received anywhere from approximately 1-15 notifications per day for entering and exiting trades, but the notifications were not always on time and I could not make the money the expert made. One time the expert made the trade at 8:30 am, and I did not receive the notification until several hours later. Then I would get emails telling me how much money the expert had made. Based on when they told me to get in and out, I could not have made money and I, in fact, lost money. I had $10,000 set aside for trading and lost $7000. It seemed like the expert trainers often claimed they made money after the trades they announced, but I almost always lost money.

7. Nathan Bear, one of the expert trainers featured in the training videos, was confronted by subscribers about this notification delay. In a recorded video he made, he did a test and sent out a notification for a trade. I never got the test notification.

8. In some of the videos, the expert trainers teach the proven methods they say they have been doing for years, and they claim that they made millions of dollars through their methods. It seemed to me like they were bringing up trades that were a few years old and cherry-picking stocks that worked, and ignoring those that did not. The expert trainers mentioned steps to follow, but some of the steps seemed more like vague strategies that were difficult to follow.

9. Part of my subscription included a chat room where subscribers could ask questions. I asked questions, but I do not remember receiving answers. For example, I asked about implied volume trading, and how it works, but I do not remember getting a response.

10. In January 2020, Raging Bull charged me again for Bullseye Trading and Total Alpha. Raging Bull also charged me for an add-on service for $5 called Jackpot Trades. I was charged $3103 for these three services in January. I called and left a voicemail asking why Raging Bull charged me again, but no one got back to me.

11. At the end of January 2020, I was not making any money, and I decided to purchase another Raging Bull service called Angel Investing to see if I could still make some money. It cost $1499 and showed up on my credit card statement as "Boardroom." It was supposed to be like on Shark Tank where people invest in start-up companies. In the marketing materials, Jeff Bishop said that he invested approximately $50,000 in a successful start-up (although this seemed to contradict with another advertisement where he said he invested $30,000). I read another success story by someone who made huge profits from investing in XPO Trucking. When I decided to purchase this service, I spoke with a Raging Bull employee named Jordan Werblow. He told me that the expert traders at Raging Bull are making 800% profits and, even if it is below 800%, their trades are 100% accurate. I never invested in any start-up company because I did not see any companies that I felt comfortable investing with.

12. At the end of February 2020, I purchased another service called Penny Pro Profit Prism. This cost $297.

13. I found it difficult to get in touch with anyone at Raging Bull, and I felt like I could only talk to someone when I was purchasing a service. I left voicemails and sent emails and only rarely did I get a response.

14. I spent approximately $9994 on the services by credit card and I invested approximately $10,000. I lost approximately $7000 of my investment money and decided I needed to stop before I lost everything. I was also paying commission fees at TD Ameritrade. I believe each service I paid for included unlimited access and there was an annual renewal fee of $1.

15. Before I purchased the services in December, I believed that I could do a trial run and then get a refund if I did not like it. I gave it some time, I followed all the advice from the training, but I still lost money.

16. I asked Raging Bull for a refund, and I was told that I could not get a refund even though I believe that I was told originally that I could. I also called and left a voicemail to cancel all of the services so I do not have to pay annual fees, but nothing has been cancelled, and no one has left me a message. I decided to file a complaint with the Better Business Bureau.

17. Overall, I did not learn trading strategies that helped me. One of the reasons I purchased the services, was because Jeff Bishop told me that I did not have to watch the market all day because I would receive notifications of trades that I could mimic, and the traders I was going to mimic were making 800% gains on their trades. I liked that because I work during the day, mostly driving, and cannot watch the market. I also wanted to supplement my income. But, I almost never got the notifications on time and ended up losing money.

18. Once I subscribed to Raging Bull's services, I received tons of emails every day. I tried to unsubscribe, but I still continued to get their emails. Raging Bull claims that it takes 4-6 weeks to process the unsubscribe request, but I still receive emails. I also am still getting text messages from Nathan Bear.

19. I would never have signed up for Raging Bull's services if I knew that I was not going to get any training of value, I could not mimic the trades like they promised, and I was going to lose thousands of dollars. I lost nearly $17,000.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

DECLARATION OF DANIELLE FELTS
PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. § 1746

My name is Danielle Felts, and I am over 18 years old. I have personal knowledge of the facts stated below. If called as a witness, I could and would testify as follows:

1. I live in Randolph, New Jersey. My husband and I own and manage a small business that provides dog care and training services. The pandemic has hurt our business but we have been able to get some relief funding to keep our business afloat. A few years ago, I was diagnosed with a disorder that causes chronic pain and fatigue and put me in a wheelchair, but I have not been able to obtain disability benefits.

2. I started trading on my own about two years ago. I do not have a formal degree in business or finance and learned what I know about the stock market by actively trading and watching and reading the news. I started trading options right away because I heard you could make more money quickly with options. My brokerage firm cleared me for Level 3 options trading, but I am not exactly sure what I had to do to get this clearance.

3. In or around May 2020, I saw advertisements for a Raging Bull service called “LottoX” featuring Nathan Bear. The ads talked about how Nathan Bear was able to time his options trades perfectly, that he was averaging a 100% winner about every few days, and that he would be alerting his followers to his “100% winning” trades. They even offered a “performance guarantee” and said that LottoX would be sending me at least fifty 100% winning trades over the next year if I joined. Attached as Attachment A is a true and correct copy of one advertisement for LottoX that I received on my phone.

4. Raging Bull charged $2499 on my credit card for an unlimited or lifetime access to LottoX. I joined because I thought I would increase my trading profits by getting trade ideas and following their trade alerts.

5. After I signed up for LottoX, I continued receiving pop-up ads and promotional emails for other Raging Bull services featuring people like Jeff Bishop and Kyle Dennis. Between May and June 2020, I signed up for five other Raging Bull subscriptions in addition to LottoX and was charged about $2,500 in total for these services: Profit Bridge ($22) and Bullseye Trades ($399) featuring Jeff Bishop, Profit Prism Platinum ($1,497) featuring Jeff Williams, and Fast Five Trades (about $300) and Sniper Report ($299) featuring Kyle Dennis. I recall all of these services claimed they would make me a better trader and regularly alert me to profitable trades even during this pandemic.

6. When I started following and trading on the LottoX alerts, I began losing substantial sums of money very quickly. I lost over $50,000 on just two options trades that LottoX alerted. I would get texts from Nathan Bear saying that he had just bought a particular call option on a stock that would be breaking out, but then discovered that these predictions or forecasts were often wrong. It was like he was just guessing. I think I would have lost money about 80% of the time if I had followed every LottoX trade that I received an alert about. Attached as Attachment B are true and correct copies of screen captures of sample trade alerts I received from LottoX.

7. I also noticed that Nathan Bear did not tell people about the specific amount of his losses on trades and mostly bragged about his winning trades. I have seen other Raging Bull traders report their losses at times. For example, in September 2020, Kyle Dennis told his subscribers that he had just lost $47,000 on one trade.

8. I have not made substantial profits following any of the trades alerted in the other Raging Bull services. One of these services, Profit Prism, sent out trade recommendations on penny stocks that my brokerage firm (Robinhood) did not even have available on its platform to buy. It was also difficult to get any reliable news about these penny stocks recommended by Jeff Williams. As for Kyle Dennis, I recall there was at least one instance where he told his subscribers to hold onto a stock (DVAX) even though Yahoo news was reporting weak financials for this company and showing its stock price going down.

9. In or around June 2020, I decided to cancel my subscription to LottoX and get my money back. I felt the company should at least issue me a refund for the subscription cost given that I ended up losing a lot of money following trades, contrary to the performance guarantee.

10. Raging Bull did not give me any option to cancel online and reclaim my refund, so I tried to reach them by phone. I dialed the customer service line multiple times but no one ever picked up the phone. I also sent them emails asking about my refund, which went unanswered. This was all very frustrating and stressful.

11. In late June 2020, I submitted a complaint against Raging Bull with the Better Business Bureau (“BBB”). I informed the BBB that LottoX service was a “scam” and that Nathan Bear was just a guy taking wild guesses and being wrong most of the time. Someone at Raging Bull must have seen my complaint because a Raging Bull representative named Derek finally reached out to me. Derek offered to schedule a phone call “so we can come up with a solution.” I told Derek that I just wanted a refund for LottoX. I have not heard back from Derek or anyone at Raging Bull after that and still have not received any refund.

12. I continue to get advertisements from Raging Bull on my phone and in my emails soliciting me to sign up for other services. For example, I recently got a pop-up ad on my phone from Jeff Bishop at “Total Alpha,” which he advertises as the “first and last option trading system you’ll ever need.” The ad goes on to say that Bishop “had a few six-figure paydays in 2020,” that he has a “winning formula,” and that he would show me how he “locked in over $130,000 in profits before the lunch rush.” The amount of ads they send me on a weekly or daily basis is overwhelming. Attached as Attachment C is a true and correct copy of this pop-up ad from Total Alpha.

13. Overall, I have paid about $5,000 to Raging Bull in subscription fees and lost at least $50,000 following their trades. My brokerage account was in the “positive” before I started following Raging Bull’s trade alerts.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Executed on October 12 2020.

DECLARATION OF UGO DIRIBE
Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746

I, Ugo Diribe, have personal knowledge of the facts and matters set forth below. If called as a witness, I could and would testify as follows:

1. My name is Ugo Diribe. I am over the age of twenty-one and I live in Katy, Texas.

2. In approximately March 2019, I was on YouTube watching videos about stock trading and I saw many advertisements for a company called RagingBull.com LLC (“Raging Bull”). I had never traded before and I decided to click on one of their advertisements and watched a video with a man named Jeff Bishop who is the head of Raging Bull.

3. Jeff Bishop said he had a lot of trading experience and that he made millions trading. The video showed him and other Raging Bull traders flying on private jets, driving flashy cars and living the high life. These Raging Bull traders talked about how they have made millions of dollars trading from home using their methods. They explained that trading was their ticket to freedom and out of the traditional 9 to 5 workplace. They talked about how they had been in the grind of the 9 to 5 job and could not afford to pay for things until they found this escape route—this ticket to a better life.

4. The traders in the videos also explained that because trading can be difficult for new people, they would do all the hard work, like research and technical analysis, and send their paid subscription holders real-time alerts for when to buy and sell the stock or option. They also promised that subscription holders would have access to online classroom materials and a chat room. Jeff said that his strategies can help people supplement their income. Jeff also said that he published a book and that impressed me. Jeff said that the book teaches his secrets on how to become a successful trader. It was free, so I downloaded a copy of it. I read the materials and then decided I wanted to sign up for the service so that I could receive the real-time alerts, have access to Jeff’s online video lessons, and access the chat room.

5. Jeff's book was about the basics of options trading. The book contained definitions of options, discussed different types of options and options trading rules. The book was helpful on a basic level and it laid a foundation, but I still needed training and practice to learn how to trade. I also watched some of Jeff's online videos. These videos showed high-level examples of trading, but did not teach a specific strategy or day-to-day steps that I could follow. I received some information from the videos, but I did not get better at trading or ultimately succeed in my trading with the book or the videos.

6. On March 15, 2019, I signed up for Weekly Money Multiplier. I was impressed by Jeff's track record of winning trades, and I liked the fact that he said it was for people new to trading. Jeff made it sound like it would be very easy for me to use the service. He said he does all the hard work, sends us the "set-up," and tells us when to enter and exit. All I had to do was watch for the buy and sell alerts and make the same trades. Raging Bull charged $1497 on my credit card for a year of service. Jeff said that we would be able to cover the subscription cost with the profits from the trades we would be making using his service.

7. After I signed up for the service, I started to receive buy and sell alerts from Jeff Bishop. I was not able to make the money that Jeff was stating he was making. I was losing money on these trades. Jeff also did not teach me how effectively to manage my risk on these trades. I could not purchase at the price Jeff alerted us to and traded on. I believe that Jeff was buying into a position at a cheap price and then sending out the alert. It seemed to me that once his subscribers purchased, Jeff made money on the backs of everyone else because subscribers like me who were following his trades drove up the demand and price of the stock or option. I lost approximately $8,000 trying to follow Jeff's alerts. I often noticed that when I would try to follow his recommendations, the price would go up before I could buy and then would go down again before I could sell.

8. After I signed up, I was bombarded with marketing emails every day from Raging Bull, the company that owns Weekly Money Multiplier. One of the emails I received advertised a service called Option Rocket by a trading expert named Kyle Dennis. The email advertised a webinar about the service. On April 21, 2019, I registered for the webinar that was scheduled for April 25. Kyle Dennis talked about how he became a millionaire trading in the stock market and that he was focused on biotech stocks. Kyle said that his service offered trade alerts. Kyle promised he would do all the hard work and send out trade alerts to all of his subscribers so that we could make the same trades he was making. He said that this was a great service for beginners and we did not need to have any experience because we could just follow what he does. This was similar to Jeff Bishop's service, except Kyle Dennis said that his Option Rocket service comes with what he called "Mortal Lock" trade alerts and he guaranteed a 400% return on his first Mortal Lock options trade. He said that for that night only, the service would be discounted to $1997. In the email advertising the webinar, he specifically said, "I guarantee you'll make more than $1997 with this one trade! Then, the rest of your profits are all a bonus." Attached as Attachment A is a true and correct copy of the email and a few screenshots from the webinar.

9. On April 25, 2019, I decided to sign up for Kyle Dennis' Option Rocket service. Raging Bull charged $1997 on my credit card. I signed up because Kyle made it sound like I would be missing out on huge wins and he was guaranteeing huge returns on his trades. Kyle made a powerful impression on me and exuded confidence in his trading abilities. I really felt like I could make the kind of money he was making with his service. I received the invoice and it listed out the various items that I would receive with the service. For example, it says that I would receive selective trade alerts, detailed reports and key findings, access to the options video library, access to his live streaming portfolio, the "C.A.S.H out system – 100% wins...the weekly paycheck," and Option Rocket. Attached as Attachment B is a true and correct copy of the receipt.

10. On April 28, 2019, Kyle sent an email answering some questions he received after his webinar on the Option Rocket service. The first two questions were about how much time subscribers needed to commit to the service and how much money subscribers needed to start the program. In terms of time, Kyle answered by stating, "To be honest, very little. I'm doing the work for you. I'm sending you my trades after doing the research. From there, I'm bundling everything up for you so that you have all the information you need to make your decision. Depending on how fast you read and can take a position...maybe 5 minutes per day? This is meant for the busy, working professional. I designed it as such and cater it to you (emphasis in original)." In terms of money, Kyle answered by stating, "Same with the amount of time...VERY LITTLE! You can do this with account sizes that are extremely small. Then you can scale accordingly." Then Kyle stated, "This really is the perfect service for those looking to get their feet off the ground. With 100% winners regularly, you can exponentially grow your account...quickly. I do recommend a $500 account at minimum so you can be part of my Mortal Lock guarantee, though (emphasis in original)." The last question was about the performance guarantee. Kyle stated, "Now what I'm saying is this. If you take $500 and decide to put it into this trade, I will guarantee that it goes up 400% and that you make $2000 (which is the cost of the service)." Then he stated that if it does not, "I'm going to give you another year to my service, absolutely free!" Attached as Attachment C is a true and correct copy of the email.

11. After I signed up for the Option Rocket service, I continued to receive emails from Kyle Dennis (from the email kyle@biotechbreakouts.com) advertising the Option Rocket service.

12. For example, on April 26, 2019, Kyle wrote, "I told everyone last night...You either win, or you win! And already, the C.A.$.H system is producing massive returns. That's a 50% winner and a 100% winner already, and guess what? Now we allocate proceeds to THE LOCK so that we can set ourselves up for 300...700...even 1500% returns! You need to be part of this service. There's no reason not to be! I'm guaranteeing YOUR performance, too! (emphasis in original)." Attached as Attachment D is a true and correct copy of the email.

13. Between April 26 and May 2, 2019, I received many emails from kyle@biotechbreakouts.com advertising the Option Rocket service. Kyle switched from guaranteeing a 400% return to an 800% return. I received an email that stated in part, "You'll be amazed at how much better work is when you're making additional income in as little as a few minutes per day." Kyle also stated, "My service though...its GUARANTEED! Mortal Lock Trade...800% (minimum $250 to make $2000) or you get a free year! Start with this program, because this first year is practically risk free. It's the foundation and the building block to your success." There was also a customer testimonial in the email that stated, "I just started trading full time as of September 1st this year after I was forced to retire from a 40 year career as a [sic] Airline Pilot. Last week I was able to realize a profit of $78,000 – Nathan C." Kyle closed with "How does an extra $1000 or $2000 a week sound (emphasis in original)?" Attached as Attachment E is a true and correct copy of this email.

14. On May 2, 2019, Kyle sent another email that stated, "Over the past week, I've done all I could to show you the value of this service. If you ask me, I did more than deliver. Most traders won't hit a 100% win this entire year. I demonstrated how effortless it is with my C.A.$H system...you could've hit 7 with me in 4 trading days. Then a few 50% winners were just for fun." Then he advertised what he called "cash collectors" which he explained are extremely selective picks called Mortal Locks. He went on to reiterate that he guarantees "that $250 into this one trade will make you $2000 or you get a free year of service." Finally he said that the Option Rocket service was going to go up from $1997 to $3997 after midnight and the Mortal Locks will not be included in the service after that time. In fact, those will cost $1000 a piece. Attached as Attachment F is a true and correct copy of the email. Attached as Attachment G are true and correct copies of 18 other emails I received promoting the Option Rocket service between April 26 and May 2.

15. I also received other marketing emails from Kyle Dennis where he boasted about his winning trades and how his subscribers were also making money from Kyle's trade alerts. In one email, Kyle stated, "Today was one that you'll never want to miss again. And one that you wouldn't have if you were a member of my service! Rather than type too much, let me show you the 4 100% winners I locked in during the last 30 minutes of trading today. I'll post the link to join the Option Rocket here, because I can't imagine why you wouldn't want a piece of this."

Other emails contained testimonials from other subscribers. For example, one email had a list of testimonials, including “+600% on GE wow,” “I made around 800%+!!! Thanks Kyle!” “just a cool 36k,” “cool 12000,” and “$6000+ on GE!!! And I’m at the gym!!!” Attached as Attachment H are true and correct copies of these two emails and additional emails Kyle sent about his winning trades.

16. On May 3, 2019, Kyle sent out the first Mortal Lock trade. He said he was buying “250 NIO June 21, 2019 $6 calls at .20.” I understood this to mean he was buying 250 options contracts at .20 per contract for the company NIO and the options expired on June 21, 2019. The email also said that if we put $250 into the trade, we qualify for his guarantee that we will make at least $1997 on the trade. If we do not make the cost of the service by the time the trade is over, Kyle said we will get another year of the service for free. Attached as Attachment I is a true and correct copy of the email.

17. During the time period of these option contracts, Kyle sent several update emails to his subscribers stating that he was holding on to the contracts. On May 28, 2019, Kyle sent an update that although the news around the company and the industry of electric cars was mixed, he was still holding on to the contracts. During this time period, I saw half my account wiped out and I had a feeling the trade was a big mistake, but Kyle kept advising us to hold the position. He gave us hope through his emails, and he told us he was holding on to the contracts. Attached as Attachment J are true and correct copies of the follow up emails from Kyle.

18. On May 29, 2019, I emailed Kyle Dennis and asked if there was any new guidance on NIO and Mortal lock. I said, “23 days to expiry and a lot of money at risk.” Michael from Biotech Breakouts responded by saying, “Kyle sent out an update yesterday for NIO. You can review that email and see if it’s still a viable trade for you.” I had already lost money and was hoping that it would turn around. Attached as Attachment K is a true and correct copy of this email exchange.

19. On June 3, 2019, Kyle emailed and acknowledged that the NIO trade does not look like it will be profitable. He stated, “To put it bluntly, this pick failed. My research was right, but...we had some REALLY bad timing. Now, we do have 3 weeks here to have some sort of surprise news come out to remedy some of this trade, but this would be unlikely. I will be holding my position for the next 3 weeks, since there is no sense in selling it for a cent just to book the loss. Like I said, there is always a chance something amazing happens.” Later in the email, he stated “I know you put a lot of faith into me on this pick and I thought I was going to be 100% right. I have real money in this trade and I’m losing right along with you.” Then he stated, “I’m closing in on $7,000,000 in career trading profits and I want you to be reassured that we are going to battle back” and “I’ve booked thousands of winners over the past 5 years and I’m pushing forward with some fantastic ideas.” Attached as Attachment L is a true and correct copy of the email.

20. On June 10, 2019 Kyle sent another update stating that he was sticking with the position for two more weeks. He said, “I am hopeful still, but it is not likely that this trade is remedied.” At the end of the email he stated, “Now I’m off to do some more research to find you another 100% winner.” Attached as Attachment M is a true and correct copy of the email.

21. On June 17, 2019, Kyle sent an email about NIO and the mortal lock trade. The subject line said “Option Rocket: Final NIO Update and Instructions Coming!” Kyle said, “As promised, we will have a NIO update every Monday until the end of the position. So here’s the nitty gritty...The play obviously did not go as I planned. There were several reasons as to why it didn’t work out, which I highlighted in my report a few weeks ago. I will be working extra hard for you to make up for this call that didn’t work out, and recouping those losses as quickly as I can. There hasn’t been anything notable to report on since last week and it’s looking like the position will come to a final close this Friday.” Kyle then went on to say, “On Monday, I will give you instructions on how to take advantage of the guarantee. You will need to simply call in and talk to one of our VIP team leaders. They will take care of you!” Attached as Attachment N is a true and correct copy of the email.

22. The trade turned out to be a disaster. I lost approximately $12,000 trading with Kyle on this one mortal lock trade. Other subscribers were also talking about the money they lost in the chat room.

23. Aside from the mortal lock trade, Kyle also sent out alerts for other trades he was making. I tried to follow his alerts, but I found that by the time I received the alerts, the prices were higher than the prices Kyle claimed he spent on the trades. I still tried to make the trades even though I could not get in the trades at the prices he sent on the alerts, and I ended up losing approximately $4000 with Kyle's trades. I realized that I was not getting any value out of the service because the alerts were meaningless. It seemed like all the alerts did was drive up the prices so Kyle could make money by using us as pawns. I felt that I was always playing catch up because I could not make the trades at the same prices. Like with Jeff Bishop's service, it seemed to me that because he was sending out the alerts after he purchased, and his subscribers purchased once they received the alerts, the subscribers were pushing up the stock prices and Kyle and Jeff were the ones making money off the trades.

24. Since the alerts were an important piece of the service to me, I sent Kyle a message on Messenger and asked him if it was possible for him to share the information about the stocks he was monitoring before he made the trades so that we could monitor those trades, prepare ahead of time, and buy at the same time. I told him "I'm not usually able to get in on the prices on your alerts. Meaning I have sustained losses where you made 100% in many cases." Kyle sent a message back saying that he cannot do that because it is illegal for him to do that. I did not understand that. He could have just told us the stocks he was monitoring and the prices he was looking to trade at. I believe he just wants to use everyone else to drive the prices up for himself. I began to realize that for the kinds of stocks and options that Kyle and Jeff were recommending, the timing of these trades was critical because these securities were volatile and their prices could plummet within a few days or even a few hours. So, if you bought while the price was at its peak or held onto the stock or options for too long, you could be left with crippling losses. Attached as Attachment O is a true and correct copy of the text message I sent to Kyle and his reply.

25. I tried to cancel my Option Rocket subscription online, but I was not able to do so. There was no provision for cancelling online. There was no link or instructions online telling me how to cancel. In addition, Raging Bull kept the credit card I paid with on file and I could not delete it from their website. I tried to call and cancel and the phone rang for a long time. When someone did pick up, I was put on hold for a long time. I was not able to get through to anyone until I called the sales number as if I was a new customer signing up for a service.

26. Finally, I reached a sales representative named Jeff. I told him that I wanted a refund of the Option Rocket subscription, since I had paid $1997 for the service and lost the majority of my account from his Mortal Lock trade. Jeff told me that Raging Bull does not issue refunds. I then asked if Raging Bull could transfer my money to my Weekly Money Multiplier service and he said I could not apply the money I spent on Option Rocket towards Jeff's service. He told me that I would forfeit my subscription fee if I decided to quit Option Rocket even though it had only been approximately two months since I signed up. I was very upset. To placate me, Jeff proposed a "lifetime" membership for Weekly Money Multiplier. He said if I decided to upgrade my account to lifetime, I would only have to pay $250 at renewal time in March 2020 and not the full fee I paid originally. I declined the offer.

27. It was not until a few weeks later, on August 1, 2019, that I discovered that Raging Bull billed me $999 in July 2019 for a Weekly Money Multiplier Lifetime Upgrade and an accompanying trial period without my authorization or consent. They also reset my account subscription for Option Rocket making it appear like I had a brand new account for Option Rocket starting on July 19, 2019. In addition, even though I was billed for a lifetime subscription, my Weekly Money Multiplier subscription no longer appeared on my member dashboard and I could not access the service any longer. Attached as Attachment P is a true and correct copy of the dashboard after they reset my account and the invoice for the unauthorized charge.

28. I called Jeff back and he claimed ignorance and told me he would review my account, but he did not think they made a mistake. He told me that he billed me because I requested a lifetime subscription. I said that I did not. I reminded him that I asked for a refund and he was the one who suggested the lifetime subscription and I declined. I did not have a recording of the call and so I could not prove what I said. I decided to call my credit card company to see if I could chargeback the fee. The credit card company told me to go back to the company to try and resolve it, but they would start an investigation. Because I had already tried to get my money back from Raging Bull and the credit card company to no avail, on August 6, 2019, I filed a complaint with the Better Business Bureau (“BBB”) in New Hampshire.

29. On August 10, 2019, I again sent an email to Raging Bull asking what happened to my Weekly Money Multiplier subscription and telling them that if they took it away from me, then they need to refund me for that subscription. Michael, an employee with Raging Bull, responded to my email on August 10, stating that because I disputed the Weekly Money Multiplier charge with my credit card and received a refund, they deleted my subscription. That is false. My subscription was deleted prior to calling the credit card company and I did not receive a refund from the credit card company. I had to explain several times that I disputed the $999 charge because I did not authorize that charge for a lifetime upgrade and that $999 charge had nothing to do with my original service. On August 12, 2019, I emailed Michael again after I checked and my Weekly Money Multiplier subscription was not restored. On August 13, Michael emailed me and told me he restored my Weekly Money Multiplier service. Attached as Attachment Q is a true and correct copy of my email correspondence with Raging Bull from August 2019.

30. The BBB informed Raging Bull of my complaint. Michael from Raging Bull responded to me through the BBB on August 15, 2019. He stated in part, “I’d be more than happy to refund the $1997 for the Option Rocket service but I would need you to identify with BBB that you're satisfied with the result that I shared above." Michael was referring to Raging Bull's customer service representative reversing their unauthorized charge of $999, after I had to first point this error out to them and complain. On September 11, 2019, I responded by stating, "I have faced difficulty trying to resolve this issue on phone. Its [sic] clear your folks deliberately avoid my calls. I want my $1997 refund for Option Rocket. The service is not useful to me. I neither use the service nor want it." On September 30, 2019, someone at Raging Bull responded by stating that they had refunded me $1997 for Option Rocket. I finally did receive a refund for Option Rocket. Attached as Attachment R is a true and correct copy of the BBB complaint and correspondence.

31. I stayed with Weekly Money Multiplier for the entire year. The subscription expired in March 2020. I called my bank to cancel my credit card so that if Raging Bull tried to renew that service, they would not be able to. I specifically cancelled the card to stop Raging Bull from taking money from my account.

32. I lost approximately $24,000 trying to follow Jeff Bishop and Kyle Dennis' alerts.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Subject: Re: Feedback Needed ASAP

Thanks for everyone that emailed me yesterday. Tons of great feedback.

Now from what I read, the service has been well received but there were some general questions so I'll use this email to address them.

Biggest two...Time Commitment and Capital...

1) How much time do I need to Commit to this?

To be honest, very little. I'm doing the work for you. I'm sending you my trades after doing the research. From there, I'm bundling everything up for you so that you have all the information you need to make your decision.

Depending on how fast you read and can take a position...maybe 5 minutes per day?

This is meant for the busy, working professional. I designed it as such and cater it to you.

2) How Much Capital (Money) Do I Need?

Same with the amount of time...VERY LITTLE! You can do this with account sizes that are extremely small. Then you can scale accordingly. Here, I showed this in my webinar, but take a look again.

These are small positions!

This really is the perfect service for those looking to get their feet off the ground. With 100% winners regularly, you can exponentially grow your account...quickly!

I do recommend a $500 account at minimum so you can be part of my Mortal Lock guarantee, though.

Which brings me to the 3rd question I got often!

3) Kyle, I Don't Understand Your Performance Guarantee...?

Alright, this one is important, so here it is.

All you need is $500.

Once you join my service, you'll have access to my Mortal Lock trades. My 1st one is set to go live this coming week (ACT FAST).

Now, what I'm saying is this. If you take $500 and decide to put it into this trade, I will guarantee that it goes up 400% and that you make $2000 (which is the cost of the service).

Now, if it does not...

I'm going to give you another year to my service, absolutely free!

So think of it like this...

This year for you is risk free. If you don't make the service cost back on that one trade, BOOM!

A year free just for you!

Talk about a guarantee!

Problem is, you need to act quickly. Mortal Lock is live this coming week, guarantee will not be offered forever, and the price doubles soon.

Avoid all of that by joining now.

Subject: [8 Hours] You're On the Clock

Rush hour traffic.

A miserable commute.

A salary that you know you're worth more than.

A structured 9-5 schedule.

I was fed up with it all, especially the amount of work I was doing to make just $40,000 per year.

So what did I do? I found a way to generate more income. I remember my first year that I made more than $40,000 in trading profits.

Then the next year, I made $838,000...Needless to say, I quit my job.

I'm telling you this because that first year I was able to make more than my salary was the greatest feeling of my life.

You'll be amazed at how much better work is when you're making additional income in as little as a few minutes per day.

And I wasn't as fortunate as you!

I didn't have the Option Rocket.

I wasted money on services that didn't deliver.

My service though... it's GUARANTEED!

Mortal Lock Trade...800% (minimum $250 to make $2000) or you get a free year!

It's the foundation and the building block to your success.

And who knows...maybe it will lead to your career as a full time trader?

"I just started trading full time as of September 1st this year after I was forced to retire from a 40 year career as a Airline Pilot. Last week I was able to realize a profit of $78,000" - Nathan C.

But for now...

How does an extra $1000 or $2000 a week sound?

Let's start there. You have until midnight to get this price before it doubles!

Subject: BIG NEWS! Everything Ends Today

I've been trying to give you fair warning.

Over the past week, I've done all I could to show you the value of this service.

If you ask me, I did more than deliver.

Most traders won't hit a 100% win this entire year.

I demonstrated how effortless it is with my C.A.$.H system...You could've hit 7 with me in 4 trading days. Then a few 50% winners were just for fun.

Like I said, those are our "Cash Collectors" which basically gear us up for extremely selective picks that I call...

Mortal Locks.

My FIRST MORTAL LOCK IS BEING PLACED TOMORROW!

That's one reason you need to join by midnight.

The second is that the GUARANTEE IS NOT OFFERED AFTER TODAY. This is the last time to get in on this risk-free year.

Like I've said, I guarantee that $250 into this one trade will make you $2000 or you get a free year of service. It was originally $400 but I'm at an all new level of confidence so I wanted to give you a little extra!

And lastly, and PROBABLY THE MOST IMPORTANT...

At midnight, this $1997 price is gone forever.

Option Rocket will be priced at $3997, but wait...it will get much worse for you!

Mortal Locks WILL NOT be included in the service after tonight.

Because of how advantageous they are for members, access to each Mortal Lock throughout the year will be $1000 a piece.

Avoid all of that by signing up at this heavily discounted price of \$1997.

You have until midnight.

Nearly two hours long with a full Q&A, and I know you don't want to sit through all of that.

Subject: [NEW] This Deal Got Better!

I know it's Saturday evening, but something today got me thinking that I want to make this the easiest decision possible for you.

Now, listen up, because this is something you can't refuse.

During the webinar, I asked what "more money" meant for you. The winner got free access to my services and will be flown in as my VIP guest for the next conference.

On Apr 25, 8:09 PM, Steve Apt wrote:

"The ability to continue to pay for the best Doctors to treat my wife's breast cancer. Thankfully she is doing well now after reconstruction and treatments. I burned through half my retirement paying for private Doctors and special surgeries. All well worth every penny. Now time to rebuild and retire and enjoy the rest of our lives."

That right there hit home for me.

I knew I wanted to help, so I then pledged another $10,000 to the National Breast Cancer Foundation.

This is what "more money" means to me. It means that I can give back and help people.

So here is the deal that I'm offering you right here, right now.

Would you like to be able to help people in need?...To give back to charities of your choosing?

Well NOW you can.

Currently, I'm offering my Option Rocket service for \$1997.

For the next 50 people that buy at $1997, I'm going to give away $1997 of my trading profits this year.

Read that again!

I'm going to match your purchase! You buy it for $1997...and then I'm going to take $1997 from my trading profits this year and donate to charity.

You want to know what's better?

I'm going to let YOU CHOOSE THE CHARITY!

It just has to be an accredited organization with a solid reputation. My team will do the final vetting to make sure it's reliable of course.

But that's the plan and that's why you need to take action.

As soon as you purchase, just email me with the charity you'd like me to donate to this year.

So, after knocking the price down to \$1997...

After delivering you a performance guarantee of that \$1997 on my Mortal Lock...

I then went a step further and I'm essentially putting your purchase to a worthwhile cause, more than just your own education and personal growth.

This is me pledging $100,000 of my trading profits to the selected charities of the next 50 people who buy my service.

Go ahead...find someone else that is going to do this. I dare you.

Join the Option Rocket now.

I'll continue working day in and day out in order to prove to you that this is the best decision of your life.

Subject: My $100,000 Pledge

I emailed everyone last night, but it's the weekend so I'm sure you didn't see it.

This is something I can't let you miss, so here it is again.

My $100,000 Pledge.

As I wrote in my last email, the next 50 people who join my service at \$1997 will get to pick the charity that I donate $2000 of my trading profits to.

Yes, that's $2000 * 50 people = $100,000 I'm giving.

So long as it's an accredited organization, it should be fine. My team will need to do a final vetting to make sure everything checks out.

Now, this is how I want to separate myself from other services.

For me, I want you to have success. I want you to make more money.

Because what more money does is it allows us to give back to others who need our help.

I no longer want you to think of this purchase as a "cost"...because it's not anymore.

As one of the next 50 people (like I said in my last email), you become a part of this charitable donation.

Subject: When Will You Start Making Money?

The question on everyone's mind.

"I have to pay $1997 for the service...when am I going to recoup that cost and start making money?"

Couple of points here.

1) I'm guaranteeing you make that much with one trade! If you don't make that back with the Mortal Lock that airs this week, you get a $1997 credit for another year...FREE.

All you have to do is decide if you want to be in that trade and take a $500 minimum position.

2) If I wasn't giving out that guarantee, you'd still be sitting in a phenomenal place! Members have made that back in as little as a couple days! It doesn't take long when you're hitting these types of winners.

Here, take it from them!

"Made 64%! Almost paid off my membership with two trades!" - Derek Z

"Great call on SRPT and AAXN. It's only been two weeks and I've almost made my annual fee back :)...thx, you're really making a difference in people's lives. That is something you can be very proud of!!!" - Parker A

"I am a new member of your service and joined last week...I picked VKTX and bought 5 $15 Calls Exp 10/19 on 09/14. VKTX stock was at $10.4x Today is 09/18, the stock skyrocketed to > $21 and my options prices jumped huge. I was able to quickly sell just after market open @ $5.20 making me more than $2000 over the weekend." - Sam W

Want to know the real beauty of this?

You Keep All Your Profits!

Now, in one full year, I've guaranteed your success.

I'm giving you access to Mortal Lock trades absolutely free.

I'm letting you see a live portfolio of my trades.

I'm giving you full access to my C.A.$.H System to act as a foundation for your trading.

And all I'm asking is \$1997.

Ask yourself...Do you think you aren't going to make more than that in an entire year?

All it may take is 1, 100% win. Remember, I hit 6 of those on Friday!

Don't miss another and join before my next trade goes live!

🔑 New Findings UnLOCKed 🔑

From: Kyle Dennis (kyle@biotechbreakouts.com)

To: [REDACTED]

Date: Monday, April 29, 2019, 07:00 PM CDT

Another quick message.

I don't want to disturb your night. I'm getting ready to watch the NBA playoffs anyway.

But before I do, let's recap and see what's in store moving forward.

In 2 trading days since the webinar, I've hit SIX 100% winners and THREE +50% winners.

Many are closing in on 100% and I expect those to happen by Wednesday.

More trades will be put on tomorrow, and more importantly...

New Mortal Lock findings will be given to members.

Remember, that's the trade I have stone cold confidence in.

Not a doubt in my mind this thing returns less than 400%.

That's why I'm still guaranteeing your performance.

After all, I want you to make money!

I'll say it again. Expect a price hike and this guarantee to go away soon.

Subject: Newbie Alert: What Do I Do?

As a new trader or as a potential new member of my service, believe me when I say it can be nerve racking.

I've been there. I joined other services that let me down before finding the few that were worthwhile.

It was actually a big reason why I started my own.

I can't control the junk that others are offering. All I can do is control what my service delivers and each day, I go above and beyond for you.

You need to know that.

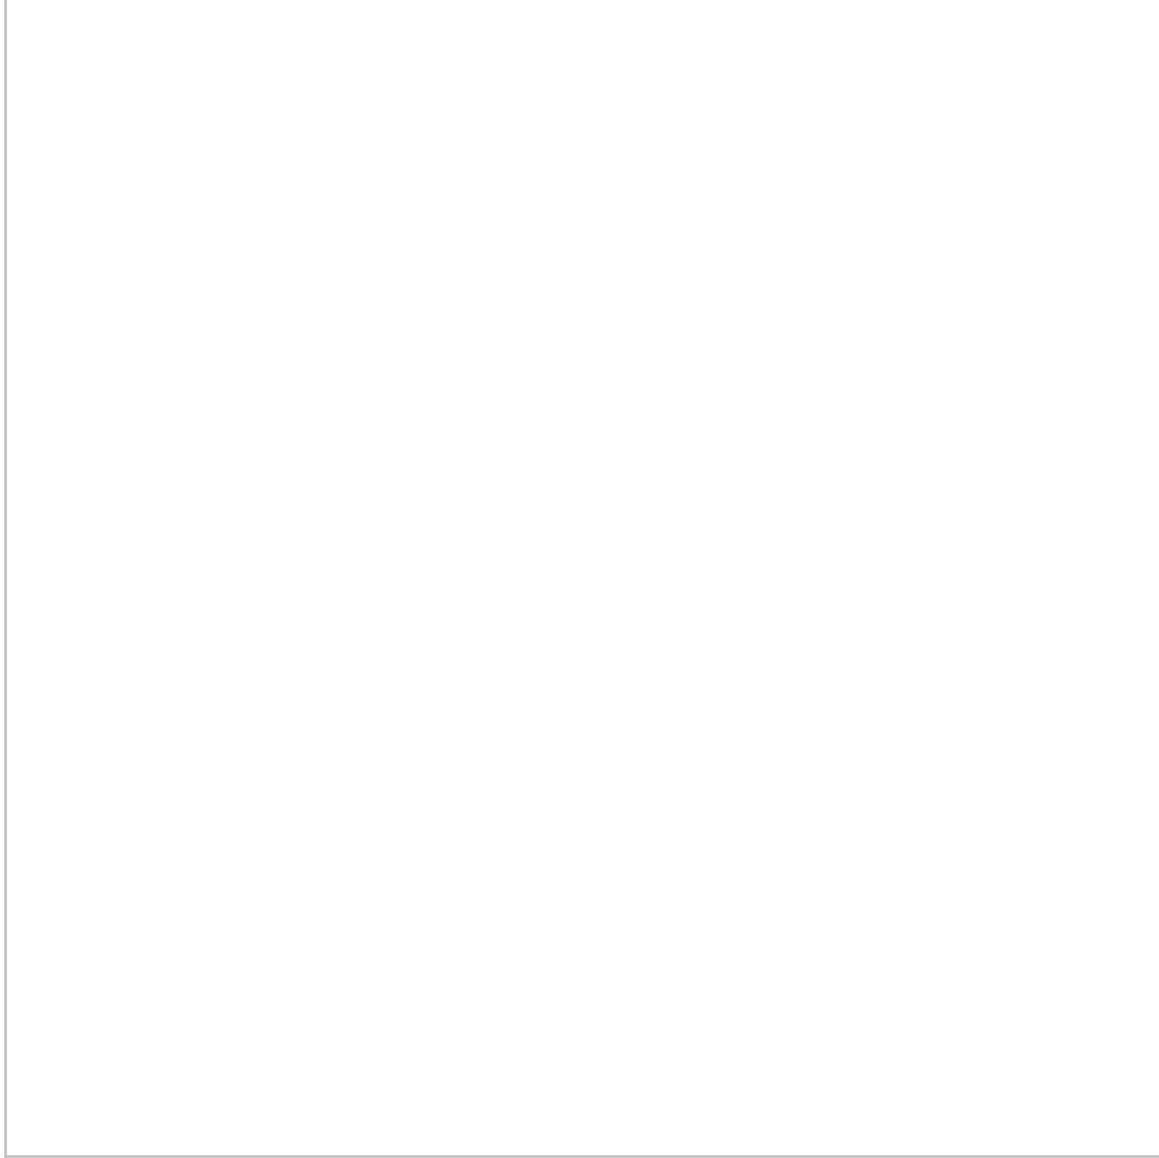

If my members didn't make money, I wouldn't have a business.

If it was taking them months or years to be successful, again, I wouldn't have a business.

I'm here to accelerate your learning curve and crush your perceptions of what is possible.

Don't take it from me. Take it from Carolina Perez...She joined on FRIDAY!

"Hi!!! Thank you I earned 2,500 dollars with you this week"

I don't want it to take you weeks or months to make back the cost of this service.

I want it to take you a couple days (maybe a week if you're not too aggressive).

That's why I'm still guaranteeing you make it back with this one Mortal Lock Pick!

I can't say much more. Big things are happening soon!

1000% returns. Let 'em Laugh!

From: Kyle Dennis (kyle@biotechbreakouts.com)

To: [REDACTED]

Date: Tuesday, April 30, 2019, 06:53 AM CDT

Here's a little lesson to kickstart this Tuesday morning.

The market gives us unlimited opportunity every day. One of the most crucial factors to your trading is exactly that. It's YOUR trading.

Remember, I'm doing the work for you. I'm researching companies, actively scanning and looking into technicals, reading news releases...Anything I can do to give us a leg up on the market and put the odds in our favor.

However, when it comes to making the trade and taking profits, that's on you.

And I'll say this time and time again. You NEVER go broke taking profits.

I might be gunning for 50-100%...is there a problem with take profits before that?
Absolutely not!

In fact, when you realize how easy it can be to capture some 20-40% returns, you may just wind up compounding those wins and watching your account grow consistently.
Plenty of members already do this!

That's the goal here.

The goal of the Option Rocket isn't to make a couple big winners and then have nothing to show for it at the end of the year.

No. The goal is to 10X your money or more!

1000% returns. Others who are uneducated might scoff at you when you tell them that's your plan.

Let them mock you. Let them laugh.

I can't wait to see the look on their face when you tell them how much your account has grown.

Meanwhile, I'm sure that 2% return from their financial manager is going to change their lives!

Anyway, that's a topic for another day.

Until then, if you want to make serious money in the market, you've got to be the one holding the reigns.

Join the Option Rocket. I can't offer this price much longer.

If you have other questions, reply to this email. I'd like to know why you're still on the fence.

A lot has happened in the past week, so I'd like to do a quick review before I break some news to you.

Read along carefully, it's been utter chaos!

April 25th → Mortal Lock Launches LIVE, Lowest Price Offered with Guarantee.

April 26th → Six 100% Winners, 1 50% Winner, Members Cash In April 29th → Two 50% Winners and a 60% Winner, Members Cash In April 30th → 120% Winner, Members Cash In

Today, May 1st → Guarantee Sweetened. What I initially said would be a 400% winner, I upgraded to 800%.

At this point, I've done what I can do.

I woke up this morning with even more conviction. 800% CONVICTION!

What I'm saying is that a $250 position in the Mortal Lock will yield 800% returns or $2000 (cost of the service). If it does not, BOOMSKI! 1 Year FREE.

Now I need something from you.

Look at any other online trading service you're following right now.

Have they hit SEVEN 100%, verified winners in the past 3 trading days?

Have they provided you proof that members are reeling in profits and paying for the service in as little as a couple days?

And last but not least...

Are they guaranteeing YOUR performance?

If you can answer yes to all of these questions, I want you to reply to me and tell me what that service is, and I'll join it immediately, no matter what the cost is.

If anyone was going out of their way to provide for members like I am, they deserve my business.

I highly doubt anyone is doing that.

And until they do, the Option Rocket remains the most trusted online trading service.

One that you can have the confidence to join, because after all, this first year is risk free with my Mortal Lock guarantee!

If you don't make the cost of the service with this one trade, you get a free year! (Minimum $250 position).

Waiting isn't going to help you.

Join HERE.

\$3997 will be the new price soon! I don't want you to pay double.

Subject: Can I break THIS Record Tomorrow?

Won't name names, but there was a comment I saw and someone said...

"Why don't you hit 7, 100% winners in a day?"

And you know what I say to that, good sir?

I'm never going to back down, so tomorrow let's see how many "cash collectors" I can jump on to profit 100% before the weekend.

You'll have access to these if you join tonight.

I'm working to have some ready for market open.

And I also have some HUGE news coming tomorrow for all Option Rocket members.

I'm done giving out free tidbits though.

I can only say this.

It's going to be...

LEGENDARY!

I need you to act quickly though.

I made the guarantee even better today if you didn't notice (800% return on the mortal lock or you get a free year).

That combined with this blowout price of $1997..it's just getting out of hand.

I've been upfront about this.

That price is going to double. Don't get caught on the wrong side.

I told you I had big news coming, and here it is.

I no longer think my Mortal Lock is going to return 400%...

Sorry, but I've been patient with this trade and after some key findings were revealed yesterday, I just don't have that same certainty.

Instead, I have 800% CERTAINTY!

That's right. This trade has been upgraded and so has your guarantee.

I'm at a new level of confidence in this, and you are going to reap the rewards.

What this means is that if you decide to put just $250 into this trade, I guarantee it will return $2000 in profits, or 800%.

If it does not, you get another year of my service absolutely free.

How does that sound?

Great! Glad we are in agreement!

No one else is going to do this for you.

You need to sign up now. My guarantee is expiring soon.

Subject: BIG NEWS! Everything Ends Today

I've been trying to give you fair warning.

Over the past week, I've done all I could to show you the value of this service.

If you ask me, I did more than deliver.

Most traders won't hit a 100% win this entire year.

I demonstrated how effortless it is with my C.A.$.H system...You could've hit 7 with me in 4 trading days. Then a few 50% winners were just for fun.

Like I said, those are our "Cash Collectors" which basically gear us up for extremely selective picks that I call...

Mortal Locks.

My FIRST MORTAL LOCK IS BEING PLACED TOMORROW!

That's one reason you need to join by midnight.

The second is that the GUARANTEE IS NOT OFFERED AFTER TODAY. This is the last time to get in on this risk-free year.

Like I've said, I guarantee that $250 into this one trade will make you $2000 or you get a free year of service. It was originally $400 but I'm at an all new level of confidence so I wanted to give you a little extra!

And lastly, and PROBABLY THE MOST IMPORTANT...

At midnight, this $1997 price is gone forever.

Option Rocket will be priced at $3997, but wait...it will get much worse for you!

Mortal Locks WILL NOT be included in the service after tonight.

Because of how advantageous they are for members, access to each Mortal Lock throughout the year will be $1000 a piece.

Avoid all of that by signing up at this heavily discounted price of \$1997.

You have until midnight.

A week ago at this time, I got a pretty good idea who was serious about making money in the stock market.

Those people joined immediately and have been paying themselves this past week with the Option Rocket.

But I get it...you've been skeptical. You had to do your research. You had to see if I was "REAL".

And I've proven that I'M AS REAL AS THEY COME!

That's why I pledged all my trading profits from my services to charity this year and I even let 50 new Option Rocket members pick some of the charities.

That's why I guaranteed your performance.

And that's why I allowed a full week to get this discount. But now the decision is yours...

Are you REAL? If so, that means that you are serious about making more money.

Or are you FAKE? If so, that means you don't really want this.

Subject: ONE MORE BONUS!

You thought I was done adding value to this deal?

Well I'm not done yet!

You know I've guaranteed this first year for you with the Mortal Lock.

My trade tomorrow, I am guaranteeing returns of 800% or you get a free year. If you decide to take part, all that is required is $250 to help you make $2000 (cost of the service).

If you don't make that...

Again, your next year is FREE!

But wait, I want to make this just a little bit better for you.

If you don't make more than the cost of my service in the next year, I want you to email me, because something must be seriously wrong.

You have 252 trading days to make back $1997.

I mean, members who joined this week already made that cost back and now have 51 weeks of "free profits"...

So, if for some insane reason you aren't making money, I NEED you to email me and we will work out a special deal and get to the bottom of this!

It may even involve special credits or FREE access to some of my other services to make sure you securing profits.

I'm not in the business to see you fail.

You know what I say to FAILURE?

And that's the mindset you'll have when you reap the benefits of the Option Rocket.

Subject: Trade Alert: Bought SQ Calls

Wanted to send everyone a little teaser of what you can expect for the next 365 days as a member of the Option Rocket.

Today, I alerted a trade on SQ. Here it is, for free!

And already, members have been crushing it!

Remember, these are the “paychecks”...the “cash” we collect throughout the week.

“SQ is moving +35% so far...” - Jeffrey G
“so far for the day + 2500 . SQ calls.” - Ali K
“out of SQ call for 54%, I got in on Friday.” - Jason Y
“Out all SQ +57%.” Thanks Kyle
“50% on SQ calls” - Robert L
“51% SQ for me. was a nice call” - Jacob W.

Then we reallocate the proceeds to the Mortal Locks.

I'm telling you right now, you do not want to miss any more of these! They've been HUGE daily money makers!

Get in today and lock in this guaranteed year with me.

Price hike is coming as well.

Subject: Mortal Lock: Buying Calls on this Small Electric Car Maker

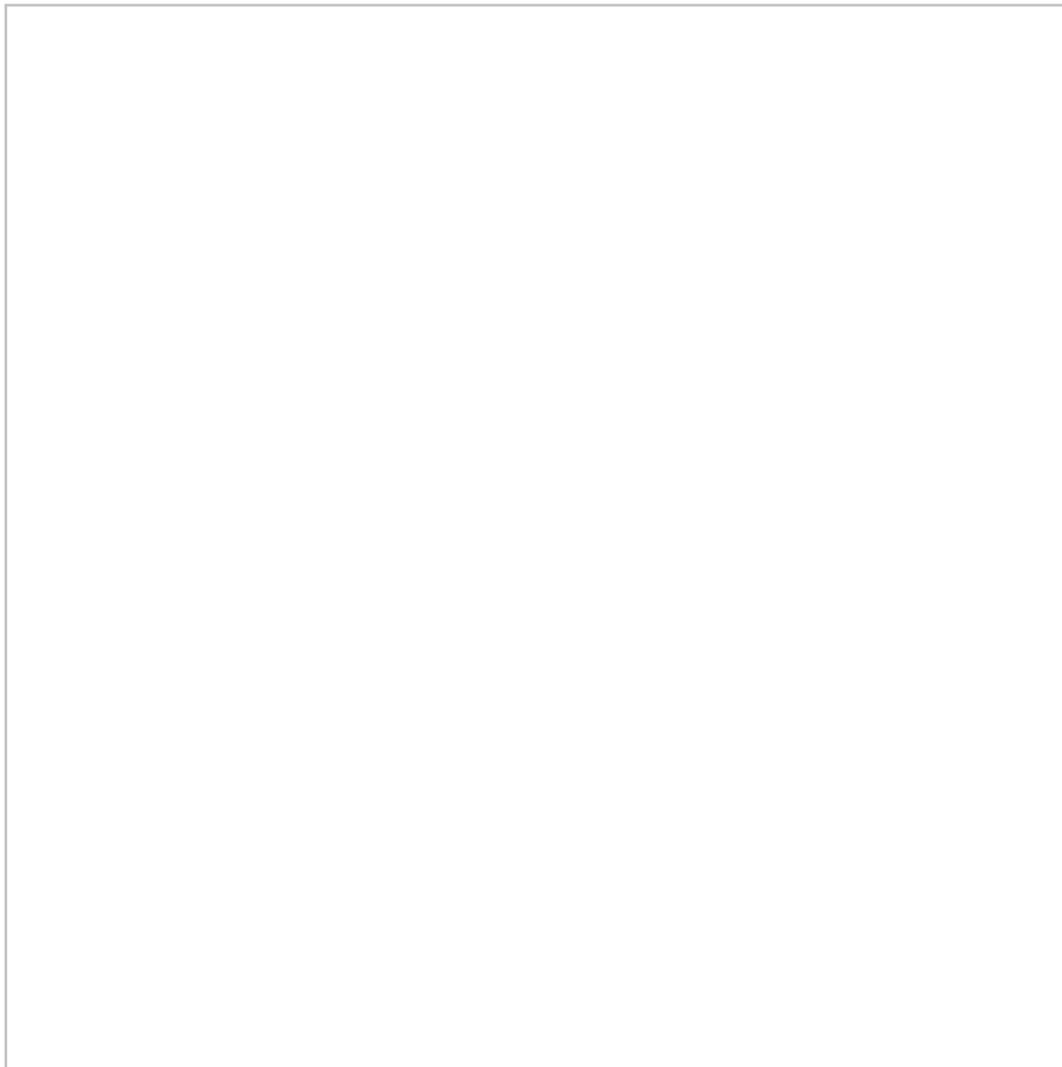

Good afternoon,

The Mortal Lock Trade: This stock is extremely liquid. Be sure to get the price YOU want. I think there is tremendous upside here, so I'm not too worried about the initial buy price, but the lower price you get obviously the better. I bought 250 NIO June 21, 2019 $6 calls at .20.

The Guarantee Rules (for the new Mortal Lock buyers): If you are a new Option Rocket buyer as of April 25th, 2019, and as long as you put in $250 into this trade, you qualify for my guarantee. Remember, my guarantee is that you will make at least $1997 (the cost of this service) on the trade, as long as you put in over $250 - if you do not make the cost of the service by the time the trade is over, all you have to do is call or email in to request another year on me! That means I'm seeing over 800% upside overall here! As an example however, if you put in $2,000 and it goes up 100% and you make $2,000 - I have fulfilled my guarantee. As a bonus, the guarantee also extends to the PRICE THAT YOU BUY AT, not my personal results! Make sense?!

The Report:

NIO Inc, is an electric auto manufacturer based here in the United States. However, they are mainly targeting the Chinese market. As a product, many of their cars are futuristic and simply beautiful. Take a look at one of their high end cars:

The company's shares rallied huge earlier this year from about $6 to $10 on being on the 60 minutes program in February. Afterwards, both NIO and a comparator KNDI dumped back down.

Now we are trading just off all time lows and sentiment is extremely poor. There was a recent fire, they laid off employees at one of their offices in San Francisco, and traders are screaming on the message boards.

So, why buy?

This is step one of my formula!

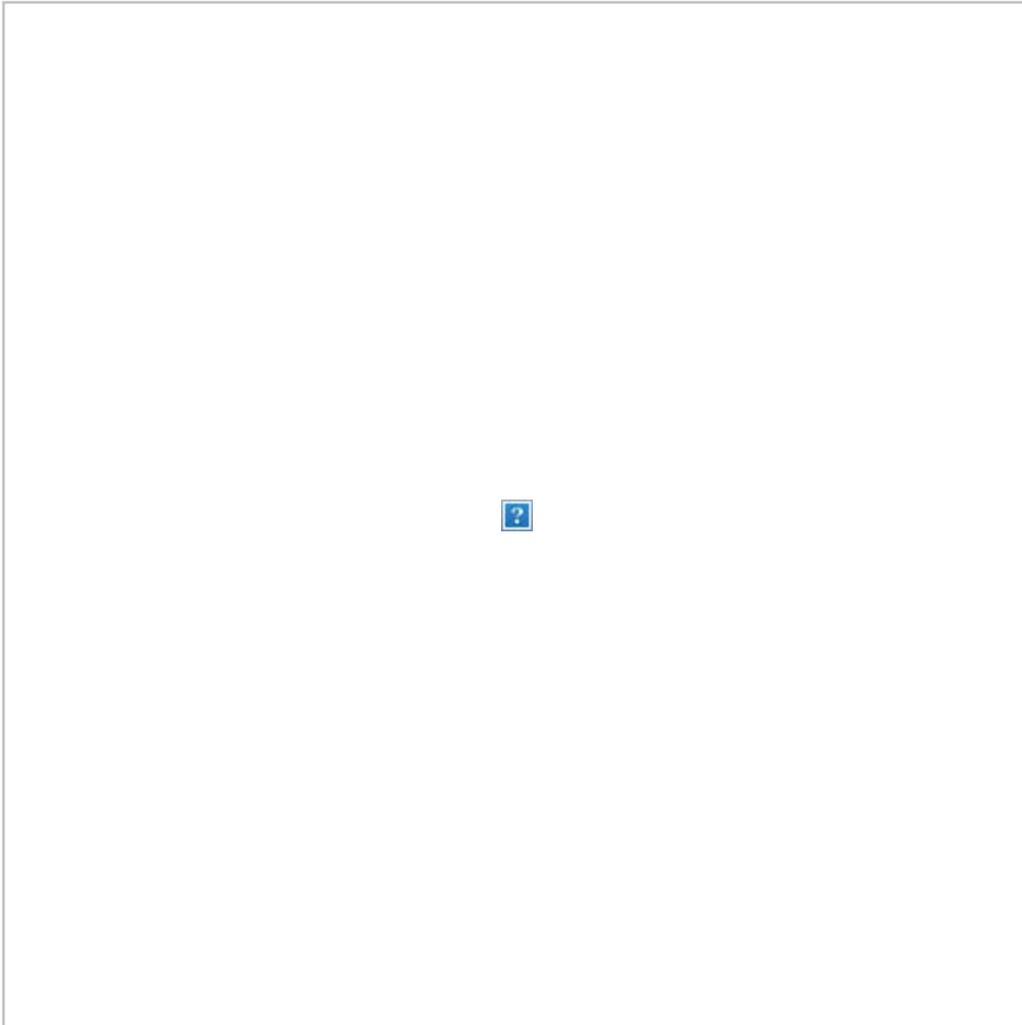

A former loved name is now beaten down near 52 week lows. All the bad news has seemingly come out and expectations are low. That means any good news that comes out will allow for an outsized pop to the upside.

Additionally, there is a larger than average short interest, which will add to the pop on any news over the next two months.

The company “could” have an earnings call sometime in early June, per their estimated date.

Immensely speculative, but recently some rumors surrounding Apple joining up with NIO just came out as well. Peep the headline below:

I doubt this actually materializes into anything (I don't like to rely on rumors for my main thesis), but any news regarding that would be humongous for the company. I wanted you guys to be aware first, and I'll just leave it at that, since I don't see it very likely to happen.

In essence, this is very similar to our previous plays on the big SNAP and AMRN wins. A stock that was formerly loved, now beaten up on bad times, with a couple of nice catalysts and rumors afoot.

Bonus trade: For you more advanced at options, you could reduce your risk on this trade to essentially nothing by selling some closer dated puts. I sold 250 of the NIO May 17, 2019 $4.50 puts for .17. That means if the stock stays above $4.50 by May 17th, I'll collect about $5,000 and reduce my risk to just .02 a contract, nearly nothing!

Let's go baby!

Cheers,

Kyle Dennis

Subject: Option Rocket: Update on NIO!

Good afternoon,

A couple of positive developments on NIO I wanted to bring to your attention today!

1. Yesterday, there was an article that Nissan was looking to partner/merge/acquire a Chinese Electric Vehicle company! NIO was not mentioned in the article, but the speculation of a large company wanting to get into the China market was viewed positively for NIO. You can read that article here.
2. Today, the company announced that they will have an earnings announcement May 28th at 8 am.
3. Also, today President Trump announced a 6 month delay in implementing auto tariffs, which is great for the automobile industry! We are seeing shares of NIO move higher on that as well.

So, a couple updates to the actual position!

The NIO calls at trading right now at .21. So it is slightly up from my buy point. With the positive news and upcoming earnings call, I expect shares to move higher in the next couple weeks and for those calls to appreciate. If they have a better than expected earnings call (with sentiment so low), we could get a great pop. This gives us a defined catalyst date.

For those of you that took the "bonus trade" of selling to open the NIO puts for around .17, those are currently up 60% and are looking like they will be a 100% win. That will almost completely fund the call position and give you a risk free way to play them! Really working well there so far. Just need shares to close over $4.50, which is looking very likely right now.

Cheers,

Good afternoon,

I bought to close my NIO puts at .03 for about 75% and collected around $3,500. If the stock stays above $4.50 tomorrow, this will be a 100% win for those still holding.

Remember, this was the "bonus" trade at the bottom of the Mortal Lock, to help reduce risk even further.

This makes my cost basis on the NIO play around just .06 cents a contract! That's super low risk given the upside potential here.

If you did the same tweet me here on twitter and let me know.

I'm interested to see how many people played that idea and profited.

Subject: Option Rocket: NIO beats earnings, update!

Good afternoon,

NIO reported earnings today and there are some definite positive takeaways! I'll give you the rundown.

1. The company beat 1Q expectations. In the first quarter estimates were 1.54B Yuan and they beat with 1.63B Yuan in revenues. They also beat on EPS numbers and deliveries of their new SUV beat expectations as well. All good!
2. On the downside, 2Q expectations were a slight miss going forward. They cited a tough Chinese economy as one issue (which makes sense because of the trade war).
3. On a huge positive, they announced that they are set to receive up to 10B Yuan as an investment from E-Town capital to build out their factories and increase production. The final details should be finalized soon.

Now, what does this all mean for the position? Well, it's a mixed bag. The stock so far is reacting well, with shares up about 5% as I'm typing. However, due to the trade war and other electric car companies falling, NIO has slid down almost $1 in anticipation of the earnings. I think shares are heading higher, but we really need a bigger piece of news to accelerate things further.

There are about a little over 3.5 weeks until the expiration of these options, so I'm holding on tight for now.

I'll give a further update early next week when the market has fully digested the news.

Cheers,

Kyle Dennis

Good morning,

I bought 20 CARA June 21 2019 $22.50 calls at $1.07.

The company had great Phase 3 data this morning and I think this will be going much higher over the next few weeks as institutions buy in.

Not many expected this data to be good, so I think the funds are going to add into this over the next week.

There's a gap below, so if the market is super weak, I might add to it if the stock dips into that gap.

Subject: Option Rocket: NIO Update, the Guarantee, and More!

Good afternoon,

I'm writing you here today to give you an update on the NIO trade. Below I explain what happened, what to do now, why I have your back, and how I'll be working 10 times harder for you as I put the finishing touches on some killer ideas.

I'll also discuss what you'll need to do to claim your personal guarantee from me!

What Happened?

Part of finding these picks that can go up 500% or more is picking stocks that have been oversold and beaten down.

That is exactly what I did for previous huge winners, SNAP and AMRN.

Remember the formula? You find a beaten down company with a big upcoming event and then pick the cheapest options you can find in the future.

However, anything that gets oversold can definitely become even more oversold - and that's exactly what happened here. The bad news got worse. The reason why this idea didn't work is very simple. Let me explain...

I purchased these NIO calls in May. It turns out that May was the worst month in the stock market all year. Every week for the month (five in a row) were all red.

The company did have an earnings call, which had lots of positive news. They beat expectations and also got $1.5B in funding to build a new factory. However, those positives didn't outweigh the overall market negatives.

NIO sank lower.

The China trade talks pushed down shares (this is a Chinese company). Now, the tariffs don't directly affect NIO, but investors have been selling Chinese companies with no regard. Check out the charts on BIDU, BABA, and JD. All are down 20% or more over the last month.

Additionally, NIO's biggest comparator is obviously TSLA. The company did an offering mid May, which pushed sentiment for the electric vehicle space even lower. Shares of TSLA are down near 50% on the year and pushing 52 week lows. KNDI (another electric vehicle maker) is also pushing lower.

So to summarize, mediocre earnings, bad market conditions, and extremely poor sentiment in the electric vehicle space all negatively affected NIO's performance.

But like I said - the reason why I bought it remains completely sound! It follows the formula that has led me to discover multiple 400-1000% winners. This same KIND OF ANALYSIS has crushed it for us in the past - and there will definitely be more to come!

What Now?

To put it bluntly, this pick failed. My research was right, but... we had some REALLY bad timing. Now, we do have 3 weeks here to have some sort of surprise news come out to remedy some of this trade, but this would be unlikely.

I will be holding my position for the next 3 weeks, since there is no sense in selling it for a cent just to book the loss. Like I said, there is always a chance something amazing happens.

The option will expire on June 21st after the market closes if shares don't climb above $6. You won't need to take any action. This will be marked as a losing trade and your broker will take the options out of your account before that coming Monday.

So, I'm hoping some news comes out for us! Remember, there have been rumors about AAPL partnering with NIO. However, the chance of that happening is slim.

I've Got Your Back!

I know you put a lot of faith into me on this pick and I thought I was going to be 100% right. I have my real money in this trade and I'm losing right along with you.

Sometimes the stock market just kicks your butt.

The key is to get back in the saddle!

I'm closing in on $7,000,000 in career trading profits and I want you to be reassured that we are going to battle back.

I'm going to prove that you made the correct choice by joining with me over the next year.

This is just one pick and we'll have numerous killer ideas over the next year - so stick with me!

I've booked thousands of winners over the past 5 years and I'm pushing forward with some fantastic ideas.

Remember, you joined with me for ALL the picks - not just 1.

This NIO trade has not worked out. I put my reputation on this play and now I'm going to work 10 times harder to gain your respect back and put more money in your pockets.

The Guarantee

If you were a new buyer, I'm 100% honoring my guarantee as I promised.

I am a man of my word and I will give you the full update on how to claim your free year with me after the option is closed on June 21st. There's always a small chance of news, but if there isn't, I'll be working for you for another year on me.

I'll give you an update every Monday on NIO until the 21st because there is no way I'm sweeping this failure under the rug.

I will highlight the news and potential until you get your free year.

I'll be there by your side and we have hundreds of great picks coming together.

Stay tuned!

Cheers,

Kyle Dennis

Good afternoon,

As I promised last Monday, I would be providing you with an update on the NIO trade every Monday until June 21st.

If you missed it, I want you to sign in and be sure to read it here. No sweeping this under the rug!

I'm here by your side.

There has been some positive developments coming out regarding NIO, but not enough to move the needle for the calls. It is apparent to me that China is looking to push forward with Electric Vehicle development and be supportive longer term in growing this industry. That's all positive, but not enough to boost shares enough over $6. That would require something huge.

So, I'm just sticking with the position for two more weeks. I am hopeful still, but it is not likely that this trade is remedied.

Sticking with it...

As I also promised, I would be working on killer ideas for you. Some of those ideas will be quick hitters and others more longer term holds.

I put two of those trades on so far since our note:

Just this morning we played TLRY, which we already locked in about 120% gains in just a few hours! I still have half my position there and think we could get even more. I'll update you when I decided to take all my profits off the table.

Last week I also bought XXII calls and detailed a strategy that I think can lock in 100% or more gains and allow us to play the big 'billion dollar opportunity' in December for FREE.

This is the same strategy I'm utilizing on MRNS.

So, it is extremely important to remember that you bought Option Rocket to be with me in hundreds of trades over the next couple years. I'll be working extra hard to prove my worth to you.

Sometimes trades do not work out, but most will. And that is how I've built my fortune in the stock market.

The Guarantee...

I will continue with another NIO update on June 17th. Remember, we do have until the 21st here for something wild to happen.

On June 24th, I will provide you with the details necessary to acquire your second year of Option Rocket for free on me - as promised.

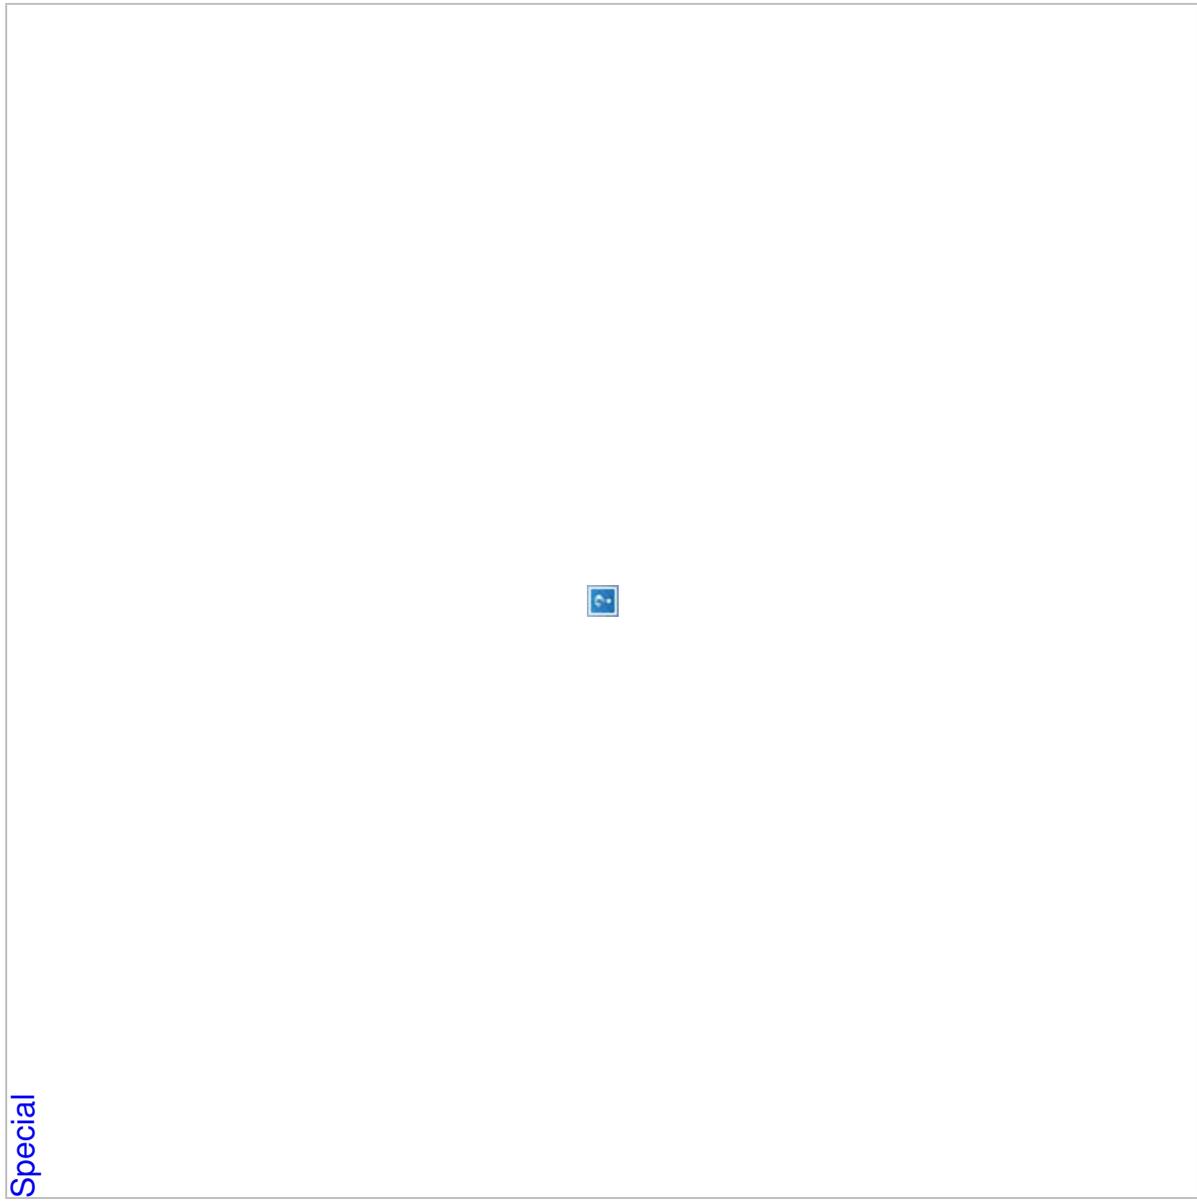

Now I'm off to do some more research to find you another 100% winner.

Cheers,

Kyle Dennis

Subject: Option Rocket: Final NIO Update and Instructions Coming!

Good afternoon,

As promised, we will have a NIO update every Monday until the end of the position.

So here's the nitty gritty...

The play obviously did not go as I planned. There were several reasons as to why it didn't work, which I highlighted in my report a few weeks ago.

I will be working extra hard for you to make up for this call that didn't work out, and recouping those losses as quickly as I can.

There hasn't been anything notable to report on since last week and it's looking like the position will come to a final close this Friday.

Your Instructions...

The NIO calls expire June 21st 2019 at 4 PM eastern. If there isn't significant news to get shares over $6, these will expire. This scenario is very likely. You don't need to take any further action. Your broker will do that for you.

Come Monday you'll have a fresh portfolio ready to ride higher over the coming year.

I'm excited and you should be too. A clean slate!

The Guarantee...

On Monday, I will give you instructions on how to take advantage of the guarantee. You will need to simply call in and talk to one of our VIP team leaders.

They will take care of you!

I'll give you all those details on Monday! Until then, we'll have some more trades this week!

To a new future!

Cheers,

Hi Ugo,

I have reviewed the rest of your account, and found the previous payment made in March. I have since restored your access to Weekly Money Multiplier.

Sincerely,

Michael

Hi Michael,

I have checked today. My Weekly Money Multiplier (WMM) subscription is not restored. It appears you do not intend to resolve this matter in good faith. I would like to reiterate that you restore my WMM subscription of 15 March 2019, or refund the money ($1497) I paid for the subscription. Let me know what direction you decide to go.

Best regards,

Ugo.

Hi Michael,

To provide additional clarification, here is the sequence of events:

1. 15 March 2019: – Signed up for Weekly Money Multiplier ($1497)
2. 25 April 2019: – Signed up for Options Rocket ($1997)
3. 01 August 2019:– Discovered unauthorized charge of $999 on my card from Raging Bull on 17 July 2019.

Contacted Raging Bull Customer Service to resolve the issue, but faced an unreasonable situation.

Therefore, understand that refunding the unauthorized charge of $999, has nothing to do with my subscriptions, which are in place before the charge of 17 July 2019. That's why I demand that if you choose to no longer provide the WMM service, then refund the $1497 I paid for that subscription. You should not deny service and still keep the subscription payment. It doesn't work that way.

I hope this clarifies.

Best regards,

Ugo.

The $999 is an unauthorized charge and has nothing to do with my original subscription of Weekly Money Multiplier. Refunding the $999 is completely separate from my subscription.

Please recognize, I'm entitled to receive a service I paid for in March 2019. I have had this service since March. Why do you choose to tamper with a service I paid for and has been using since March? What is the connection between my original WMM subscription and a separate case of unauthorized charge? If you decide to provide the WMM Service, then refund the $1495 which you charged on 15 March 2019.

I hope I'm making sense. Thank you.

Complaint Description:

Raging Bull stole $999= from my credit card without authorization. I signed up for the Raging Bull Options Rocket program where Kyle Dennis gave a guarantee of 800% return on the NIO 21 June 2019 "Mortal Lock" Options trade. So I took him up on the offer and signed up. After the trade turned out a disaster, Kyle Dennis promised to issue instructions about how to remediate the situation, but I did not hear anymore from the group. So I called Raging Bull Customer Service and requested refund of my Options Rocket subscription, since I had paid $1997 for this service and lost the bulk of my account value in the process, primarily because Kyle Dennis continued to advise to hold the account, even when it made sense to pull the plug. Well, the customer service (Jeff) informed me that Raging Bull does not issue refund. Then I asked if the money could be transferred to my Weekly Money Multiplier (WMM) Service (another similar offering I was using since March 2019), because I wanted to quit Options Rocket completely. The customer service refused and said I'd forfeit my $2k if I decided to quit Options Rocket after a few days. To placate me, he proposed a "life Time" membership offer of Weekly Money Multiplier program - at no additional cost, being that I was already using WMM since March 2019. He said I would only need to pay $250 at renewal in March 2020 and not a full fee. To my surprise, I noticed that the customer service went ahead and billed $999 to my credit card without my knowledge and reset my account subscription, removing all the history, to make appear like fresh account. I have had multiple phone calls with raging bull customer to demand refund, but they claim that that I had accepted "life Time" and therefore, will not refund the unauthorized robbery. I have never seen such brazen callousness and arrogance! At this time, I have had to cancel the credit card to prevent further assault on the card from these criminals. I have spent hours debating on the phone. I'm still imagining if this is really happening - these rogues have somehow taken approximately $4500 from my card, for complete nonsense, and nothing to show for it - only massive losses in the Options they claimed will win 800% profit.

Your Desired Resolution:

Full refund of my money: $1997 for the disastrous Options Rocket, $999 - for unauthorised charges.

DECLARATION OF DUSTYANN TYUKODY
PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. § 1746

My name is Dustyann Tyukody, and I am over 18 years old. I have personal knowledge of the facts stated below. If called as a witness, I could and would testify as follows:

1. I live in Toledo, Ohio. I have a Master's degree in business from Bowling Green State University. I have been retired for the past 10 years and living on fixed income. Before retirement, I worked as an account manager at LexisNexis and as a sales manager for a tech start-up. I first began trading on my own in the late 1990's, stopped completely, and then resumed trading again in 2019 when I got involved with Raging Bull. I was looking for a way to supplement my income during my retirement years.

2. In January 2019, I saw a Facebook ad for Jason Bond Picks. I was drawn to the ad because Bond claimed to have made millions trading on his own. The ad offered to send me some free newsletters if I gave them my email, which I did.

3. After I gave out my email address, I got an email inviting me to watch a pre-recorded webinar video featuring Jason Bond, which ran about fifteen to twenty minutes. In the video, Jason Bond talked about his background as a schoolteacher and how he had changed his life and paid off his debts by becoming a trader. He talked about how it brought him great joy to help others become successful traders just like him. He was offering an online course through "Jason Bond Picks" where he would teach us his "simple" market-beating trading strategy. The webinar also had testimonials from people with no prior experience who claimed to have found success after joining Jason Bond's trading program. Bond also offered to send us alerts on the stocks that he was trading so that his students can follow his trades and start making money right away. He made it seem very easy to make money through his program and follow and replicate his results. On January 28, 2019, I paid $297 to sign up for a quarterly subscription to Jason Bond Picks.

4. On January 29, 2019, I paid an additional $2,997 for an annual subscription to a subscription that they called “Millionaire Roadmap.” Jason Bond and Raging Bull claimed that this package would give me a full year’s worth of access to all of the trade alerts from Jason Bond and Jeff Bishop, their stock watchlists, access to Raging Bull’s live trading chatrooms, and training videos that I could watch to learn how to trade.

5. On or about January 30, 2019, I received an invitation from Raging Bull “Bootcamp” to login and start watching some of their videos lessons. I thought these video lessons were being offered to me because I joined the Millionaire Roadmap. The email I received for the bootcamp said: “RagingBull was built by traders who realized that inexperienced traders were lacking the guidance needed to become profitable quickly. Even experienced traders need to dial in their strategies and tap into new verticals in order to see exponential growth. That’s where we come in! Work through The Bootcamp at your own pace and see what sticks for you! We’ll be sending you more training as you progress.” The email encouraged me to “[s]tay strong and finish The Bootcamp.” I recall these videos contained very basic or rudimentary information about stock trading and nothing that seemed to be proprietary or unique. Attached as Attachment A is a true and correct copy of this email.

6. Soon after I joined this bootcamp, I started seeing solicitation emails to buy other subscriptions featuring other Raging Bull traders like Petra Hess, Kyle Dennis and Jeff Williams. Kyle Dennis told Raging Bull subscribers that he had a science degree which gave him unique insights into biotech stocks that most people on Wall Street never heard of. Jeff Williams held himself out as an “expert” on penny stocks.

7. I watched the training videos from Jason Bond and Jeff Bishop that came with my $2,997 purchase. I was expecting to learn about the simple techniques that Bond and Bishop claimed they were using to make millions. Instead, what I saw in the training videos were a lot of technical charts and Bond and Bishop throwing around overly technical terms to talk about their trades. I was having difficulty getting the “how to” and “what does this mean” questions answered. There was no one around to guide me through the videos and answer my questions. These were not interactive training sessions with Bond and Bishop that I was hoping to get with my purchase. I did not come across any trading strategy that would help to decide what stocks to buy and when to sell these stocks.

8. The trade alert emails from Bond and Bishop that came with this purchase were equally confusing and difficult to follow. It was as though they were speaking to me in code. Bond, Bishop or some other Raging Bull trader would put up charts or trend-line to try to show when a stock would be going up or down, but they were often using different charts. I felt they were not explaining why they were using or focusing on one trendline as opposed to another, or what the trendline indicated in terms of how the stock would move going forward.

9. I called Raging Bull to complain about the training materials and the service. The customer service representative suggested I sign up for their Petra Picks subscription. He said the information and training provided in this subscription was more suited to people who were just learning how to trade stocks.

10. On February 1, 2019, I paid $1,449 to add the Petra Picks Platinum subscription for one year. The subscription gave me access to a chatroom where you can ask Petra or someone from Raging Bull questions. It also had a library of videos like “Stock Trading 101,” that covered very basic information about stock trading. In retrospect, I could have gotten most of this information for free on Investopedia or on TD Ameritrade's website. I did not find any strategy in these videos that I could apply to predict stock prices or to fine-tune my timing on when to trade. But I hoped that these videos and interacting in the chatrooms would provide me with a building block to better grasp the technical analysis that Bond and Bishop were teaching and using in their trades.

11. In March 2019, I was offered one-year access to the "Raging Bull Elite" if I paid them an additional $3,999. The company claimed that this was its most comprehensive package and would include Biotech Nucleus, Petra Picks Platinum, Millionaire Roadmap and Traders Council. There was also a guarantee that any other services published by Petra Hess, Jason Bond or Jeff Bishop would be rolled into the Elite package. Raging Bull pitched this as an add-on to my existing Millionaire Roadmap package and made it seem like I was getting a steep discount. Raging Bull claimed that the Elite package normally retailed at around $25,000 and would continue to get more expensive because of its value. I agreed to pay the $3,999.

12. For the next three months, I tried out all of the services provided under the Elite package. By June 2019, it became apparent to me that many of these services were not teaching me to how to develop my own trading strategies to become a better trader. I was also given the impression, after reviewing Raging Bull's training materials, that I would learn how to target and trade stocks that I could hold onto for one to two weeks. Instead, many of the services from Raging Bull were alerting me to buy small cap stocks, penny stocks or other extremely volatile stocks that would require me to sit in front of my computer all day checking the stock's price movement.

13. Having come to the realization that I had wasted my money, on June 11, 2019, I inquired with Raging Bull about scaling back my membership and getting a reimbursement for the subscriptions I was giving up. I would have liked to have gotten back all of the money I had paid, but I also knew Raging Bull would not agree to a full refund. So I thought I should at least try to get some value for the money I already paid by asking them to include only those services that I might want to use going forward. I told them I wanted to give up “Nucleus,” “Option Rocket,” “Super Nova,” “Sniper Report,” “FDA Insider,” and “Penny Pro,” which were subscriptions most heavily focused on day trading and penny stocks. A man named “Michael” from Raging Bull told me that because I had Raging Bull Elite as one subscription (and not six different subscriptions), this “makes scaling back at this time mostly impossible.” He said he would turn off the alerts for the subscriptions I did not want when the renewal date for my Elite status “comes around.” I told him I also wanted to surrender my Elite status, since “it doesn’t make any sense to expect to be an Elite subscriber if I want to unsubscribe from several services.” Michael then responded and offered to let me keep access to Millionaire Roadmap, Petra Picks Platinum and another product called “Trader’s Council” and “apply 1.75 years of service to each of those as credit for your Elite subscription.”

14. I asked Michael for an explanation for how they calculated 1.75 years of credit. Michael said that the difference between the cost of Raging Bull Elite ($9,999) – which was roughly the same amount that I paid to date – and the sales prices of the services I said I would keep were about $2,000, and so he “tacked on some extra time onto that.” I still did not follow his calculation, but we agreed that I would continue to access the services from Petra Hess, Jason Bond, and Jeff Bishop, along with their respective chatrooms, without further charge until December 11, 2021. Attached as Attachment B is a true and correct copy of my June and July 2019 email correspondence with Michael from Raging Bull.

15. About a week later, I started getting promotional emails from Jeff Bishop about new subscription he was launching called “Total Alpha.” This subscription offered to teach new subscribers how to trade options and also send them alerts of Jeff’s top options trades. On June 26, 2019, I watched a webinar where Bishop was promoting this subscription. I realized he was basically re-branding his existing subscription for options trading, Weekly Money Multiplier, and trying to pass it off as a new service. Even his marketing webinar was mostly a re-run of an earlier video he had recorded for the Weekly Money Multiplier. His new chatroom would be called the “Options War Room.” His Weekly Money Multiplier trade alerts would be called “Alpha Trades of the Week” and “Premium Alerts.” Raging Bull even took away some of the content from my Weekly Money Multiplier subscription and moved them to Total Alpha. They were basically pulling a bait and switch on their subscribers.

16. On or around July 1, 2019, I filed a complaint with the Better Business Bureau (“BBB”) to complain about this. I told the BBB that Jeff Bishop “has done a bait and switch.” They were trying to get me to pay more money for services that I already paid for under our agreement. I said, this “is not only bad form, bad business and snarky, it is illegal!” I also said I wanted no further interaction or business relationship with Raging Bull and that I wanted a full, complete reimbursement of my $10,000 from the company. I threatened to pursue a legal remedy if necessary.

17. Michael from Raging Bull responded to my BBB complaint and said that Jeff Bishop is not removing anything from Weekly Money Multiplier and that he would “still be actively trading in Weekly Money Multiplier and will still have a Live Account.” Michael said Total Alpha is intended for people interested in a more advanced options trading and required a “minimum level 3 options clearance.” The marketing materials for Total Alpha did not mention anything about “advanced” options trading and I had no way to confirm what they were saying since I did not have access to Total Alpha. He also said “we have done all we can up to this point” and a “full refund is not something we can pursue at this time.” He then offered to give me a refund of $1500 for Weekly Money Multiplier and add Total Alpha.

18. I told them that instead of adding Total Alpha, I would like to add “Weekly Windfalls,” which was a premium alert service for options traders provided by Jason Bond. Bond claimed that the service was suitable for novice or experienced traders and that Bond would teach us everything we need to know to make consistent profits. Bond also said he would use a “set it and forget it” strategy for these trades. I remember the annual cost for Weekly Windfalls was similar to Weekly Money Multiplier and Total Alpha. Michael said he could accommodate my request if I agreed to accept their resolution on BBB.

19. In or around November 2019, Jeff Bishop launched another options trading service, which he called “Bullseye Trades.” It seemed like Raging Bull was constantly cycling multiple subscriptions around this time. I do not recall signing for this service, but I did get a welcome email. The email explained how this new subscription worked as follows: “Every Monday morning before the market opens, I will send you my Bullseye trade idea for the week ahead. I’ll share the trade including the exact options contract and a complete trade plan to maximize profits.” Jeff claimed that “Bullseye Trades is just one of the powerful trading strategies that I’ve designed over the last 20-plus years to help me rake in $MILLIONS in profits! And now I want to share ALL of these profitable, fine-tuned trading techniques with you in my Total Alpha trading service. I deliver, on average, at least one 100% winner every single month!” So, by this time, Jeff Bishop was running at least three different newsletters on options trading. This made no sense except it seemed like the company was trying to bilk more money from its existing customers like me. Attached as Attachment C is a true and correct copy of this email.

20. I tried out all of the subscriptions I had access to and made some trades in 2019 using Raging Bull's stock alerts. By the end of 2019, I incurred about $15,000 in trading losses from these stock alerts. Raging Bull traders also did not provide me with the necessary tools to mitigate my trading losses from their alerts. For example, the alerts I got usually did not tell me when I should get out of a trade or set up stop losses on those trades.

21. Because the prices of the stocks being pitched by the Raging Bull traders were so volatile and timing of the trades so important, I usually followed the Raging Bull trades that were alerted through text messages or in the chatrooms.

22. When I had access to the Raging Bull Elite chatroom in the first half of 2019, I would usually find over 300 subscribers, and sometimes more, who were all trying to follow the "real time" trades that Raging Bull traders were alerting there. I often heard complaints from others in the chatroom about delays in the Raging Bull trade alerts. When the Raging Bull traders were confronted with these complaints, they would claim that the stock price must have jumped while they were typing, or make up some other excuse. As the complaints in these chatrooms were growing, Raging Bull brought in a woman named Hiltha Herzog to moderate the room. She started kicking out people who were complaining about their service out of the room.

23. I also observed that when Jason Bond or other Raging Bull "gurus" bragged about their trade wins in these chatrooms or in email blasts to subscribers, they would only report the dollar amount of the profits and not the percentage return. I think they did this because most of their clients like me did not have huge amounts of capital to invest in these stocks and so we were unlikely to generate that much in profits from our trading those stocks. If they were making thousands on trades but their actual percentage returns were in single digits, that would be misleading and entirely inconsistent with what they were telling us in their marketing emails.

24. By December 2019, Raging Bull discontinued my Petra Picks Platinum subscription. I was told that she had retired. Rather than issuing me a credit, Raging Bull just swapped this out with “Profit Prism Platinum,” which was a service featuring the penny stock trader Jeff Williams. “Dark Pools,” featuring Taylor Conway, was another subscription that Raging Bull signed me up for in late 2019 or early 2020.

25. It seemed to me that Raging Bull was bringing on more and more people as “trainers” so it could promote and sell more services under these traders’ names. Like Bond and Bishop, the emails would claim that these trainers were making a lot money trading stocks and options and had fine-tuned their trading techniques for us to learn and follow. Raging Bull did not notify us of these services changes. I usually learned about these changes from other customers in the chatrooms.

26. By December 2019, I was seeing a lot of complaints from other premium service subscribers about Raging Bull’s services and their stock tips. Petra Hess and another trader, Davis Martin, had both left and so there was no continuity in these services. As a bonus to keep his clients happy, Jason Bond offered premium members like me a six-month free access to Raging Bull Elite. I understood this would expire in June 2020 without recurring charges.

27. In March 2020, the COVID-19 pandemic forced most of the country to shut down and caused the markets to crash. Given the volatility in the market, I felt it would have risky for anyone to start trading for the first time. However, Raging Bull’s emails made it seem like there was a modern day gold rush. During this time, Raging Bull traders were constantly launching new services and trying to get more and more people to subscribe and follow their trades. On some days, I would get over a dozen or so marketing emails from Raging Bull's traders. It seemed to me Raging Bull was really trying to exploit this pandemic, with people being forced out of work and having to stay home.

28. On March 25, 2020, for example, I received an email from the "Raging Bull Team," stating: "While the market was still in turmoil, Jason made over $75K. Keep in mind that Jason began his most recent trading tear last week, which was before the markets bounced back yesterday following congress' $2 trillion COVID-19 stimulus package deal.... Jason's performance last week proves that no matter what the conditions are in the market, there are still money-making opportunities out there. When things go crazy, Jason always goes back to his number 1 strategy, which for him are his two simple patterns. The two patterns that Jason uses, which are his bread and butter, work in any market condition.... The reality is that everything you'll learn from Jason is about locating stocks before they move." In the same email, Raging Bull also promised that "Jason's advance notice alerts help you locate momentum stocks... and get in before he gets in. As a Jason Bond Picks member, you don't need to stress about receiving alerts too late. Jason is now sending all his email alerts before he makes the trade The benefit of this is that you have the opportunity to look at the charts and learn about Jason's moves before he makes them." Attached as Attachment D is a true and correct copy of this email.

29. On March 26, 2020, I got an email from Jeff Williams saying that during his recent visit to the Profit Prism Platinum chat room, he talked about his "two trusted chart patterns" which he claimed are "pretty reliable signals that a stock might be getting ready to climb higher." Later in the email, he said, "Of course, a chart pattern by itself isn't going to be enough for me to want to take a trade. There's a lot of other factors I want to look at before I decide which trades are going to be hit and which ones are going to be a miss, with trading volume being key among those.” Attached as Attachment E is a true and correct copy of this email.

30. Just a few days earlier, on March 24, 2020, I had logged into the Profit Prism chatroom and found Jeff Williams there. At around 2:30pm EDT, Williams alerted everyone in the room that he had just purchased 80,000 shares of Galaxy Next Generation (GAXY) for 0.1999 a share. I went to my brokerage account immediately and saw that the price was at 0.02250 at the same time Williams alerted the room. GAXY was the kind of penny stock that Jeff Williams typically traded and alerted. Despite Jason Bond’s promise of his “advanced notice alerts,” it seemed Raging Bull traders like Jeff Williams were pulling the same stunt as before, driving up volume by getting people to follow their penny stock trades while sending out delayed trade alerts.

31. During the pandemic, Jeff Williams sent around emails telling me people that his “COVID plays have been delivering lately” and that many of his members “raked in a nice profit on a different COVID weekend play from my weekend watch list.” He told people he was “planning on yet another profitable pandemic play with this small-cap mover.” Attached as Attachment F is a true and correct copy of the text of this email (without the accompanying images if any).

32. On March 26, 2020, I got an email from Jeff Bishop where he boasted about making profits through this “gloomy” economy. He said: “For many, the present feels gloomy, and the future is looming with uncertainty. But one thing I do know? The market will always be there, and I know that I can always reel in consistent profits no matter what it throws at me.... When the opportunity presents itself, I am in and out with a pocket full of cash. And now I want to present you with an unprecedented opportunity to line your pockets right beside me. For an extremely limited time, you can join my flagship trading service – Total Alpha – for the absolute LOWEST price I’ve EVER offered. I am confident that I can help ordinary people grow any sized account, and make consistent income from anywhere in the world, with just a few minutes of ‘work’ a day.” This also seems inconsistent with Raging Bull’s statement to me that Total Alpha was intended for “advanced” options traders. Bishop sent another email that day, claiming: “What average traders don’t realize is that this market is creating more money making opportunities than we’ve seen in over a decade. In fact, in the same week that the market wiped out all of its 2019 gains, I was sitting on $84,420 in profits. It all comes down to having a PROVEN system that tunes out the noise, and allows you to make money no matter what the market throws at you.... I’m offering you an enormous discount on a system that can make you life changing money, all while other traders are getting clobbered.” Attached as Attachment G are true and correct copies of these emails.

33. On March 27, 2020, the Raging Bull Team sent an email stating, “You see, as traders, we’re taking profits no matter which way the markets move. While a record 3.2 million Americans are without a paycheck, every day in the markets is still a new potential payday for traders like us.... The best part of Ben’s trading system is that he makes it so SIMPLE to collect these paydays.” The email was promoting the “Daily Profit Machine” and “IPO Payday” subscriptions featuring Ben Sturgill, another Raging Bull trader. Attached as Attachment H is a true and correct copy of the text of this email (without the accompanying images if any).

34. On March 27, 2020, Bishop sent another promotion email for Total Alpha, where he said that while “Investors are getting crushed,” traders like him were “lining their pocketbooks.” Bishop also claim: “If you had invested in AAPL [Apple stock] at the beginning of this year, your account would be down a nauseating 31%.... Most people are tying all their capital up in 'safe stocks,' and waiting lightyears for the investment to come to fruition... But that won't be you. There are hundreds of opportunities every single day to execute on high conviction patterns, and rake in thousands or even tens of thousands in profits in an extremely short period of time. My job is to identify those tried and true patterns, and tell you exactly how to capitalize on them." Attached as Attachment I is a true and correct copy of the text of this email (without the accompanying images if any).

35. On March 28, 2020, Jeff Bishop claimed to have "found a handful of secret stocks that are wildly compatible with my Total Alpha System, and I trade them time and time again to pull in gains like these.... In fact, I made $82,000 last week just trading ONE stock over and over again. Ignoring 99% of the market, has put me in the top 1% of elite traders." Bishop promised that by joining his Total Alpha service, "I'm extending you the opportunity to look right over my shoulder, gain access to my million dollar system, and get your hands on every trade I take in real time...." Attached as Attachment J is a true and correct copy of the text of this email (without the accompanying images if any).

36. Jeff Bishop was also busy promoting other services that he was either featured on like Bullseye Trades and Total Alpha Bootcamp. On April 8, 2020, I got an email from Bishop offering a lifetime access to Bullseye Trades for $399, and claiming he had "locked in over $10k in profit from GILD" which he said was a Bullseye Trade alert from the prior week. He said "I feel like it's my responsibility to give you the proper equipment to protect AND grow your account during this unpredictable market climate.... I'm doing this to simply demonstrate 1 fact: Bullseye is consistently exploding with new ideas and profitable trading opportunities, (despite what the heck is going on out there..)" On April 10, 2020, Bishop emailed to announce his “Total Alpha Bootcamp Training” package. He claimed that people lose money in the markets because they do not have the proper “framework” and that “My Total Alpha Bootcamp Training Series is a framework that can be followed by any level trader.” (emphasis added). Attached as Attachment K are true and correct copies of the text of these emails (without the accompanying images if any).

37. Bishop was also promoting other Raging Bull subscriptions during the COVID-19 pandemic and making wild assertions about their services. On April 2, 2020, Bishop sent an email talking up Nathan Bear and his “Lotto X” service, which Bishop described as a “million dollar system” that would provide “90 trades (5 per week) that all have the potential to 2x and even 3x your money.” Bear also sent emails claiming that while Lotto X was a “brand new service,” his members “have made thousands and even tens of thousands on my LottoX alerts in the past few years.” Bear claimed that it “has proven to be such a lucrative system, returning profits in both bull and bear markets... I had to share with you as soon as possible,” but offer would only last 48 hours. Attachment L are true and correct copies of the text of these emails (without the accompanying images if any).

38. On April 6, 2020, Bishop sent an email claiming that Raging Bull trader, Dave Lukas, was “coined the Most Consistent Trader on Wall Street” and who “shoots with 100% accuracy.” Raging Bull was launching a new David Lukas program called “Triple Threat” and was soliciting people to join. As Bishop said, “Dave will ONLY take a trade if the stars align... If everything sets up just right, and he has 100% conviction that he’s going to walk away with a hefty profit. His system has afforded him a bulletproof 90% win rate over the last decade, and a 100% win rate over the last 8 months that he’s been at RagingBull. And he came to me the other day with a proposition that I just couldn’t refuse... But this is extremely time sensitive. The recent market selloff has put us smack dab in the middle of the greatest wealth building opportunity in history... And you and I may not live to see another one like it.... He's got his sights set on THREE extremely high conviction trades, that's he's pinpointed as massive wealth building opportunities." According to Bishop and Lukas, Lukas is using something called a "Fractal Energy Indicator" or "fractal patterns" to "pinpoint key market reversals" and "determine the strength of trends and how much 'life' is remaining in a stock's movement." Lukas claimed that "when you use the power of this indicator you will be able to successfully determine the strength or weakness of trends on any stock." Attached as Attachment M are true and correct copies of the text of these emails (without the accompanying images if any).

39. In his solicitation emails for Total Alpha or Bullseye Trades, Bishop was highlighted the profits and wins on his trades and other Raging Bull traders. However, he would occasionally reveal some sobering news in his actual trade alert emails to Total Alpha subscribers, which I was also getting at the time. On April 3, 2020, Bishop's update to Total Alpha subscribers said, "[s]mall caps continue to hemorrhage, leading us on the way down." In another email sent a few days later, he said, "Let's start with the obvious. After two weeks of bouncing off the bottom, we had another handful of ridiculous short-covering rallies recently on a daily basis. That leads to exhaustion at some point. The recent squeeze caught me badly on the wrong side of it and I wound up giving back a lot of hard-earned profits in short period of time. Every trader dreads seeing that happen." By early April, he even stopped alerting people to his stock picks, despite what he promised in his marketing emails for Total Alpha. He said: "I've removed the stocks I'm looking at for the time being because it's changing so much day to day that I can't keep a list that will be of benefit to you. Instead, I recommend you find a few stocks that you like, bullish or bearish, maybe 3 on each side. Follow them like a hawk. Study how they move throughout the day and the sets that occur. To YOUR Success!” He appeared to be acknowledging that his service was useless. Attached as Attachment N are true and correct copies of the text of these emails (without the accompanying images if any).

40. Jason Bond also sent emails about his profits and other Raging Bull traders during the pandemic. In one email, Bond said about Dave Lukas and Triple Threat: “Facts #1: Dave Lukas hasn’t lost a single trade in 8 months.... If the past is any indication of the future... Then David will have no problem delivering these three money doubling trades on a silver platter.... Are you really going to pass up the opportunity to double your money three times over? You’d rather save the $199 and bet against a guy who hasn’t been wrong in 8 months? I love gambling just as much as the next guy, but that sure as hell isn’t a bet I’m willing to take. I’m all in on Dave.” Attached as Attachment O is a true and correct copy of the text of this email (without the accompanying images if any).

41. According to Raging Bull, Kyle Dennis was also supposedly raking in profits during the COVID-19 pandemic. On April 2, 2020, I received an email from Raging Bull that said, “Kyle was able to rack up nearly $500K in profits by trading stocks related to the COVID-19 pandemic and the new economy it’s created.” The email goes on to say that there is a “hidden bull market” and that “Kyle expects more opportunities in April. And possibly, even bigger profits.” Kyle was hosting an “online meetup” where he would be “sharing where he’s making the most money, how you can find these trades, and how to replicate his success.” Raging Bull sent a follow up claiming: “There’s a Catalyst Goldmine in the Middle of This Bear Market... And It Could Mint a New Generation of Millionaires.... To be quite frank, if you ask Kyle Dennis, the game is really just about to begin... As we close in on a coronavirus vaccine, a handful of biotech stocks specifically targeting a solution are primed for enormous growth.... Now is not the time to shrivel up and hide away as a trader. Be fierce and play this bear market like a bull.” Attached as Attachment P are true and correct copies of the text of these emails (without the accompanying images if there were any).

42. On April 7, 2020, I received an email from Bishop advertising a new service called “Portfolio Accelerator” service. The email was sent to Raging Bull Elite members. Bishop described it as a service focused on creating long-term wealth. As he said, “I’m always looking for ways to build out family’s future generational wealth. You’ll find that I approach my Portfolio Accelerator trades very differently than you may be used to with my other trades. That’s because there’s a big difference between trading vs. building a portfolio. As a trader, I don’t mind a fairly high degree of risk. But for my family portfolio, I am seeking to be defensive. I want to take advantage of great investment opportunities when I see them, but I’m also trying to manage any downside.” He seemed to be admitting here that the kind of trading he was doing through Bullseye Trades and Total Alpha was highly risky. Attached as Attachment Q is a true and correct copy of the text of this email (without the accompanying images if any).

43. In June 2020, I tried to contact Raging Bull to check my subscription status. Given all the new product rollouts and service changes, I had no idea what know what my subscription status was. I also knew that the six month free access to Raging Bull Elite was about to expire on June 13, 2020 and did not know what would happen to my membership status going forward. I called the Raging Bull customer service desk several times but was not able to get anyone on the phone. I left messages and requests for a callback. No one got back to me.

44. On June 15, 2020, I logged into my account to check my member’s dashboard. I was confused because my membership page said I was still subscribed to Petra Picks Platinum for $1998 and Millionaire Roadmap Legacy for $2,997, although Raging Bull discontinued these services back in December 2019. It also showed that I was subscribed to Profit Prism Platinum and Dark Pool Profits, which I did not want, until November or December 2021. I also found out that I was subscribed to other newsletters, like Weekly Winfalls, Dollar Ace and Jackpot, which were coming up for auto-renewal within one to five months. I was concerned because I was signed up for services that no longer existed and set up to be auto-billed for services that I did not want. There was no option to disable the auto-renew online. Attached as Attachment R is a true and correct copy of a screenshot capture of my subscription page that I saved on June 15, 2020.

45. I tried calling Raging Bull again by phone but was put on hold for over thirty minutes. I sent text messages on the Raging Bull messenger app and left voicemails to record my complaint.

46. It appears someone from Raging Bull must have gotten my message, because there were changes to my status when I checked my membership page again the next day. It still showed that I was signed up for Weekly Windfalls, Dollar Ace, Dark Pool Profits, and Jackpot with the same auto-renew dates. For the other subscriptions that were no longer available, the message read: “There was a problem retrieving your subscription details. Please contact support. Attached as Attachment S is a true and correct copy of a screenshot capture of my subscription page that I saved on June 16, 2020.

47. I was not satisfied with these changes and was also still confused. I was also upset that they did not return my call and tried to sneak these changes through without telling me or discussing with me my service terms. I filed another complaint with the BBB to let them know there was “funny business going on” and that what I wanted was reimbursement for the unused time on subscription fees I had paid and to be released from all contracts with Raging Bull.

48. A few weeks later, I called Raging Bull's "sales" department to see if anyone there would answer. Sure enough, I was connected immediately to a live agent named "Zach." I complained about why Raging Bull signed me up subscriptions without my knowledge. Zach said under their terms and conditions, they did not need to notify us of subscription or product changes. I also complained why it was so difficult to get someone from customer service on the line, especially since I had to call them to get Raging Bull to stop auto-renewing the subscriptions. Zach said this was due to COVID-19 and that I just needed to keep trying. Zach asked if I wanted to renew Raging Bull Elite for another year at $10,000. He said this was a deal since the subscription normally costs $20,000. I said no.

49. On July 30, 2020, I received an email from "Justin" at Raging Bull, who called himself a "BBB Specialist." Raging Bull was finally reaching out to talk to me about my BBB complaint. I spoke to Justin on the phone and made clear both my complaint and demand for a refund. During the call, Justin agreed with me that Raging Bull would reimburse me but he needed to get final approval from his boss Michael. Shortly after, Justin confirmed in writing that Raging Bull would agree to issue me a $1,000 refund, remove me from all services, and add me to the "Do Not Contact List." In return, I agreed to mark my BBB complaint as resolved. I asked them to send me the refund by Paypal. Attached as Attachment T is a true and correct copy of my correspondence with Justin at Raging Bull.

50. It is September 2020 and I still have not received the refund that Raging Bull promised.

51. I regret ever joining Raging Bull. Not only did I pay nearly $10,000 on useless subscriptions, I lost about $15,000 following Raging Bull's trades. Not only that, I have spent a lot of time and experienced so much frustration trying to get any kind of customer service from them. This is especially stressful they make it necessary for us to reach their customer service in order to manage and sort out our billing issues. It does not appear they have resolved this and I continue to have the same issues with my membership.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Executed on 10/01 2020.

RE: 559600 AND 543883
TO: MICHAEL AT R. B.

Michael, referring to # 543883 as shown below, you stated that I had a $2,000 pdf credit left after restructuring my 10K contract. We mutually agreed that the modification to my contract included adding time onto my subscriptions so that they would not have to be renewed until December 11, 2021.

I continue to look for an approximate 10K value to my subscriptions but have not found any such value. If anything, this arrangement feels more like buying a new car and having the sucker depreciate upon leaving the dealership. Since my renegotiation Jeff Bishop has had the nerve to introduce something called Alpha. Yet, when I look at the various pieces of Alpha, I see that except for creating a different set of alerts, a different live stream and a different so called bullseye on Sundays, for 2K in more money, there is nothing but smoke and mirrors.

Now JB shows us his latest twist using credit spreads - which he most likely got from Bishop - and asks for another 2 K or so from current subscribers who have, like me, already given 10 K with only a modicum of value to show for it. I have already filed complaints with NH BBB and a scam website. I see, in my research that there are bunches of folks who don't approve of Jeff and Jason's BS sales techniques. So I have lots of company for sure.

Before I go to the AG's for NH and OH, let me make another offer to try to bring our competing interests into alignment. For the 10K of mine that RB has, take back the .75 years of service credit and give me Weekly Windfall for 1 year. Let me reiterate that if RB didn't engage in such ruthless, shady and greedy sales tactics at such outrageous prices I would not keep having to contact you for these adjustments. Of course, if Jeff and Jason stopped these criminal sales tactics with their existing so called VIP clients, they would not have so many angry, jilted former and current subscribers.

Again, my ask is to take back .75 year of subscription time on my current offerings and open up Weekly Windfall as part of my services. Please advise soon. If need be please refer this to Gavin Harrison or whomever has authority to make decisions.

OK, I agree to the following:

Effective July 1, 2019

Surrender Elite status

Stop access to: Penny Pro, Daily Profit Machine, Supernova, Sniper Report, FDA Insider, Options Rocket, Nucleus, along with related chat rooms

Subscriptions to Petra, Jason and J. Bishop will continue till expiration of December 11, 2021.

No additional fees for Petra, Jason or J. Bishop services until December 11, 2021.

Is that OK with Raging Bull?

Hi Dusty,

Millionaire Roadmap and Petra Platinum, two of the services you would retain, are Jason and Petra's mentorship level subscriptions.

Because of this, they always have access to the latest subscription information related to their services. So if Petra makes a change to Petra Gold, it will automatically take place on Petra Platinum because Petra Gold is apart of Petra Platinum.

The same can be said for Millionaire Roadmap and Jason Bond Picks/Freedom Trader(which are the same thing now) and Weekly Money Multiplier. Any updates or changes that occur to Weekly Money Multiplier also happens to Millionaire Roadmap because it is included in that subscription.

The total of Raging Bull Elite is $9999. Using some of our sales prices for Millionaire Roadmap($2,997), Trader's Council($1,999), and Petra Platinum($2997), I got $7993 as a total for what you wanted to keep. This left about another 2000 dollars left over, so I tacked some extra time onto that.

Michael, thank you for your suggested solution.. A couple things before I respond. I have copied two other Raging Bull folks I have also been in touch with about other issues. While not directly connected with what you and I are working on, there is some overlap and I don't want Gavin or Elliot to be in the dark.

Second, I have collected all my subscription charges and agreements with dates. My brain likes to put numbers to each of the subscriptions I am in, when I entered and what I paid. Here is my summary:

January 28 – Jason Bond Picks – $297.00
January 29 – Jason Bond Picks – $2,997.00
Feb. 1 – Petra Picks – $1,499.00
Feb. 27 – Raging Bull Millionaire Roadmap – $997.00
March 13 – Raging Bull Elite – $3,999.00
TOTAL: $9,789.00

Since I began there have been some modifications and additions, some of which are relevant to my agreements with Raging Bull, some not. Based on the set ups today, my desire is to continue to access Millionaire Roadmap, Freedom Trader, Jason Bond Pics, "Courses", Weekly Money Multiplier, and Petra Picks along with their respective chat rooms.

Future: how will we address changes and additions that might come about with Jason, Jeff, Nathan and Petra? I want to know what I can expect.

Getting back to the numbers, my brain will be very happy if I can see the details behind the decision of giving me an additional 1.75 years of time on the services I have listed above. Also once we agree to some solution, what will be the exact end date of the subscriptions I want to keep?

I also have some important issues that I have sent to Jason and Jeff through Gavin Harrison and Elliot Tousley. You should not be making your decisions in the dark about these items. So I will copy you on any communication I will be making to them. Thanks for your time and energy on this. I want to be a successful trader and I want Jason et al to be my "go to" set of teachers/mentors. Our agreement is an important aspect of this success.

Hi Dusty,

Thank you for your patience in this matter.

We have been in discussion about your account and here is what we are offering to you.

We will maintain your access to Millionaire Roadmap, Petra Platinum and Trader's Council (The 3 mentoring services you wish to remain apart of), and apply 1.75 years of service to each of those as credit for your Elite subscription.

Hi Dusty,

I've reviewed your account and the biggest issue is you have Raging Bull Elite as one subscription, and you don't have 6+ different subscriptions.

This makes scaling back at this time mostly impossible.

All we can really do is turn off the alerts from the subscriptions you don't enjoy, and when your renewal date for Raging Bull Elite comes around, we turn it off and we get you back on into the subscriptions you like.

Sincerely,

Michael

As you can see from my email to Gavin yesterday, I want to scale back on the listed subscriptions since I have found that I do not use them nor do I need them. I would like to make this change effective July 1, 2019. All I need from you in addition to making this change is to tell me what my reimbursement will be> Thank you.

Bullseye Trades <support@ragingbull.com>

To: [REDACTED]

Hi Dusty!

Thank you and welcome to Bullseye Trades. It's definitely one of my favorite trading services, and I feel sure that you're going to love it, too!

I've put together a short welcome video to give you an idea of what to expect:

How Bullseye Trades Work

Every Monday morning before the market opens, I will send you my Bullseye trade idea for the week ahead. I'll share the trade including the exact options contract and a complete trade plan to maximize profits.

Before you get into the trade, I've one "pro trader" tip for you; WAIT! The trade idea is not a recommendation to leap into the trade when the markets open on Monday!

In the Bullseye alert I detail the options trade, and the price I want to get in at. I am happy to wait until my trade fills... even if it doesn't! I am fine with that and I will never chase trades, and neither should you.

Allow trades to come to you. And if the price of the trade goes a little bit lower, I might even enter more options contracts for that trade.

How Much Profit Can I Make?

For these Bullseye trades I am looking for about 100% profit in a week or two. I am always looking for profits, but remember that pro traders first consider the loss they could make on any trade; the risk to reward. Always consider the risk of a trade first, and the reward later.

Bullseye trade alerts always give an idea of the stop loss I am looking at if the underlying price of the stock goes against me. This helps me to protect my trading capital, and I am always reminded of what the economist John Maynard Keynes said in this regard;

"The market can remain irrational longer than you can remain solvent."

Great words!

Don't EVER Chase Trades!

Allow the trade to come to you and don't get emotionally caught up in your trades. I am always happy to take smaller profits over pipe dreams of future profits or of hoping that a bad trade will suddenly turn great! There is always next week's Bullseye trade if this week's trade doesn't work out as you expected.

Waiting it Out: Paper Trading

If trading stocks or options is new to you, it's fine to wait and see. You do not have to leap in at the deep end of Bullseye trades.

A lot of brokerages now offer paper trading which allows you to place real trades but with "paper" money. This way you can take a look at the trade, see if it feels right, get in on the trade and see what happens.

When you feel that you are being more consistent in your paper trading, and how you respond to the different trading scenarios that come up (because these situations definitely will arise!), then you will know if you feel ready to start trading real money trades. Trading paper money is always good practice, and can help to prepare you for real money trading.

I love these Bullseye trades and I think you are going to love them too. Thank you for joining me as we target these trades together!

Now, here's to YOUR success!

Dear trader,

Things started off on FIRE at Jason Bond's LIVE event last night.

We mean, literally on FIRE...

Want to see what happened right after?

Click to watch the replay here.

Just after the hottest damn countdown in RagingBull history, nearly 6K attendees popped up in the room.

Thousands showed up to join Jason LIVE for several reasons...

1. Because aside from being America's most dynamic momentum trading teacher, Jason just knocked out one of his best trading weeks with $75,000 in profits using just a $100,000 account.
2. Because everyone wanted to learn about Jason's brand new "advanced notice alerts" that we think could totally upend the financial newsletter industry.
3. Because Jason's newest 'unchained' trading service comes with access to a 60-hour training vault and a special limited-time guarantee...

While the market was still in turmoil, Jason made over $75K

Keep in mind that Jason began his most recent trading tear last week, which was before the markets bounced back yesterday following congress' $2 trillion COVID-19 stimulus package deal.

Just yesterday, the market made the biggest move since 1933. The DOW gained 2,112 points (11.37%), the S&P gained 209 points (9.38%), and the NASDAQ gained 557 points (8.12%).

Jason's performance last week proves that no matter what the conditions are in the market, there are still money-making opportunities out there.

When things go crazy, Jason always goes back to his number 1 strategy, which for him are his two simple patterns.

The two patterns that Jason uses, which are his bread and butter, work in any market condition.

So while we can't possibly predict exactly where the markets will go next, we don't need to.

As Jason explained last night, he took $75K in trading profits last week without knowing that the market was going to totally bounce back.

It's all about location... the trader who can locate the best trades before everyone else will make the most money.

The reality is that everything you'll learn from Jason is about locating stocks before they move.

Just like the real estate market, location is everything!

Jason's advanced notice alerts help you locate momentum stocks... and get in before he gets in

As a Jason Bond Picks member, you don't need to stress about receiving alerts too late.

Jason is now sending all his email alerts before he makes the trade.

The benefit of this is that you have the opportunity to look at the charts and learn about Jason's moves before he makes them.

Here's what people are saying about the advanced notice alerts:

Mar 19, 1:56 PM

jason bond (Moderator): What do you guys and gals think about my new 'advance notice' ???

Mar 19, 1:56 PM

kirk pie: me likey

Mar 19, 1:56 PM

eric gre: LOVE IT 😊

Mar 19, 1:56 PM

jason bond (Moderator): perfect, i appreciate the feedback, we'll make this permanent

Mar 19, 1:57 PM

howard wes: it's perfect!!! Thanks Jason

Mar 19, 1:57 PM

jon sny: You're the man! cheddar spreader

Mar 19, 1:57 PM

kirk pie: awesome ! thanks JB

And just have a look at how Jason gave advanced notice on a couple of his recent trades and how his subscribers benefited...

My Two Favorite Chart Patterns

Hey gang,

Wednesday in the Profit Prism Platinum chat room, I spent some extra time talking with members about exactly what it is that I look for when I'm scouting out my trade candidates at the end of the day.

That lesson included a breakdown of two trusted chart patterns that I use to scout potential Weekend Wiretaps picks -- so I had a feeling you'd be interested, too.

gale lod: I know you've done this before but i sure love it when you do it again it helps me to gain more insight on what to look for thanks Jeff cindy kle: *you're giving us pearls right now robert smi: excellent explanations today! Learning alot!

amy m: Such a great teacher!♥

My Profit Prism Platinum members love the educational content!

Pick Your Pattern

The first step I take when I'm looking at a potential trade candidate is to scan for specific chart patterns that indicate the stock is going to climb higher.

Of course, there's tons of chart patterns I could choose from, but I'm going to focus on just two in particular.

Historically, I've found these simple, powerful setups to be pretty reliable signals that a stock might be getting ready to climb higher -- especially when coupled with other key indicators, like increased trade volume and levels of support.

Pattern #1: The Stairstep

The first pattern I keep a close eye out for is "higher highs and higher lows."

You may recall this simple, classic pattern from our recent Weekend Wiretaps trade on PASO.

Look familiar? PASO was a great example of the higher highs and higher lows pattern.

It basically just means the stock is stair-stepping higher.

Each time the stock trades up, it reaches a new high, and when the stock does trade down, it stays above the previous low it made when it trended downward.

This usually indicates there's solid demand in place for the shares, and a higher low can also be a good entry point for traders to get in before the next move higher.

Pattern #2: Consolidation

The second pattern I keep an eye out for is consolidation.

Consolidation just means a stock is trading within a specific price range for an extended period of time, like NLS shares below.

Volume typically declines during consolidation, then rises again on the breakout.

But this doesn't mean I'm attracted to any old sideways price pattern.

What I really keep an eye out for is consolidation AFTER a big price jump or drop. This usually means the stock has found a key level of support, which the stock can then use to springboard higher, given the right catalyst -- like a surge in trading volume.

Also, the longer the consolidation, the better. If I can find a stock that's been consolidating for a few weeks, that's ideal.

You Can't Trade on Patterns Alone!

Of course, a chart pattern by itself isn't going to be enough for me to want to take a trade. There's a lot of other factors I want to look at before I decide which trades are going to be a hit and which ones are going to be a miss, with trading volume being key among those.

There's plenty more information about what I look for in my trades in your Raging Bull dashboard – I recommend watching the Small Account Success video if you're looking for more information on chart patterns to watch.

I'll be back at you tomorrow with your next Weekend Wiretap update, so keep your eyes peeled.

Until then, stay healthy, stay safe, and have a good one!

Hey gang,

As for trading... The theme continues. COVID plays are paying, and that includes small caps.

Although small-cap stocks are usually insulated from widespread panic selling in the broader market, one of the reasons I love them is because they still cash in on the latest market catalysts and trading trends.

I always target trades with strong technical setups and the momentum to go higher, but a nice headline-driven pop is always welcome, and these COVID plays have been delivering lately!

Just ask my Profit Prism Platinum members, many of whom raked in a nice profit on a different COVID weekend play from my weekend watch list:

Tweet me @ThePennyPro and tell me about your latest COVID play!

And when I start my new \$50K program next week, I'm betting there will be more than a few trades inspired by recent events...

Also, don't forget to join me for our very first LIVE breakout session, tonight at 8:00 PM ET! This session is ONLY open to Weekend Wiretaps members, and I think you're really going to get a lot out of this class.

But in the meantime, I'm going to focus on my latest Weekend Wiretaps pick so you can see exactly why I'm planning on yet another profitable pandemic play with this small-cap mover.

I knew it was going to be bad... But not this bad.

This morning, the US jobs report showed that unemployment claims have skyrocketed to record breaking highs.

For many, the present feels gloomy, and the future is looming with uncertainty.

But one thing I do know? The market will always be there, and I know that I can always reel in consistent profits no matter what it throws at me.

Just a few days ago, I raked in $5,332 on Boeing.

Symbol	Last	P/L Open	Realized D...	Unrealized ...	Realized To...
AAPL	-1.36 245.52	22,750.00
AMZN	-54.26 1,885.84	-9,398.00
BA	31.05 158.73	6,042.00	601.14	-228.00	5,332.00

The SAME stock that is down a whopping 75% from recent highs - and investors are no doubt getting crushed.

But me?

When the opportunity presents itself, I am in and out with a pocket full of cash.

And now I want to present you with an unprecedented opportunity to line your pockets right beside me.

For an extremely limited time, you can join my flagship trading service - Total Alpha - for the absolute LOWEST price I've EVER offered.

I am confident that I can help ordinary people grow any sized account, and make consistent income from anywhere in the world, with just a few minutes of “work” a day.

I hope you understand that I can’t keep this deal open for long.

I simply can’t continue to offer this much value for so cheap!

I'll cut right to the chase... I'm doing something I've never done before.

In recent weeks, my inbox has been flooded with questions from traders who all want to know one thing...

"Jeff... HOW do you continue to reel in massive profits in this market?"

What average traders don't realize is that this market is creating more money making opportunities than we've seen in over a decade.

In fact, in the same week that the market wiped out all of it's 2019 gains, I was sitting on $84,420 in profits.

It all comes down to having a PROVEN system that tunes out the noise, and allows you to make money no matter what the market throws at you.

And for a very limited time...

I'm willing to grant you full access to my Total Alpha system for ROCK BOTTOM PRICING.

You heard me!

I'm offering you an enormous discount on a system that can make you life changing money, all while other traders are getting clobbered.

But you have to act soon, because I can't keep this deal open for long.

These Paydays Could Keep You Going Without a Job

From: Raging Bull All Access <support@ragingbull.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Fri, 27 Mar 2020 14:50:49 -0400

America has “shut down,” businesses have closed their doors, and unemployment claims are now through the roof. However, the Dow and S&P have staged the greatest 3-day advance since the Great Depression.

Enthusiasm surrounding the $2.2 trillion stimulus package is still giving the markets a boost.

And while the market has been able to swallow negative news better... who knows if this is just another head fake up before stocks come crashing down again.

But you know what?

Traders actually don't really wrestle with these thoughts.

As long as there is volatility in the market—they are excited.

You see, as traders, we're taking profits no matter which way the markets move.

While a record 3.2 million Americans are without a paycheck, every day in the markets is still a new potential payday for traders like us.

Just have a look at Ben Sturgill's money calendar as an example of how even trading a small account alongside him could get you started without a job.

The best part of Ben's trading system is that he makes it so SIMPLE to collect these paydays.

Ben even went LIVE this morning to walk his exclusive members through how easy it all really is.

[\[Watch here to gain exclusive access to these LIVE trading sessions\]](#)

While other traders are puzzling over complicated strategies like bear spreads, long straddles, and protective collars, Ben is making his trades based on the simple up and down movement of the S&P 500.

No exhaustive market scans to narrow stock choices from 2,000 to just a few, no speculations about which sectors will perform best— just one simple decision every single day about which direction the same index will move.

Each next trading day this month, with the exception of one day where he took a loss and three days when he didn't alert, was another exciting payday for Ben.

And any given week of these paydays is enough to kick a lousy $1,200 monthly government check in the butt.

If you had started this month with a $1,000 account, you could have increased your account to $3,841 in the first week alone.

That beats the government's relief check in just a single week.

Don't stand idly by, waiting for the government to hand you your check.

If Not Now, Then When?

From: Total Alpha <support@ragingbull.com>

There's no way to sidestep around this...

Investors are getting crushed.

But traders? They're lining their pocketbooks.

It all comes down to understanding WHERE the opportunities are, and being nimble enough to find them, and disciplined enough to act.

...Hunt or be hunted.

If you had invested in AAPL at the beginning of this year, your account would be down a nauseating 31%.

But just by being able to identify one pattern yesterday afternoon, you could have walked away with \$3,000 in trading profits from boring old Apple in less than 24 hours.

Most people are tying all their capital up in "safe stocks", and waiting lightyears for the investment to come to fruition... But that won't be you.

There are hundreds of opportunities every single day to execute on high conviction patterns, and rake in thousands or even tens of thousands in profits in an extremely short period of time.

My job is to identify those tried and true patterns, and tell you exactly how to capitalize on them.

So here's the deal...

I've slashed the prices on my Total Alpha service by a whopping 35%.

BUT I want traders who are hungrier than ever to start making money right beside me every single day... So I won't keep this deal open for much longer.

You can start profiting with me as soon as TODAY, but you have to be willing to take the first step.

It's all right here.

My List of Secret Stocks

From: Jeff Bishop <support@ragingbull.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Sat, 28 Mar 2020 13:00:09 -0400

Time is winding down.

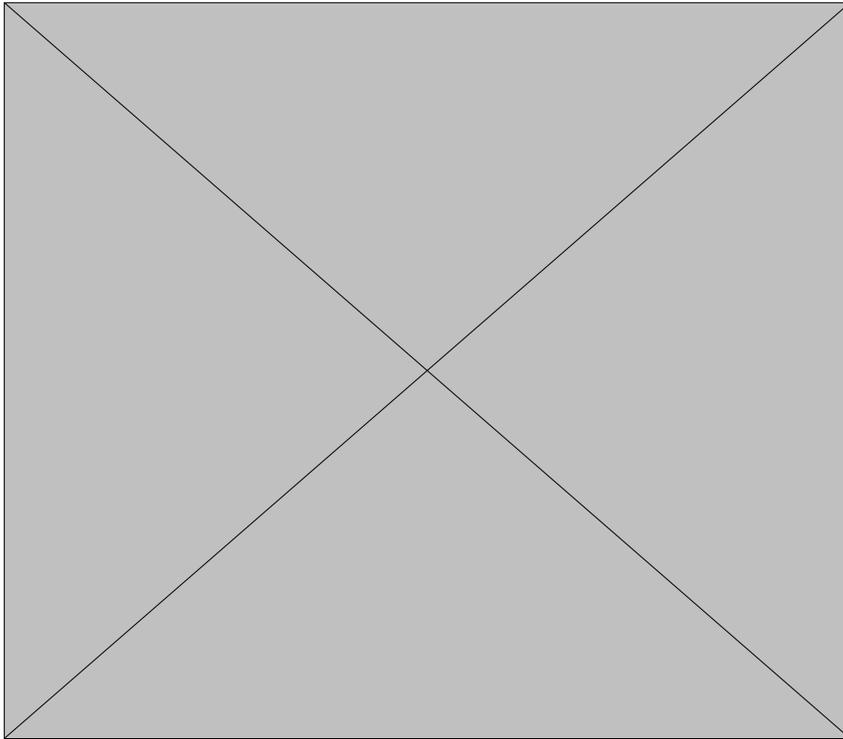

And if you're not sure what I'm talking about, you're behind... So listen closely.

Plain and simple, traders like me use the markets as their own personal ATM's.

But I do things a little differently than most.

In fact... I ignore about 99% of all stocks in the market.

I've found a handful of secret stocks that are wildly compatible with my Total Alpha System, and I trade them time and time again to pull in gains like these:

In fact, I made $82,000 last week just trading ONE stock over and over again.

Ignoring 99% of the market, has put me in the top 1% of elite traders.

With that being said, now is the time to listen very closely...

I'm extending you the opportunity to look right over my shoulder, gain access to my million dollar system, and get your hands on every trade I take in real time... For rock bottom pricing.

Total Alpha retails at $2,499.

I offer occasional discounts at $1,497...

But FORGET THAT.

For the next 48 hours, I'm allowing you to gain full access to me and all of my trades for an entire year... For less than $1,000.

Just imagine what your account would look like after an entire year of executing on my money multiplying trades.

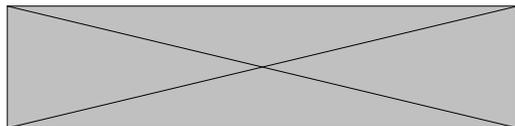

This is the lowest price I've ever offered, and you will likely never see this deal again.

The opportunity is here, it's your choice to take it or not.

Live trade alerts sent to your email and text. Yes, it's really that easy.

This sale ends soon. The time is now!

Jump in with me.

Hello!
Jeff Bishop here once again.

I wanted to make sure you got your hands on this gift while this free access link is still available.

It's true what they say you know...
Long term profitability really isn't possible in the stock market without a STRATEGY.
You don't just stumble your way into these kinds of gains.

It took years to cultivate a strategy that yielded these kinds of results in my portfolio.

It really wasn't until I learned the power of a high conviction options strategy that I began making my millions.

My guess is, you already knew about the potential with trading options. That's why you're here!

But... What most traders are missing is the "framework". This is exactly why the overwhelming majority of traders lose money in the markets.

My Total Alpha Bootcamp Training Series is a framework that can be followed by any level trader.

I'm thrilled to be providing you with access to this training resource absolutely free today.

Just click the link above, enter your email address, and we'll send you an email with access to the Bootcamp training package right away.

I hope you'll take advantage of this invaluable resource while you still can!

48 Hour Flash Sale!

From: Nathan Bear <support@ragingbull.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Wed, 01 Apr 2020 11:31:22 -0400

Last month, I launched my brand new service: LottoX.

I launched it in response to demand from my members, who have made thousands and even tens of thousands on my LottoX alerts in the past few years.

I needed to give this strategy its own due diligence!

But it's true, it was out of a lot of people's price ranges.

I know this is worth $1,499 a year, but for many, it was too much.

Maybe you were someone that saw that price tag and thought...

"I wish I could trial this service for a few months to make sure it's what I want"

"This is just a little too far out of my price range"

"Nate, do you have a quarterly offer?"

I don't USUALLY, but today - yes, yes I do.

I'm offering you the opportunity to join LottoX QUARTERLY.

It's the perfect trial!

The system that returns 35%, 45% and 108%... all in the SAME DAY!

At least take 5 minutes and see everything you'd receive with this trial.

It's the full package, and at a quarter of the price!

It's truly too good to be true...

But LottoX has proven to be such a lucrative system, returning profits in both bull and bear markets... I had to share with you as soon as possible.

This deal is only lasting 48 hours.

Anything more than that and I'd be losing money.

Heck, I already am!

You've heard him say it once... And you'll hear him say it again.

And at this point you might even be tired of hearing it.

But guess what? This ONE thing made him \$1.4 million in 2019 and has him on pace for another \$1 million+ year.

Each and every day, Nathan Bear is dialed into the markets at the opening bell - watching his LottoX scanner like a hawk.

It allows him to detect the absolute best opportunities in the market, and then he uses his expertise and experience to execute for maximum gains.

Focusing on his LottoX scanner took him from $40,000 in trading debt, to a multimillionaire in what felt like overnight.

And Tyler has an eerily similar story...

“Nathan is by far the best investment I’ve made since I started trading about a year ago. I was down about $15,000 on my own and I just made the minimal investment of an unlimited lifetime assistance from Nathan. Since Tuesday when I joined, I’ve doubled my $2,000 investment in one week” - Tyler D.

He was down $15,000 on his own, and after one week with LottoX he’s doubled his investment.

Coincidence? I think not.

So just imagine what your account would look like in 3 months after taking Nathan up on his limited time Quarterly Offer!

With this deal, he’s giving you a total of 90 trades \(5 per week\) that all have the potential to 2x and even 3x your money.

90 days of access to this ONE million dollar system!

But this LottoX Quarterly Deal closes tomorrow at midnight... So it’s time to take action.

[Invitation Inside] We've Never Done This Before

From: Raging Bull All Access <support@ragingbull.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Mon, 06 Apr 2020 08:10:48 -0400

Happy Monday, Trader! Jeff Bishop here.

For the last 8 months, Dave Lukas has lurked in the shadows as RagingBull's secret weapon.

Most of our millionaire traders, myself included, are extremely active in the markets. Heck, sometimes I put on a dozen trades in any given day.

But the truth of the matter is: some work out, and some don't.

But that's what trading boils down to... Right?

Dave has a thing or two to say about that.

You see, Dave will ONLY take a trade if the stars align... If everything sets up just right, and he has 100% conviction that he's going to walk away with a hefty profit.

And because of that, he's been coined the Most Consistent Trader on Wall Street.

His system has afforded him a bulletproof 90% win rate over the last decade, and a 100% win rate over the last 8 months that he's been at RagingBull.

And he came to me the other day with a proposition that I just couldn't refuse...

But this is extremely time sensitive.

The recent market selloff has put us smack dab in the middle of the greatest wealth building opportunity in history... And you and I may not live to see another one like it.

But hold on.

Dave isn't simply suggesting that you go on a buying frenzy and hope for the best.

He's got his sights set on THREE extremely high conviction trades, that he's pinpointed as

massive wealth building opportunities.

And sure, traders like me offer up trades all the time with huge profit potential... But I'm not the guy who shoots with 100% accuracy.

That's why Dave is the only man for this job.

This Wednesday, April 8th, he's going to tell you exactly how you can get your hands on these wealth multiplying trades.

Dave has NEVER done something like this before. WE have never done something like this before.

Click here right now to secure your spot at the event, and learn how to capitalize on this small window of opportunity.

We bet you've heard this quote before...

"Be fearful when others are greedy and greedy when others are fearful."

~ Warren Buffet

Well, we just put together your biggest opportunity to get greedy in 2020.

Allow us to explain...

While the market was roaring to all-time highs, Buffet was sitting on his laurels for more than 3.5 years and accumulating a record $128.2 billion in cash.

Like anyone else, Buffet didn't have a crystal ball. But he saw something that most people simply could not.

As most people were busy trying to catch the tail end of the bull market's momentum, Buffet was quietly getting prepared.

And now, the moment he was preparing for is here.

We've just witnessed one of the biggest and fastest selloffs in the history of the stock market.

And that means that now is one of the biggest buying opportunities of the decade, as many stocks will return over 5X their current value over the next 10 years.

The Oracle of Omaha is set to make a big purchase in 2020— are you?

Here at RagingBull, we sure as heck are!

In fact, we can do way better.

Well, Dave Lukas can...

Tomorrow, April 8th at 2pm EST, he will reveal...

Dave wants to show you how you could 3x your money in just 3 months.

Dave is a serial entrepreneur, business owner, and a legendary investor in his own right.

And while we could brag all day about Dave, his track record does all the talking for him.

Over the last 8 months, Dave's system has yielded him an unheard of 100% win rate. Similar to Buffet, Dave holds his positions somewhat longer term. He uses principles of value investing to help him in setting up trades on the best companies for his strategy.

However, unlike Buffet, Dave generates cash flow consistently without waiting decades to bank his returns.

Dave holds each of his positions for an average of 2.9 months.

His next 3 trades go live on Monday, and you don't want to miss them!

Dusty, Your Triple Threat Primer

From: Raging Bull Insider <insider@ragingbullinsider.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Wed, 08 Apr 2020 12:02:37 -0400

Dear Dusty, —Jeff Bishop here.

Very few people have been able to accurately predict the market better than Dave Lukas.

His Fractal Energy Indicator has propelled him to the highest win-rate out of any trader here at RagingBull.

Last I heard, Dave hasn't had a losing position in months!

Yes, even during this unprecedented time of market volatility.

If you're not registered to watch him live at 2 PM ET—then do so now.

He'll be unveiling Triple Threat, the only program we have designed to triple your account, with three trades, in three months or less.

If you haven't registered yet, do so here.

Since we have some time until Dave goes live, I asked him to send me some info on Fractal Energy to pass along to you. And he agreed.

Here it is:

What Is Fractal Energy

Fractal Energy is the cornerstone indicator of my trading system. I use it to pinpoint key market reversals.

The power of fractals allows me to determine the strength of trends and how much "life" is remaining in a stock's movement.

There are 2 main components of Fractal Energy:

1. Fractal Pattern
2. Energy

And when you use the power of this indicator you will be able to successfully determine the strength or weakness of trends on any stock.

By using Fractal Energy Indicator, I've been able to predict this move down and this bounce almost perfectly!

And the way to predict larger market movements is to reference a longer time frame to understand what the major trends are doing.

Let's take a look at SPY's with the Fractal Energy plotted...

Source: Thinkorswim

Here is how this breaks down...

Breaking down what Fractals said about the markets at all time highs:

- The Fractal Energy indicator dropped to new lows, below the lower threshold value of 30
- Markets struggled to continue trend higher, showing weakness in the stock

And the same indicator can alert you to when a stock is exhausted and about to make a bottom too!

Let's take a look at how Fractal Energy can spot market bottoms.

Source: Thinkorswim

In this example, AAL is starting to put in a bottoming pattern at the lower bollinger bands and the Fractal Energy is starting to "charge up" as it climbs back from its low of 20's to its highs of 50's.

Key points from analyzing the stock chart:

1. The daily bars appear that they are ready to bounce back from the sell-off
2. Higher lows looking to form to confirm uptrend
3. If low is tested, it must hold to give a "double bottom" pattern
4. The Fractal Energy is getting "charged up" showing the stock is ready to trend again

I just wanted to share with you how Dave applies his indicator to accurately pick direction, as well, nail down his timing.

But I'm not here to play spoiler.

If you'd like to see how Dave takes his proprietary indicator and turns it into trading wins...

Well, you just need to be here at 2 PM ET.

It's not everyday a trader who hasn't had a losing position in months is willing to share their secret sauce... but that's what we have here.

You better believe I'll be in attendance.

I'll see you there!

, Meet the Man Crushing the World's Best Hedge Funds

From: Raging Bull All Access <support@ragingbull.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Wed, 08 Apr 2020 10:54:25 -0400

Wall Street won't let you believe it...

But the Triple Threat strategy we're about to share with you today — hands down — topples the performance of even the world's best performing hedge funds.

And even we'll admit, that's saying something.

In the dog-eat-dog world of Wall Street, where only the savviest of investors reach the top, a handful of hedge-funds have consistently thrown down some impressive returns.

The Bridgewater Associates Pure Alpha II fund— a division of the world's largest hedge fund, which makes use of enormous troves of data and lets algorithms make investment decisions — has pulled off 12% average historical returns with only 3 losing years.

Private equity-focused Tiger Global Management, the best performer among large hedge funds between 2016 and mid-2019, has handed its clients 22.4% annually.

And last but not least, the Renaissance Technologies Medallion Fund has averaged 66% annual returns (39% after fees) since 1988.

But even Renaissance Technologies — led by Jim Simons, the mathematical genius who helped develop string theory and broke codes for the National Security Agency — looks weak in comparison to Triple Threat.

But these hedge funds will do anything to keep you from hearing it.

They will tell you that their secret sauce — whether it's quant algorithmic models, “event-driven” activist endeavors, a private equity focus, or any number of other approaches — is the best.

The problem?

Wall Street, and the world's largest hedge funds, have sold you a lie.

They'll tell you that you cannot do better.

But today we're here to show you otherwise.

How?

This man...

That's Dave Lukas, flying private, thanks to the unheard of 100% win rate he's achieved over the last 8 months.

Dave is a serial entrepreneur, business owner, and a legendary investor, and he wants to reveal how YOU could 3x your money in just 3 months.

3X quarterly gains quickly put 12%, 22.4%, and 39% annual hedge fund gains to bed.

A 12%, 22.4%, and 39% increase on a $3,000 investment is $3,360, $3,672, and $4,170 respectively in one year. Not bad.

But have a look at what Dave's trades could potentially do for you...

- 3 multiplied by a $3,000 investment is $9,000 in 3 months.
- 3 multiplied by a $5,000 investment is $15,000 in 3 months.
- 3 multiplied by a $10,000 investment is $30,000 in 3 months.

These are impressive ROIs, and you can follow straight along with Dave as he puts his trades into play.

But you have to hurry...

Dave is about to place his next 3 trades, and he's going LIVE to tell you all about it at 2 pm ET today.

Fade The Rally - Total Alpha Midday Update

From: Total Alpha <support@ragingbull.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Fri, 03 Apr 2020 13:32:27 -0400

Good afternoon trader,

Today's jobs numbers showed unemployment ticking up, but likely don't paint a full picture.

Initially, markets took the information in stride. Then, as we've talked about throughout the past week, the different turning points grabbed hold and pushed equities lower. Small caps continue to hemorrhage, leading us on the way down. They'll be a good one to watch for a potential turn around in the markets.

I'm a bit surprised at the weakness in the markets given how poorly the VIX has done today. It may be that traders are getting lulled into a false sense of security by the market not going limit down every day.

Crude continues its rally off the bottom when Trump announced potential easing on the supply front. That really created the short-covering rally more than anything else. The energy stocks are going to start going under one by one.

I've got a lot of trades expiring today, only a few that I need to manage. Otherwise, I'll be watching the close more than anything else at the moment.

Current Portfolio

Here are the terminology notes to help you read the snapshots.

Symbol = Ticker Symbol (Note: the line directly across the ticker symbol summarizes the whole position I have. Below it breaks out the position in detail.)

Last = Current price of the underlying stock

Mark = Current price of the option

Trade Price = The price I entered the trade at or net amount if it is an option position with multiple legs.

D's Open = This is the number of days I have been in the trade

DTE = Days to expiration. This is how many days are left on the contract

Delta = This is the amount the entire position will move if the underlying moves by $1 higher

Net Liq = The amount the position is worth right now

PoP = Probability of Profit. This is % chance the contracts will be ITM on expiration day

P/L Open = Profit or loss I have on the trade overall

P/L Day = This is how much I have made or lost today only on a position

New Positions

Iron Condor

AAPL May 1st $205/$210/$270/$275 iron condor for $1.95 - With stocks continuing to trade in a range, I've added an iron condor on Apple today. These strikes give me a wide range to work with.

AAPL Hourly Chart

QQQ May 1st $155/$160/$200/$205 iron condor for $1.82 - As the markets have started to retrace, that's put the QQQ into a midpoint zone that I'm comfortable adding an iron condor to. I'm getting over 1/3rd the width of the strikes, which is a boon for the short duration.

QQQ Hourly Chart

Naked options

Sold SPY April 9th $240 put for $4.00 - I don't think the market is quite ready to break down. It may still happen, but I want to continue to collect premium as long as the VIX remains elevated.

SPY Hourly Chart

Calls

Long ZM April 24th $120 calls for $14.20 - ZM had some bad news come out related to potential hacking of their products. Space X asked employees to stop using it. I think it's still one of the best out there and no one is about to develop a new one in the interim.

I love this chart right at the 200-period moving average on the hourly chart.

ZM Hourly Chart

Current Positions

Custom

Long REGN April 9th $480 calls for $18.00 & Short REGN April 9th $500 calls for $18.00 - REGN is getting right up near $500. Now I just need time to expire to get rid of the remaining premium and get maximum profit (or REGN to just go up way past $500).

Calls

Long INO April 17th $8 calls for $1.49 (Down 22.8%) - INO looked like it was about to move and then nada. I'll probably drop this one shortly.

Puts

Long SPY April 17th $260 puts for $15.84 (Flat) - I've pared back this position a little bit, but still want to maintain my hedge in this market.

Iron Condor

TSLA April 17 $330/$340/$540/$550 iron condor for $4.10 (Up 4.6%) - Tesla couldn't hold its gains, which leads me to the conclusion that this stock is very weak.

AMZN April 9th $1895/$1900/$2050/$2060 for $4.11 - Amazon is down a decent amount on the day but not much worse than the overall market. It's still holding up relatively well and hasn't broken through the lowest strikes.

COST April 3rd $275/$280/$297.5/$302.5 iron condor for $2.55 (Up ~100%) - This is the trade I discussed yesterday. With COST at $290, this is looking sweet to collect a nice $20K!

Spreads

SPY April 9th $262/$267 call credit spread for $1.10 - This trade looks pretty darn good at the moment. I'm starting to shift a little off my bullish stance, but I like to keep a balanced portfolio.

BA April 9th $110/$115 put credit spread for $1.11 (Down 18.9%) - BA is actually up on the day. There's been a lot of news around the stock, so maybe this is the lowest it will go for now.

AAPL April 9th $220/$225 put credit spread for $0.88 & AAPL April 3rd $260/$265 call credit spread for $2.00 - The call credit spread should expire for maximum profit. The put credit spread is still in a great position to make a profit as well.

SPY April 3rd $252/$254 call credit spread for $0.65 & SPY April 9th $230/$235 put credit spread for $1.12 - The call credit spread was a bit of a flier but looks like I'll collect a quick $3,000 there. The put credit spread has time to work. I don't know that we fall off a cliff quite yet until we get some sort of catalyst.

AMZN April 9th $1990/$2000 call credit spread for $2.10 - This call credit spread is outside the normal range of where I expect Amazon to trade and above the highs. It looks smart with the market down on the day. As Amazon trades within the range, I'll continue to work this play over and over.

AMZN April 3rd $1900/$1910 put credit spread for $1.45 & AMZN April 3rd $1830/$1840 put credit spread for $2.65 - The lower put spread will expire for maximum profit without a problem. The higher one may take some finesse.

SHOP April 3rd $260/$270 put credit spread for $2.60 (Up 100%) -This trade shouldn't have any problem getting maximum profit, regardless of what the market does these next few days.

I've removed the stocks I'm looking at for the time being because it's changing so much day to day that I can't keep a list that will be of benefit to you.

Instead, I recommend you find a few stocks that you like, bullish and bearish, maybe 3 on each side. Follow them like a hawk. Study how they move throughout the day and the setups that occur.

Trading The Top - Total Alpha Morning Update

Pulling Yourself Out of A Hole

Yesterday's market action provided a lot of information and opportunity. I want to cover it in today's newsletter as I think it provides some valuable insights into how to both manage trades and risk.

Let's start with the obvious. After two weeks of bouncing off the bottom, we had another handful of ridiculous short-covering rallies recently on a daily basis. That leads to exhaustion at some point.

The recent squeeze caught me badly on the wrong side of it and I wound up giving back a lot of hard-earned profits in a short period of time. Every trader dreads seeing that happen.

For the moment, let's assume I didn't know when that would happen. How do I know when a potential top has formed and what's the play?

There's no clear cut answer that covers all scenarios and cases. However, there's some broad themes you want to see:

- General weakness in the market - These often come in failures to hold the line in the first 30-60 minutes of the day (opening auction anyone???)
- Divergence with volatility - With large equity moves you should expect similar moves in the VIX. When you don't see that, it tends mean one of the two is wrong (stocks usually)
- One major market isn't playing along - Between the S&P 500, Russell 2000, Nasdaq 100, or Dow Jones Industrial Average, when one or more shows a lot of weakness, that's usually a sign.

So let's turn to the SPY and see what we've got.

SPY 5-Minute Chart

You can see that by 10:30 am, the market pretty much crapped out. By 11:00 am it had already made a low. We got a retracement midday, but otherwise, the market fell straight from midday into the close.

Right out of the gate we see there's a lot of weakness. When you get the second 30 minutes of the day closing below the first 30 minutes, that tends to indicate bearishness.

Now, let's turn to the VIX.

VIX 5-Minute Chart

Here's where the real tell is. The VIX opened essentially flat on the day while the market opened up hundreds of points. That means traders came in to buy option protection on a pretty bullish open. They do that when they feel the market's run its course.

You and I don't have the money to move the VIX. To get that to move you need deep pockets. I'm talking fund and big bank money. So, when they're buying protection against a huge pop in stocks, that's when you need to take notice.

Note: All the major markets did open up roughly the same, so that wasn't a factor this go around. Nevertheless, it's still something to pay attention to.

Let's say I've got enough together that I want to set up a trade. How would I go about doing that?

Well, there were two places to work your magic.

SPY 5-Minute Chart

If you found enough conviction early enough in the day, you could have taken bearish bets around 10:00 am with a stop against the high of the day.

The second spot would have been the retracement back at midday. Again, the stop would have been above the high of the day.

In both cases, I'm taking the trade with small amounts of upside risk but large amounts of downside reward.

One way to set this up would be to use the turning points in the day we've discussed recently. We know there's typically a mid-morning turn. You could take a small bearish position at 10:00 am. Then take half (or more) off at the turning point around 11:00 am (if you caught it at 10:30 am that works just fine).

You can use those profits to load up again on the midday retracement, again with a stop above the high of the day. If you measure it out right, even if you get stopped out, you'll still walk away with profits from the first move.

Let's say the trade never retraces. That's ok too. You've locked in a portion of the profits with a remaining amount that can ride the market lower.

You can actually see I did just that. The majority of my bearish trades came on around 10:00 am. I took off my older SPY puts around 10:30 am. Around 12:00 pm (12:08:43 pm to be exact) I added more SPY puts, which I collected a $5,490 profit on around 2:30 pm.

In fact, the AAPL call credit spread I sold just before 10:00 am I took off at 3:30 pm for a huge $10,400 profit.

All of what I've talked about here use the very same tools we've gone over the last week. Take some time to read through the intraday charts and get a feel for where you think things are going. Analyze the movement and write down your thoughts.

This type of journaling will quickly make you much better at reading the markets than you ever dreamed possible!

Current Portfolio

Here are the terminology notes to help you read the snapshots.

Symbol = Ticker Symbol (Note: the line directly across the ticker symbol summarizes the whole position I have. Below it breaks out the position in detail.)

Last = Current price of the underlying stock

Mark = Current price of the option

Trade Price = The price I entered the trade at or net amount if it is an option position with multiple legs.

D's Open = This is the number of days I have been in the trade

DTE = Days to expiration. This is how many days are left on the contract

Delta = This is the amount the entire position will move if the underlying moves by $1 higher

Net Liq = The amount the position is worth right now

PoP = Probability of Profit. This is % chance the contracts will be ITM on expiration day

P/L Open = Profit or loss I have on the trade overall

P/L Day = This is how much I have made or lost today only on a position

New Positions

Spreads

AAPL April 17th $245/$250 put credit spread for $1.00 - This rounds out the call credit spread I have on Apple with the $265/$270 call strikes for the same expiration date and a $1.05 credit. That gives me roughly 40% of the total spread width as a credit to work with.

Note: This is what I had described when I said that I wanted to collect 20% premium on either side.

AAPL Hourly Chart

Current Positions

Iron Condor

QQQ May 1st $155/$160/$200/$205 iron condor for $1.82 (Down 39.7%) - The Qs finished yesterday below $200. That still seems to be their big resistance point. The trade has a lot of time left. Until it closes above the strikes I plan to let it keep working.

Notice I've already got my order in to take this trade off at ~30% max profit.

TSLA April 17 $330/$340/$540/$550 iron condor for $4.10 (Down 6.2%) - Tesla, you saucy minx. It finished the day at $545, which is still below the upper strike. I'm not out of this trade yet, but I did reduce the call credit spreads from 100 to 60 contracts.

Spreads

AMZN April 9th $2050/$2060 call credit spread for $2.14 & AMZN April 9th $1990/$2000 call credit spread for $2.10 & AMZN April 17th $2020/$2030 call credit spread for $2.05 - Amazon finished the day just above $2000. I'll consider taking off the lower credit spread today if we don't get a selloff. Otherwise, this one may be too late to save. The other two though are looking nice!

BA April 9th $110/$115 put credit spread for $1.11 (~Up 100%) - Looking to collect a nice $11,000 profit here!

AAPL April 9th $220/$225 put credit spread for $0.88 & AAPL April 17th $265/$270 call credit spread for $1.05 & AAPL May 1st $270/$275 call credit spread for $1.07 - Apple finished yesterday below $260. That looks to be a critical point for the stock. Right now everything looks good. It's a matter of watching to see how the market reacts this week.

SPY April 9th $273/$278 call credit spread for $1.80 & SPY April 17th $285/$290 call credit spread for $1.10 - The SPY finished yesterday around $265. It couldn't hold the gains for the day, which shows me it has a lot of weakness. That makes me want to add some more far out-of-the-money call credit spreads potentially.

I've removed the stocks I'm looking at for the time being because it's changing so much day to day that I can't keep a list that will be of benefit to you.

Instead, I recommend you find a few stocks that you like, bullish and bearish, maybe 3 on each side. Follow them like a hawk. Study how they move throughout the day and the setups that occur.

Facts #1: Dave Lukas hasn't lost a single trade in 8 months.

Fact #2: He's offering you the opportunity to get your hands on his three favorite trades, with 100% profit targets, for just \$199.

I do not know ANY other trader that is willing to offer you the same thing.

Here's the way I see it.

If the past is any indication of the future... Then Dave will have no problem delivering these three money doubling trades on a silver platter.

A puny $500 in each of these three trades could pay for that $199 entry fee with $1,300 left over.

So ask yourself this...

Are you really going to pass up the opportunity to double your money three times over?

You'd rather save the $199 and bet against a guy who hasn't been wrong in 8 months?

I love gambling just as much as the next guy, but that sure as hell isn't a bet I'm willing to take.

I'm all in on Dave.

So click here right now to see what he has to offer, because, here's the thing.

His trades are being released on Monday morning. Once that happens... There's no going back.

The Triple Threat offer will be gone.. Over... FINTO.

The trades will pass you by and you'll just have to watch as they take off without you.

We're offering you an opportunity to get in before that happens, but you've got to act right now.

Dear ,

The U.S. stock market is starting Q2 in the same fashion Q1 ended...

SHARPLY LOWER.

However, that doesn't mean your account needs to suffer.

In fact in March, Kyle Dennis went on to make more than $477K in trading profits.

And he didn't do it by shorting the market either.

No joke.

Kyle was able to rack up nearly $500K in profits by trading stocks related to the COVID-19 pandemic and the new economy it's created.

So while most people are seeing these type of headlines:

They are totally missing out on what Kyle believes is a hidden bull market.

Now if you missed last month's profit grab in the market...

...we're sorry to hear.

But believe it or not, Kyle expects more trading opportunities in April.

And possibly, even bigger profits.

To get you ready, Kyle is putting together an online meetup.

It's 100% free to register.

Not only will he address the state of the market...

...but he'll also be sharing where he's making the most money, how you can find these trades, and how to replicate his success.

It's all going down shortly.

Make sure you're there.

Don't miss this.

Urgent: Hidden Biotech Jackpots in “A Recession Unlike Any Other”

From: Raging Bull All Access <support@ragingbull.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Fri, 03 Apr 2020 14:54:59 -0400

Dear trader,

Brace yourself...

What you're about to receive from us here today may be the most blunt trading advice you've received all year.

These are unprecedented times in the market, which is why we've put together a very critical briefing to provide you with an opportunity to glimpse a few of the most urgent potential biotech jackpots that we could round up.

In fact, the explosive strategies we've just leaked with our youngest but nevertheless sensational 7-figure trading expert, Kyle Dennis, have already trickled out to the far corners of the web.

We aired Kyle's State of the Market address just a few days ago, and it's garnered some of our very highest click-throughs in the history of RagingBull... in just a few short days!

The fact is, there's some really ugly market action out there right now and the possibility that things are about to get worse is high.

A group of Bank of America analysts just announced yesterday that the coming recession “appears to be deeper and more prolonged than we were led to believe just 14 days ago when we last updated our forecasts, not just in the US but globally as well.”

Because, here's the thing... unemployment rates are currently through the roof. The number of new jobless claims soared to over 10 million in the last two weeks of March.

In the end, this group of BofA analysts anticipates that the number of job losses will reach as many as 20 million as businesses all throughout the country are forced to coil in the midst of the government's most sincere attempts to constrain the deadly CONVID-19 pathogen.

The worst part is that, while the market is still chugging away and trying to regain lost ground, a lot of the most alarming numbers aren't even baked into the data yet.

The U.S. nonfarm payrolls released today isn't even a full reflection of the damage to the U.S labor market. That data was put onto paper before the outbreak reached its current peak.

But while these analysts don't anticipate a big pop in the overall market until Q4 of 2020, you don't have to struggle in a shrinking economy over the next two quarters...

There's a Catalyst Goldmine in the Middle of This Bear Market... And It Could Mint a New Generation of Millionaires
Because this market is going haywire, traders based everywhere from Lincoln, Nebraska, to the highest floors on Wall Street are thirsty for advice.

Why?

Because they're losing money. And not just a little— a lot!

In the past month and a half, trillions of dollars have been wiped clean from market circulation.

So it's just natural...

These traders are absolutely desperate to hear how Kyle Dennis managed to pull off a blockbuster month with nearly half a million bucks in realized gains— all in the midst of this crisis.

The truth is, much of the profits that Kyle has taken this past month are the results of catalysts that have already popped off.

And many subscribers who are receiving premium insights on Kyle's have been lucky enough to take a ride.

Take a look at how some of them did on coronavirus play, INO...

However, it's not too late to get a piece of this action. Far from it.

To be quite frank, if you ask Kyle Dennis, the game is really just about to begin...

As we close in on a coronavirus vaccine, a handful of biotech stocks specifically targeting a solution are primed for enormous growth.

The coronavirus stocks that Kyle is watching right now include the following:
AIM, APT, CODX, INO, OPK, MRNA, GILD, and NVAX.

You New Benefit of Elite Membership: Jeff Bishop's Portfolio Accelerator - Round 2!

From: Jeff Bishop <support@ragingbull.com>
To: [REDACTED]
Date: Mon, 06 Apr 2020 15:37:01 -0400

Hello again Dusty,

Looks like some crucial information was missing from my earlier email. Very sorry about that.

Let's try this again...

As a member of RagingBull's top tier, I'm delighted to make you among the first to enjoy our newest service, my Portfolio Accelerator.

Unlike Anything Else We Offer

You know my trading services, but they're only a part of my overall approach to building my family's portfolio. I'm always looking for ways to build our family's future generational wealth.

You'll find that I approach my Portfolio Accelerator trades very differently than you may be used to with my other trades. That's because there's a big difference between trading vs. building a portfolio.

As a trader, I don't mind a fairly high degree of risk. But for my family portfolio, I am seeking to be defensive. I want to take advantage of great investment opportunities when I see them, but I'm also trying to manage any downside.

From that thinking and those actions now, I'm looking to build a solid, long-term foundation as a base for my family's future, year after year. And this is your chance to get inside my mind, see what I'm thinking and why I do certain things.

Now let's get to it...

What You Can Expect

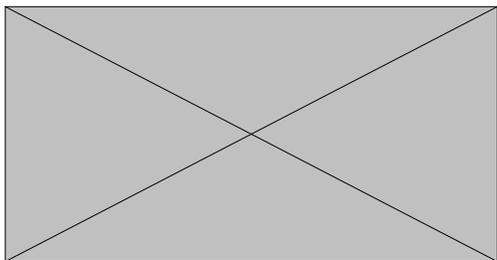

Here's what you'll get at a subscriber of my Portfolio Accelerator:

- A base of 5 stocks (the first is below - and 4 more will be emailed to you this week!)
- An email with at least 1 stock that I'm buying per month PLUS options plays to turbocharge gains
- Buy/sell alerts via email and SMS (please make sure you have your alert settings updated, if needed)
- Monthly portfolio updates
- A model stock portfolio
- Resources such as my Black Book of Trading
- My RagingBull Investor email newsletter (coming soon!)
- And monthly videos from me

We're launching this publicly around April 21, but we wanted to get you started right away. It's your due as a member of RagingBull Elite.

Be sure to let me know what you think of the service. As always, I'm honored to have you along for the ride.

Read on below for what I've selected as my first long-term play. Then keep an eye out tomorrow and each day this week for more!

[Revealed] Top Stock #1 to Buy in the Recovery

Look at this ridiculous chart. Seriously. Look at it. Then look at it again.

These are the returns of every company from the S&P 500 during the first quarter.

S&P 500 stocks - 3 month % performance: 3/30/2020

It's a total blood bath.

The type of downturn that comes along once in a generation.

Almost everyone on Wall Street is licking their wounds and racing to cash...

But I'm extremely bullish. I'm looking to shovel cash with both fists into this selloff.

I'm ready to make a KILLING.

Anyone still on the sidelines will feel like an idiot in a year.

The old adage goes "Be fearful when others are greedy, and greedy when others are fearful."

That's not bullish enough for me.

There's blood in the water, and it's time to feast before a "rip-your-face-off" rally kicks off.

Stocks haven't traded at these low levels since the last Presidential election.

And here's the problem for anyone tiptoeing around the water. They might never trade this cheaply - ever again.

If you're not putting money to work in this market, you're going to spend your life regretting it.

reason to steer clear of stocks.

Don't make me shake you by the shoulders.

Pay attention... a number of stocks will fuel the next boom over the coming decade.

Remember the runs of Amazon, Facebook, and Alphabet since 2008?

The companies I'm targeting will make their gains look like a child's piggy bank by the time this recovery is over. Today, we're going to start unveiling these home run picks.

Smart investors are going to make a fortune when the economy rebounds.

A big run... A MONSTER run... is likely to happen...

And I want you to be a part of it.

Get Greedy, Stay Greedy

During the March selloff, certain sectors fell by eye-popping levels.

I love to see pull backs like this. How can you not?

At some point, foolish sellers are just giving away companies for pennies on the dollar.

The sectors that got punched in the face the hardest were ones directly exposed to the economic fallout of COVID-19.

They include banks, airlines, movie production and theaters, oil and gas (equipment, services, drilling, exploration, pipelines), resorts and casinos, and other consumer-focused businesses like retail.

Some of these industries are screwed. Airlines aren't coming back yet. Neither will hotels or movie theaters.

But others are poised for massive rebound. You have to know what will survive and what will thrive. Making those calls - that's my job.

In fact, I've already uncovered several sectors that have started to skyrocket.

Now, does that mean I think every stock is a buy?

Heck no!

But I've hand-picked some of the hottest investment opportunities out there — ones that I believe are deeply undervalued. Ones that will make fat profits from this feast.

Now is the perfect time to build a long-term portfolio of companies with an economic moat and staying power. Right now is the time to go long and build a freaking fortune.

I want to show you some stocks I believe will be leaders for decades to come.

These are cornerstone positions in my family portfolio. I expect them to blow away everything else in the market. And now is the time for you to get on board.

This week, I'll be unveiling my five picks one at a time.

Today, let's start with my No. 1 pick for a market recovery...

Apple Inc. (AAPL)

Everyone knows Apple Inc. (AAPL).

But here's a brief refresher on why this company is a winner.

It is one of the world's largest companies.

It has a dominant market share in every category it operates.

The tech giant has incredible management.

It operates one of the most universally recognized brands on the planet.

And it's outperformed after every crisis dating back to the Dot-Com Bubble.

If it's not obvious, Apple is one of my favorite investment ideas right now.

If you don't already know, Apple was founded in 1976 by Steve Jobs, Steve Wozniak, and Ronald Wayne... and just a few decades later, it became the world's first trillion-dollar company.

The reason?

Innovation.

Consumers flock to its state-of-the-art computers, mobile devices, as well as software and services. Look around. You'll see countless consumers using an iPhone, iPad, Mac, or AirPods.

If you ask around, I'll bet those same consumers also use iMessage, iCloud, Mac, iTunes, Apple Pay, and the app store.

With such strong brand loyalty and name recognition, Apple has proven its staying power.

Fun fact: Apple is the largest technology company by revenue, as well as market capitalization at the time of this writing.

It's easy to understand why. Just take a look at how diverse Apple's revenue stream is:

This broad portfolio of products and services makes the company a perfect long-term buy in an economic storm.

Read more, right here.

Apple Still Has Growth Potential

Sure, Apple does have some stiff competition out there.

However, Apple has proven its ability to take market share and outperform some of the most influential and innovative companies.

That signals to me Apple is a resilient company and will continue to grow its brand for years to come.

Source: Strategic Management Insight

When it comes to due diligence, I like to see how dominant a company is in its industry.

This allows me to assess its growth potential.

For example, Apple has a majority of U.S. market share in mobile operating systems.

Source: StatCounter Global Stats

However, its presence in the smartphone market outside of the U.S. is not so prominent.

In February 2020, Apple had about 26% market share of the smartphone operating systems worldwide.

Source: StatCounter Global Stats

I don't see this as a weakness.

If Apple can take just a few more percentage points in the global smartphone market, that would equate to billions more in revenue and net earnings.

That would pump this stock much... much higher.

How Apple Can Gain Market Share

You see, although Apple dominates with its products in the U.S., its foreign revenues have been declining over the years.

The reason this is happening is because of the high price point on iPhones. The vast majority of mobile phone sales are under $316, while the average iPhone costs $758.

However, Apple is showing promise in reducing costs and maintaining margins.

It plans to roll out its latest iPhone in Spring 2020 — which should retail around $400.

Apple has also started to slash some prices on its luxury phones, such as the iPhone 8 and iPhone X.R.

The company generates a majority of its revenue from the sale of iPhones (61% of total revenue).

While that operating segment may see a decline this year, the downturn is largely priced into the stock.

Subscription Services on Fire.

Apple's subscription services business should continue to provide strong revenue for the company.

It grew by 16.5% in fiscal 2019.

And even in this environment, App Store, Apple Pay, Apple Music, and AppleCare should thrive.

This side of the business generated about 18% of the firm's total sales in fiscal 2019.

Apple Dominates the Wearables Market

Another fast-growing segment for Apple has been wearables.

Its wearables revenue grew by 44% in fiscal 2019.

The AirPods and Apple Watch have pushed Apple to be the leader in the wearables market—commanding a 36.5% market share.

Of course, I'm not just looking at Apple's story and the headlines to analyze the stock.

I like to look at the long-term chart, then dig deeper into the company.

The Technical View

I like to look at a stock's price trend before I make any decision.

Here's a look at Apple's weekly chart.

As you can see, the stock is still in a long-term upward trend.

But recently, coronavirus caused the stock to pull back from its record high above $320.

There are key areas in which the stock looks extremely attractive — around the 50-day moving average and 200-day moving averages on the daily and weekly charts.

Although these levels do change over time, they tend to be key support levels.

In other words, investors will step in, buy the stock and "support" the stock at these prices.

After confirming that Apple has likely reached its bottom on the technical side, I like to dig into other numbers. So, let's take a look at the financials to see how Apple is performing.

Apple: Inside the Books

Apple has a phenomenal management team, and I believe it does its best to inform and reward investors.

For example, during the start of the coronavirus pandemic, Apple was among the first companies, back on February 17, to announce that it would be missing its quarterly guidance due to COVID-19 concerns.

Although the company is predicting a decline in its iPhone sales volume, I believe that it is just a short-term bump in the road.

You see, analysts at some of the largest investment banks are still projecting year over year growth in Apple's revenues and earnings per share.

Please take the numbers below with a grain of salt. The COVID-19 pandemic is ongoing, and it's caused a lot of economic pain.

When it comes to conducting due diligence on investment ideas, it's beneficial to compare the numbers to the industry standard. If you look below, Apple has some relatively attractive values.

For example, look at the price to earnings (P/E) — one of the most widely used financial ratios out there.

Apple trades at about 20 times its earnings, which is below the industry average.

Not only that but if you compare the relative price performance during one of the worst quarters, Apple was able to outperform the industry, as well as the S&P 500.

Moreover, Apple has proven its ability to grow year over year, according to the profitability metrics below.

Source: TradeStation

Finally, I want to look to see how the company has performed in its various categories.

As we can see, Apple did have a year-over-year decline in iPhone sales, which looks likely to rebound in 2021 and beyond.

It's been red hot in its wearables, iPad, and services businesses. I expect that it will continue to see incredible growth again once the economy rebounds, and consumers buy new gadgets and accessories.

Source: 2019 10-K filing

I've examined the company's finances, its trends, and its market share, and Apple is poised for a big bounce after the COVID-19 fallout comes to a close. With the stock sitting at key support levels, it appears that the bottom is likely here for Apple. There are a few other reasons why you should buy Apple stock.

Why Apple Now:

· Flight to Safety Play

This is a favorite buy among institutional investors. Pension funds will be a major buyer of stocks over the coming months. Apple is held in over 121 ETFs. It is a member of the Dow, S&P 500, and Nasdaq 100. And it is the single largest holding of Berkshire Hathaway, run by the world's most famous value investor Warren Buffett.

· Strong Balance Sheet

According to its Q1 2019 earnings report, Apple had more than $245B in cash on hand. It has plenty of cash on hand to overcome any temporary disruption it's currently facing. The company could also deploy a lot of this money to buy a number of struggling startups that provide next-generation technologies and huge upside. In a buyers market, Apple can deploy capital at will, and could end up getting a massive bargain when the dust settles.

• High Margins on Products and Services

Apple's price margins are unrivaled in the industry, and it continues to stack cash as customers pay high prices for quality and convenience. One of Apple's shining stars recently has been its subscription service business, which includes Apple Pay, AppleCare, and Apple Music.

The firm disclosed last summer that it had a 62.8% profit margin from its services business.

- Strong Demand for 5G Should Boost iPhone sales in 2021.

Apple is one of the most innovative companies in the world. And stands to generate a fortune thanks to the widespread adoption of 5G across the world. Analysts at JPMorgan are expecting strong demand for 5G, as its current forecast for 2021 remains at 208 million units of iPhones sold. Look for Apple to be among the biggest winners in this category.

• Value

The stock is trading 27% off its highs. It pays its investors a cash dividend of $4.83 per share.

My Long-term Play: Buy Apple Inc. (NASDAQ: AAPL) at or below $250.00.

Tomorrow, I'll be unveiling my next pick in my family portfolio. This company is also prepared to help make a generational fortune thanks to 5G technology.

Good Morning Justin, based on when this email came in, you move fast. I don't miss much and so, given that RB had found a need to fund a BBB Specialist, seems to me I am not the exception to the rule. Just an observation. Should RB decide to change their business models, they could theoretically make your position unnecessary.

But, back to my situation: I am pleased Michael, you and I have come to this agreement. I don't know if that MC is still good so it would make best sense for you to send the $1K via PayPal using my email address. Once that reimbursement hits my PayPal account, I will confirm it's arrival with you via email and you are free to detach me from RB and all it's products. Good luck to you Justin. You have a heck of a job to do so blessings and good luck to you.

Dusty,

Per our conversation earlier today I have taken that proposed resolution to Michael. After some discussion I convinced him to accept the offer of issuing a $1,000 refund and remove you from all services, and add you to the "Do Not Contact List".

We currently have a Mastercard on file for you ending in 7681 we will first attempt to issue the $1,000 there, if that doesn't work you can send us your Paypal address and we will issue a $1,000 payment to you.

At the conclusion of this we have come to a reasonable solution that all parties have agreed to and should be marked on the BBB accordingly without prejudice that you spoke with a representative and came to a reasonable arrangement.

Complaint # 16067729

DECLARATION OF GEORGE FOTION
Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746

I, George Fotion, have personal knowledge of the facts and matters set forth below. If called as a witness, I could and would testify as follows:

1. My name is George Fotion. I am over the age of twenty-one and I live in Rancho Palos Verdes, California.

2. In July 2020, I was on either Facebook or Instagram and saw an advertisement for a service called Monday Movers. The service is run by a company called Raging Bull LLC ("Raging Bull"). The advertisement I saw talked about options trading, but it turns out that the service is for trading stocks, and Jason Bond is supposed to send subscribers trade recommendations. I did not realize that the service did not include options until after purchased. From the advertisement, I went to the Monday Movers website where I watched a video of a trader named Jason Bond pitching the service. On the website, I noticed there was a 30-day money back guarantee. Jason Bond also mentioned the guarantee in the video. I thought that if I signed up, it would be risk free because I could cancel within 30 days.

3. On approximately July 24, 2020, I paid $799 for Monday Movers with my credit card. After I joined, immediately I was bombarded by dozens of emails trying to upsell other products by Raging Bull.

4. With my subscription I believed that I was going to get real time trade alerts. However once I got the first trade, I realized that the stock picks Jason Bond was providing were made after he placed his trades because he stated in his alerts the names of the stocks and prices that he just bought or sold. I paid a lot of money to get good, actionable advice, not advice after the trader executed his own trades. An alert that comes a few hours after Jason Bond trades is not useful to me. In addition, I looked up some of the stocks that he was trading in my Ameritrade account and he was trading on thinly traded stocks. A major purchase by Jason could move the market so that my entry price would be higher than Jason's entry price. Jason Bond led me to believe in the video presentation that the text would come before or at the time the trade was made. I would not have purchased this service if I had known that Jason was trading before sending the alerts.

5. Also, I did not realize until after I purchased that the service was focused only on trading stocks. This did not fit my investment plan as I had no interest in trading stocks. I never actually tried to execute any of the trades because I only wanted to trade options.

6. I decided to cancel my subscription since I did not want to trade stocks, and I did not like that the alerts went out after Jason Bond traded. Since I had just purchased the service, I was well within the 30 days. I first tried to cancel on the website since that is where I signed up for the service. However, I could not find a way to cancel online. I then sent an email to cancel. I received an email back stating that their records showed that I did not take the two-hour training course that I apparently had to take in order to get the 30-day money back guarantee. I then called Raging Bull because I never saw anywhere—on the website, the presentation or the checkout page—that I had to take a course in order to get the 30-day money back guarantee. I called Raging Bull to speak with someone and spoke with several people, including a supervisor. They kept insisting that they disclose on the website that you have to take the course in order to get your money back, but I told them that I never saw any such disclaimer. In the end, the Raging Bull employees told me I could not get my money back unless I took the required course.

7. Not only was I required to take the course, but I had to pass it as well. No one at Raging Bull told me I had to pass, but it was evident when I started working through it. The course was divided up into multiple segments and each segment had a test. You had to pass each segment by getting 100% in order to go on to the next segment. In fact, I missed one question and I had to take the test again because I could not get to the next segment until I got 100%. There were dozens of segments and the courses were about stock trading. I spent about 5 or 6 hours trying to get through the course and finally gave up. It was very difficult.

8. I filed a complaint with the Better Business Bureau on July 28, 2020. Raging Bull responded to my complaint on the BBB website and told me to email them at bbb@ragingbull.com or call them and speak with a BBB specialist in Raging Bull's Client Services Team.

9. After my frustration with the course requirements, I called and emailed Raging Bull again and complained. I told them that I was going to complain on my social media as well. Then I became very vocal on my social media pages, like Twitter, Facebook and Instagram. I described what happened to me and I used the "@" sign with the company name so that the company would know that I posted negative reviews about their misleading practices. Approximately a month after I purchased, I then received an email telling me that I would receive a refund, but the person asked me to update my BBB profile to say that the problem was resolved. I never did that, but I did receive a refund within a few days as a credit on my credit card.

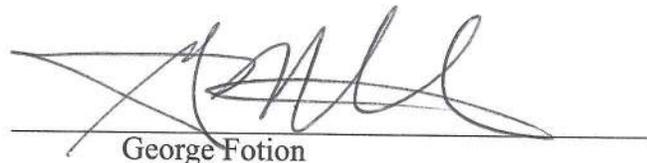

10. I had called my credit card company to dispute the charge, but terminated that dispute after I received the refund.

11. I do not understand why Raging Bull makes it so difficult to cancel. I do not recall seeing any disclaimer requiring completion of a course with the original 30-day money back guarantee I saw on the website and I do not recall Jason Bond mentioning any required course when he mentioned the guarantee on the video. I feel that their practice of making people take a class in order to qualify for a refund, and then making it impossible to complete the class is predatory.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

DECLARATION OF HUSSEIN ABTIDON
Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746

I, Hussein Abtidon, have personal knowledge of the facts and matters set forth below. If called as a witness, I could and would testify as follows:

1. My name is Hussein Abtidon. I am over the age of twenty-one and I live in Chicago, Illinois.

2. I have been trading on my own for about a year and have learned what I know from online sources. In approximately May 2020, I saw an ad online about making money by trading while I was watching videos on YouTube. I clicked on the ad and it took me to a website. On the website there was information about a presentation for a service called “Trade with Kyle.” I watched the presentation. Kyle Dennis was promoting his service and it looked like he worked for a company called RagingBull.com LLC (“Raging Bull”). Kyle talked about how he made millions using his easy trading strategy and how anyone could use this same strategy to make money. He had testimonials from other subscribers who also said they were making money using his service. He did not explain what his strategy was, but he said that he follows the news about companies to find his trades, and if we follow his trades, we can make money too. He said that he would send out trade alerts through emails and text messages alerting us to the trades he was making. It sounded like a good deal because I could make the trades that he was making and I did not have to do any of the market research or technical analysis that Kyle was using to find his winning trades.

3. I paid approximately $799 with my credit card. He said that we would receive real time alerts, weekly videos explaining his trades, and training videos we could watch. However, he emphasized that all we had to do was follow what he was doing, follow his alerts and we would make money.

4. After I signed up, I began receiving Kyle’s trade alerts through both text and email. I could not get in at the price Kyle said he purchased at and that he sent the alert about to his subscribers. By the time I received the alerts, the price had gone up and I was not able to get in the trade at the same price. Sometimes I got into the trade anyway, but I did not make money. I made a little money on a few trades, but on average I lost money. For example, if I traded on five of his alerts per week, I would sometimes make money on two, but lost money on the other three wiping out any of my gains. I decided to stop using the service because I did not have a lot of money to trade with and I lost approximately $600.

5. I also realized after I signed up that Kyle was investing large sums of money to make the profits he was talking about. For example, he would invest over $25,000 to make returns of over $3000 on his trades. Kyle did not tell us that he was trading with such large amounts of money in his presentation when he was touting his large profits. I do not have that kind of money to play with and could never make trades with that much money.

6. After I signed up, I immediately started receiving tons of solicitation emails about other services offered by Raging Bull. One service that I received several emails about was LottoX by someone named Nathan Bear. On May 6, I received an email with the subject line, "ROOM NOW OPEN" that stated, "YOU HAVE 30 MINUTES." It then stated "By the end of this training, you're going to have everything you need to be able to implement my LottoX indicator into YOUR training." The email also contained a snapshot of Nathan's trading account that showed percentage gains ranging from 9.9% to 400%. There do not appear to be any losses in the snapshot. Attached as Attachment A is a true and correct copy of this email.

7. Also on May 6, I received an email from Nathan Bear with the subject line "Slashed Prices + Performance Guarantee TODAY ONLY." The email contained what appeared to be testimonials from current members. One said, "Already a lottox member. Made $3k today!" Another one said, "he is very Good, todays [sic] all 3 trades crossed 80%." At the bottom of the email, Nathan wrote, "I am offering you a PERFORMANCE GUARANTEE: At least 50 100% winners alerted to you over the next year!" Attached as Attachment B is a true and correct copy of this email.

8. I watched the presentation by Nathan Bear about LottoX. He said that he would alert us to trades he was making, we would stay in the position overnight, and then we would make 100% or more returns the next day. Based on the presentation, I believed I could make 100% returns on Nathan's trades. I had a small account and, under the trading rules for my account, I could only make 4 trades per week. I really liked the fact that this was not day trading and that we would hold the trades overnight. I also really liked the fact that he was going to alert us to the trades he was making so we could make the same trade. Nathan said that he was a millionaire and that if we follow him and do what he does, we could make money too. This sounded great to me and it meant that I would not have to do any of the research on the trades. I could just follow someone who made a lot of money trading.

9. I decided that I did not want to use Trade with Kyle any longer because I could not make money using that service. I called Raging Bull to see if I could get a refund. The sales person told me no. Then I asked if I could switch services and sign up for LottoX. He said I could not do that either. He told me that if I signed up for the second service, though, I could get a 30-day money back guarantee. I decided to purchase that service as well and I paid approximately $1499 with my credit card. With this service, I was supposed to receive real time trade alerts and training videos.

10. I tried to use the service, but I lost all the money I invested. In the presentation, Nathan said that we would make 100% returns overnight, but I lost money overnight. I stopped trying to use Nathan's service when my losses hit $1000. I tried calling and emailing Nathan Bear to ask him how he was able to make money on his trades, but I never received a response. He was alerting us to 10-15 trades per day, but I could not make all of the trades because I did not have enough money. I felt that it would have been more helpful if he sent just a few trades that we could have focused on.

11. I also watched the training videos for both services to see if that would help me. To me, the videos did not explain how to trade on your own. The videos explained that the traders were making trades based on charts and graphs, but there was no in depth explanation about the charts themselves to allow me to use that information on my own. The videos also did not have an explanation of any strategies that I could follow. I did not learn anything from the videos. It seemed to me that for both Kyle and Dennis' services, the mission was to have their subscribers follow what they were doing rather than teach us a strategy to learn on our own.

12. I called customer service within 2 to 3 weeks after I started Nathan's service and within the 30-day money back guarantee time-period to ask for a refund. I tried emailing and calling and could not get an answer from anyone. The person I finally spoke with said I could not get a refund. I explained that my results were not at all like what Nathan promised in his presentation. The customer service representative then said that not all the trades would have returns overnight, but that is not what Nathan said in the presentation, and he should have made that clear. Then the representative said that I had to talk to a supervisor about getting a refund. It took me some time to finally reach a supervisor, and when I finally talked to a supervisor, he said that there are no refunds and at this point it was past the 30 days. I explained that I asked for a refund before the 30 days expired, but he did not listen. It seemed to me like customer service dragged out the process until the 30 days expired so that they did not have to give me a refund.

13. Finally, on approximately June 25, 2020, I filed a complaint with the Better Business Bureau ("BBB") in New Hampshire because Raging Bull's address is in New Hampshire. I asked for a refund only for LottoX because Raging Bull already denied my refund request for Trade with Kyle and the company should have to honor the 30-day money back guarantee the Raging Bull sales agent promised me on the phone for LottoX.

14. Approximately three weeks after I filed the complaint with the BBB, Raging Bull contacted me and told me that I could get a refund, but only if I told the BBB first that I was satisfied with Raging Bull's response. I did as they asked and once I did that, I received a refund of $1499 for LottoX on July 22, 2020. I lost approximately $1600 trading using both services and I never received a refund of the $799 I spent on Trade with Kyle.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.
